New Battle For Don Is Underway

Axis Attacks Said to Be Repulsed by Reds, Who Claim Advances

Fight Goes On

Swift and Surprising Maneuvers Mark Red Army Push

Moscow, Dec. 12 (AP)—The third battle for the elbow of the Don river west of Stalingrad appeared to be underway today with Axis forces launching repeated attacks on the east bank of the river but Russian advices from the front said that the Red Army was repulsing all assaults.

The Russians declared their own advance continued on sectors of both the Stalingrad and central fronts, including a point west of Rzhev, where they forced a water crossing and captured enemy frontline trenches.

The Don elbow, which the Germans occupied last August, was reconquered by Soviet troops in a sweeping push that got underway in force November 19.

The main German object now appeared to be to strike back in this sector to relieve garrisons at which the Russians are pounding.

In a campaign marked by swift turns and surprising maneuver, the Red Army had pushed south from Serafimovich and then turned east toward Stalingrad.

The Germans replied by attacking westward from Stalingrad although they continued to hold the siege before the city against vicious assaults by Red Army troops within the factory area and on the southern fringes.

Despite the repeated counterattacks of the Germans on the Don bend, the Russians said that they held them still confined to the east bank.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, reported that a battalion of German infantry, with 28 tanks in the van, attacked and isolated one Red Army battery.

Neighboring Russian batteries came into play and smashed 23 of the tanks, killed 30 of the attackers, and forced the attackers to retire, Pravda said.

Inside Stalingrad, in the southern area of hte city, Red Star said Soviet troops drove the enemy off two hills, occupied six pillbox positions and killed many Nazi troops.

A small force maintaining a two-week-old foothold deep in the German defenses on the western slope of a hill has repulsed five and six enemy assaults daily, Red Star said.

The newspaper reported that Soviet Stormovik bombers and low-flying attack planes had destroyed several dozen Junkers-52 air transports in raids on airdromes.

On the battle grounds near Rzhev and Velikie Luki, Red Star said one Nazi battalion brought up as reserves Wednesday was marched directly into battle and suffered serious losses. Generally, German counterattacks in the area were proving futile, Red Star said.

(The German radio broadcast a DNB report that Russian forces commanded by General Gregory Zhukov had driven to Belyi, 60 miles southwest of Rzhev and in the direction of Smolensk, a German headquarters point 75 miles south of Belyi.)

Indirectly the communiques of both sides mirrored large scale action by mechanized forces, despite the snow storms of the last week.

The Soviet early commnique today said that 60 enemy transport planes were destroyed in the Stalingrad area during December 10, a four-day total of 133.

The Russian war bulletin also reported that 36 Nazi tanks were knocked out in yesterday's operations on both fronts."

(Yesterday's German communique, heard in broadcasts from Berlin, asserted that 24 Russian aircraft had been shot down in the Volga-Don area and claimed that from December 1 to December 10 the Germans had knocked out 1,262 Russian tanks).

47 Men to Leave City for Upton

Parade Will Be Held From Draft Headquarters to West Shore

Forty-seven men, who had been inducted into the U. S. Army following physical tests at an army induction center, will leave Kingston for Camp Upton on the noon train on the West Shore railroad on Monday. The contingent will be in charge of John P. Brown of 34 Pine street, as acting corporal.

Two of the men — Andrew T. Brutkowski and Roger Hubbard —who were inducted into service from another draft board, will leave with the local contingent Monday.

The 45 men of the contingent are members of the group who passed the physical tests last Monday. Among the group are Irwin J. Thomas, sports writer of The Freeman, and Howard Stephens, who was leader of the group when it was sent to an army induction center in Albany.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, who is serving as grand marshal of all the parades being held to escort the new members of Uncle Sam's army to the train, is arranging for the parade to be held Monday. The parade will form at 11:20 o'clock that morning on Broadway in front of the office of the Kingston draft board in the Central Post Office Building.

The official list of those in the contingent follows:

Schupp, John M.
Miller, Thomas V.
Swint, Robert J.
Senor, George J.

Ship, Traveling as U. S. Troop Transport, Had 4,000 Men Aboard; Four Are Dead

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—The former Liner President Coolidge, operating as an army transport fully loaded with approximately 4,000 troops, hit a mine and sank in the south Pacific, the navy announced today, with a loss of only four men.

"Prompt and efficient rescue efforts" were credited with holding casualties to so small a number, the navy said.

The navy announcement did not disclose in what area of the south Pacific the 21,936-ton vessel was operating at the time and said merely that it was on a war mission.

The names of those lost were not given, but it was stated that the survivors included Henry Nelson (3714 Irving street), San Francisco, the master of the President Coolidge.

This was the tenth transport announced by the navy as having been sunk by enemy action.

The singing of five transports in operation off North Africa early last month was reported on December 3. Prior to that the loss of four troop carriers in the Solomons area had been disclosed.

The President Coolidge was the largest of the ten.

The vessel was owned by the American President Lines of San Francisco but had been chartered and operated by the war shipping administration for the army. It was completed in 1931 at the Newport News, Va., Shipbuilding Company.

Of the actual loss of the vessel the navy said only that it "was lost in recent weeks in the south Pacific."

"The vessel, operating as a transport, was fully loaded with troops and equipment when it struck a mine and sank," the statement continued.

"Through prompt and efficient rescue efforts, casualties were limited to four men."

A navy spokesman said that there were approximately 4,000 troops aboard the ship with only a few score crewmen.

New Haven Pays Interest

Trustees of the New Haven Railroad Co. have been given permission by Judge Hincks of the U. S. District Court to pay nearly $11,200,000 in back interest on bonds of the system. This will make approximately $25,000,000 paid to bondholders within the past year.

Navy Releases New Casualty List for 3 Armed Branches

Three Ulster County Men Are Listed as Killed, Missing in Action and Wounded

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—The navy department announced today that 1,613 new casualties of the navy, marine corps and coastguard were reported to next of kin from November 16-30.

The casualties, which include dead, wounded and missing, brought the total reported to next of kin since the Pearl Harbor attack to 18,838.

Of the new casualties, 546 were reported dead, 660 wounded and 407 missing.

The navy said that some under the classification of "missing" might be rescued or otherwise reported safe.

A recapitulation of casualties to date gave the following totals:

Navy: 4,348 dead; 1,434 wounded; 8,473 missing; total 14,255.

Marine Corps: 1,114 dead; 1,370 wounded; 1921 missing; total 4,405.

Coastguard: 38 dead; 11 wounded; 129 missing; total 178.

The combined totals for these three branches of the services:

Dead, 5,550; wounded, 2,815; missing, 10,523; total, 18,838. The list includes all states and the District of Columbia. The territory of Hawaii also is included but there are no reports for the other territories or possessions.

Among those listed as missing in action are Charles Benjamin Pierpont, fireman, second class, U. S. Navy, a son of William Benjamin Pierpont of Woodstock.

William John White, seaman, second class, U. S. Naval Reserve, son of Edward F. White, Woodstock, killed in action.

Marcel P. Munier, private U. S. Marine Corps, a son of Joseph Munier of Kingston, wounded.

Georgiana Cooper Will

New York, Dec. 11 (Special)—The will of the late Mrs. Georgiana Cooper of Highmount and New York was filed for probate in Surrogate's Court here today. It disposes of property declared formally to be "more than $10.-000." Among the beneficiaries is the American Red Cross of Ulster County, which will receive linens, blankets and clothing. One half of the residency estate will go to the New York Post-Graduate Hospital and the Medical School of Columbia University. The other half is shared equally by Helen Feuer and Isabelle Beach, both of this city, who will also receive jewelry. Mrs. Cooper died in New York on December 1, 1942. Her estate has not as yet been appraised.

Horsemeat Is in Demand

Boston, Dec. 12 (AP)—Pressed by heavy demands for horsemeat for public consumption, a Boston wholesale firm, which described the product as "just as good as some cattle beef," today began distributing its second 30,000-pound carload within a week. An executive of the Clinton Beef Co., who asked that his name be withheld, said that the first 30,000 pounds sold within three days and that repeat orders came in rapidly from retailers who reported that customers expressed "complete satisfaction" with the product.

Her Name Sponsors Plane

Appearing in today's New York Daily News is a picture of Jane Ball, daughter of Mrs. Anna Ball of Albany avenue. Miss Ball has been honored by the combat crew of a flying fortress at Briggs Field, Tex., who have named their ship for her. She is currently appearing at the Copacabana Club, New York city.

400,000 Coal and Wood Burning Stoves Will Help Fuel Situation

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—An extra 400,000 coal and wood-burning heating stoves will be made available during the coming winter months to relieve the fuel oil shortage, particularly along the Atlantic coast, says Joseph L. Weiner, director of the office of civilian supply of the war production board.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the American Standards Association, Weiner said yesterday that stove manufacturers would be permitted to make an extra 300,000 stoves, while another 100,000 would be diverted from army to civilian use.

To make certain that these stoves "go mainly to the areas where they are most needed, and to the persons who most need them," the office of price administration has been requested to control their distribution by rationing, Weiner said.

The O.P.A. has announced that the dates of expiration of fuel oil ration coupons numbered one and two—each of which entitles the holder to 10 gallons—have been extended one week.

Originally due to expire December 16, coupon number one has been extended to December 23, while coupon number two, originally due to be void January 19, will be good until January 26.

An O.P.A. spokesman explained that the periods during which the two coupons may be used overlap since the second coupon became usable December 2. This overlapping was provided, the O.P.A. explained, to prevent rushes on the last day to use expiring coupons followed by first-day rushes when a new coupon becomes effective.

County Salaries Will Be $130,554; Bonus to Be Given

Ten Per Cent Would Be Given to Compensate for Added Cost of Living; 9 Increases Asked

The total amount of salaries paid out to employes of the County of Ulster for 1943 will be $130,-554 compared to $126,850 which was paid out in 1942, a total increase of $3,704.00 on base salaries but certain of the employes in the lower salary bracket will be given an additional bonus to compensate them for the increased cost of living. This bonus for 10 per cent, if voted at the Monday session of the board, will be paid to all employes whose salaries are $1,500 or less, except workers in the County Highway Department who do not participate in the bonus plan. The 10 per cent bonus which is proposed for 1943 will not apply to any employe who holds two positions and whose combined salaries are over $1,500.

There were nine increases in salary recommended by the committee which made its report to the board Friday evening.

These increases in some instances do not represent a true increase since two of the offices had retained certain additional fees in the past. The jailor receives an increase from $1,760 to $2,150 but this increase represents total salary where in the past there was an additional payment to him for finger-printing. In the case of the clerk of the surrogate's court there was also an increase from $2,200 to $2,750 but certain fees which formerly were retained by the clerk must now be turned over to the county treasurer and credited to the county.

Two assistant day jailors and one assistant night jailor received an increase from $1,300 to $1,400 and the clerk in the sheriff's office received a raise from $900 to $1,000.

Chief Probation Officer Lawrence M. Jenson is given an increase from $1,800 to $2,250 and Dwight McEntee, senior clerk in the county treasurer's office is given an increase from $2,600 to $2,-800. The county service officer also is increased from $1,800 to $2,150.

In prior years the clerk of the Board of Supervisors was given a $2,500 salary as clerk and an additional $500 as clerk to the county auditor. This salary is now combined at a total of $3,000 for both jobs and listed as Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.

Only one additional job is listed, that of executive secretary of the County Civil Service Commission at $1,800 a year. This position becomes necessary because of the county employes going under civil service on January 1, 1943.

The salary schedule offered by the committee on salaries for 1943 is as follows:

Sheriff	$5,500.00
Under Sheriff	2,400.00
Jailor	2,150.00
Assistant Day Jailor	1,400.00
Night Jailor	1,700,00

11 Youths of 18 Register at Board

Eleven boys who had reached the age of 18 years registered in the sixth draft at the office of the Kingston draft board in the Central Post Office Building on Friday, the first day of registration.

All youths who were born in the period between July 1 and August 31, 1924, inclusive, must register with the draft board in the period between December 11 and 17, inclusive.

The county draft boards, outside of Kingston, also report similar light registration on the first day.

The draft office will be open daily from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m.

Politicians Turn Their Attentions To Fractious South

Democrats Go Into Huddle Over Rumblings Among Southerners; Third Party Threatened

(By The Associated Press)

National political leaders turned suddenly speculative eyes on the midwest and deep south today as a "diagnostic" Democratic huddle developed in the wake of critical rumblings from the party's chief sectional stronghold.

Under the cloud of third party threats from two Democratic stalwarts—a former cabinet member and a southern governor—Democratic leaders from nine midwestern states met today in a surprise session in Omaha in an announced effort to form a united farm front.

Only the importance attached to the meeting by national party heads—reportedly not even consulted in its calling—seemed likely to save it from the stamp of a rump conference. Nebraska National Commiteeman James C. Quigley said that Eugene Casey, special assistant to President Roosevelt, and Oscar R. Ewing, national Democratic party vice chairman, will participate and attributed their planned attendance to Washington's interest in the event.

However, he stressed that Iowa and Nebraska party leaders called the meeting without "inspiration in Washington," and that its "decisions will be our own."

Dixieland, meanwhile, heard the charges of Alabama Governor Frank M. Dixon that the Democratic party was "dynamiting" the south's social structure.

Speaking before the southern society of New York last night, Dixon said formation of a southern Democratic party was being strongly suggested and cautioned that "confusion" caused by pressure groups in Washington "is likely to cause the defeat of the next Democratic candidate for president."

Spurring speculation as to whether Dixon's diatribe might be part of an impromptu attempt to split the Democratic party was the Commonwealth Party proposal of former Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring in Topeka, Kansas.

Although the former Democratic governor of Kansas and cabinet member during President Roosevelt's second term said he was bidding for what he called the lost souls of the Democratic and Republican parties, his strongest criticism was aimed at the New Deal.

Rommel Charged With Vital Role In Coming Fight

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

With the British Eighth Army in Libya, Dec. 12—The impending showdown between Allied and Axis forces on the desert about El Agheila promises not only to rank among the decisive battles of the war but involves one of the greatest personal dramas of the entire conflict.

Nazi Marshal Rommel will be in the full glare of the limelight which he loves so well and manages to hold so often. He has been selected by his master to make the sacrifice, performing the seemingly impossible holding operation to give Hitler time to realign his storm-torn fences in Europe.

Rommel's job is to hold on as long as the devil will let him. And of course his fate involves not only his own front, but that in Tunisia as well.

One's first impulse is to say Rommel is being made the goat, but that's not fair. A man who is among the greatest soldiers of his day is entitled to more dignified characterization than that. We would say that poor Mussolini, whose jaw is bigger than his head, is the goat since he has played a stupid role for Hitler. But Rommel has been assigned a fighting man's task and it will be interesting to see whether he takes it in his usual jaunty stride.

In these days of rapid changes one is chary of applying any such term as suicidal to Rommel's task. We can say however the odds are against him right now and it's highly improbable that either he or Hitler believes Northern Africa can be held for long.

Rommel's debacle at El Alamein at the end of October stripped him pretty clean.

The worst aspect of his situation, however, lies in the fact he has slim reinforcements from Europe to pull him through. He's getting some aid, mainly by air, and so are the Axis forces in Tunisia.

Hitler undoubtedly will manage to send more help to both these theatres, especially in air power, but the dangers which beset him on the continent both by land and air are compelling him to keep strong forces there.

If it were possible for him to detach a large proportion of his luftwaffe for use in Africa his chances of keeping a toehold on the dark continent would be improved vastly, but he dares not strip Europe of air power.

British and American bombers are pouring destruction on Germany and the Hitlerian dependencies. The Russians area tearing at Nazi lines and a potential Allied invasion of the continent menaces him from divers directions. He would be mad to denude Europe of defenses.

Therefore we see the Nazi allhighest staging a holding operation in Africa to give him time to get set for action in Europe. He must consolidate his position in an Italy which, so to speak, sits under the big guns of the Allies and would desert him if it had the physical strength to throw him out of the country.

He must halt that Russian offensive if he is to prevent it from crashing through his eastern defenses. He must avert an invasion through southern and western France and other points. And he must maintain large forces in the occupied countries to prevent an uprising.

Despite all this I believe we

U. S. Alarm Clock Supply Is Running Low and No More May Be Bought

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Sooner or later, some smart-aleck is sure to say that the alarm clock situation is alarming.

Since it is, federal officials beat punners to the punch today and hinted that folks should not kill the old red rooster. He may be needed to wake war workers up in the morning.

Some such solution, or perhaps a more practical one, is being sought to shake the nation's sleepy-heads out of it when the sun begins to shine, for not only are no more civilian alarm clocks being made, but also the supply is gone from almost all markets.

The alarm clock had (past tense, please) a lot of brass. It also contained much copper. Both, quoth the War Production Board recently, are needed to fight a war. So they stopped the clock-making of copper and brass.

Wide-awake clock-makers promptly began to build little gadgets like bombsights, to help put the Axis to sleep.

But the public yawned, not waking up to the truth until it tried to buy a new clock. Came then the dawn. Besides the domestic shortage, there naturally are no longer any imported models from Germany and Japan.

At any rate, commerce department officials said only one company still is in the slumber-busting business—putting out an experimental plastic covered job — strictly for the fighting men. It only needs a little steel in its innards, they said, and if it sounds like a tired tripnammer, it's still

Long-Range Allied Fighters Fight Fierce Weather Conditions in Attack

Blow Is Expected

Eisenhower Is to Hit Savagely at Axis, Is African Report

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

R. A. F. warplanes fought their way through cloud banks four miles thick and risked the deadly peril of ice-coated wings to blast northern Italy before dawn today, attacking the Royal Arsenal city of Turin for the third time this week.

Simultaneously, the British announced that Allied planes of the Middle East command again bombed the Italian port of Naples in daylight yesterday, setting fires along the entire waterfront and scoring hits on merchant vessels.

Naples is a main Axis base for supplying the German-Italian armies in North Africa.

The Italian high command acknowledged heavy damage at Naples and listed casualties at 57 killed and 138 injured.

A Fascist communique said 10 American fliers—the crew of one bomber shot down—had been taken prisoner, indicating that the big B-24 Liberator bombers of the U. S. Army Air Forces had hit Naples for the second time in eight days.

The Italians said only slight damage was inflicted in the night raid on Turin.

The R. A. F.'s tempestuous blows at Nazi-conquered Europe were further highlighted by a Paris radio report that 190 persons were killed and 219 injured in a British raid last Sunday on Eindhoven, Holland.

In addition to the attacks on Naples and Turin, long-range Allied fighters winging out over the Mediterranean intercepted a convoy of north-bound Axis transport planes, shooting down at least eight transports, one bomber and four twin-engined fighters.

Results Are Obscured

Dense clouds obscured the results of the R. A. F.'s overnight smash at Turin, home of the Fiat works and other war industries.

At least part of a large force that set out on the hazardous 1,200-mile round trip flight across the Alps reached their goal, the British reported, while others apparently missed their bearings and dropped bombs on Swiss and French soil.

Three bombers were listed as missing.

A Vichy broadcast said planes believed to be British had bombed the town of Annency, near the Italian frontier, 95 miles from Turin, killing three persons.

At the same time, the Swiss government announced that foreign planes dropped incendiaries on Sins and Canton Argovie in northeast Switzerland, damaging several buildings, and started a forest fire at Canton Valais in western Switzerland near the French border.

Already battered into nearly "ghost city" ruins, Turin had been heavily bombed by home-base British raiders on Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Other key developments:

Tunisia—Fighting in mud described as worse than "the mud of the Somme" in the 1914-18 World War, American, British and French troops were reported holding an almost straight line in the hills before Tunis and Bizerte today after crushing a strong German drive toward Medjez El Bab, 35 miles southwest of Tunis.

Italian headquarters asserted that Axis troops had extended their holdings in renewed local fighting, and the Nazi-controlled Vichy radio said German columns were maintaining pressure against Allied positions southwest of Tebourba.

Both sides were hampered by bad weather.

While Allied headquarters still gave only the meagerest details on the struggle, a spokesman expressed confidence that Lieut.-Gen. Dwight G. Eisenhower would marshal an overwhelming striking force "in due time" to drive the Germans back into the sea.

The spokesman indicated, however, that the Nazis, heavily reinforced by air-borne troops and supplies, were apparently strong enough at the moment to take the initiative in some sectors.

British front-line dispatches estimated that the Axis now had 23,-000 German troops and 5,000 Italians in the French North African colony, while the Allies were still bringing up their forces across hundreds of miles of rugged coastal mountains.

"The enemy has been able to

Axis Attacks Said to Be Repulsed by Reds, Who Claim Advances

Fight Goes On

Swift and Surprising Maneuvers Mark Red Army Push

Moscow, Dec. 12 (AP)—The third battle for the elbow of the Don river west of Stalingrad appeared to be underway today with Axis forces launching repeated attacks on the east bank of the river but Russian advices from the front said that the Red Army was repulsing all assaults.

The Russians declared their own advance continued on sectors of both the Stalingrad and central fronts, including a point west of Rzhev, where they forced a water crossing and captured enemy frontline trenches.

The Don elbow, which the Germans occupied last August, was reconquered by Soviet troops in a sweeping push that got underway in force November 19.

The main German object now appeared to be to strike back in this sector to relieve garrisons at which the Russians are pounding.

In a campaign marked by swift turns and surprising maneuver, the Red Army had pushed south from Serafimovich and then turned east toward Stalingrad.

The Germans replied by attacking westward from Stalingrad although they continued to hold the siege before the city against vicious assaults by Red Army troops within the factory area and on the southern fringes.

Despite the repeated counter-attacks of the Germans on the Don bend, the Russians said that they held them still confined to the east bank.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, reported that a battalion of German infantry, with 28 tanks in the van, attacked and isolated one Red Army battery.

Neighboring Russian batteries came into play and smashed 23 of the tanks, killed 30 of the attackers, and forced the attackers to retire, Pravda said.

Inside Stalingrad, in the southern area of the city, Red Star said Soviet troops drove the enemy off two hills, occupied six pillbox positions and killed many Nazi troops.

A small force maintaining a two-week-old foothold deep in the German defenses on the western slope of a hill has repulsed five and six enemy assaults daily, Red Star said.

The newspaper reported that Soviet Stormovik bombers and low-flying attack planes had destroyed several dozen Junkers-52 air transports in raids on airdromes.

On the battle grounds near Rzhev and Velikie Luki, Red Star said one Nazi battalion brought up as reserves Wednesday was marched directly into battle and suffered serious losses. Generally, German counterattacks in the area were proving futile, Red Star said.

(The German radio broadcast a DNB report that Russian forces commanded by General Gregory Zhukov had driven to Belyi, 60 miles southwest of Rzhev and in the direction of Smolensk, a German headquarters point 75 miles south of Belyi.)

Indirectly the communiques of both sides mirrored large scale action by mechanized forces, despite the snow storms of the last week.

The Soviet early communique today said that 60 enemy transport planes were destroyed in the Stalingrad area during December 10, a four-day total of 133.

The Russian war bulletin also reported that 36 Nazi tanks were knocked out in yesterday's operations on both fronts."

(Yesterday's German communique, heard in broadcasts from Berlin, asserted that 24 Russian aircraft had been shot down in the Stalingrad-Don area and claimed that from December 1 to December 10 the Germans had knocked out 1,262 Russian tanks).

47 Men to Leave City for Upton

Parade Will Be Held From Draft Headquarters to West Shore

Forty-seven men, who had been inducted into the U. S. Army following physical tests at an army induction center, will leave Kingston for Camp Upton on the noon train on the West Shore railroad on Monday. The contingent will be in charge of John P. Brown of 34 Pine street, as acting corporal.

Two of the men — Andrew T. Brutkowski and Roger Hubbard — who were inducted into service from another draft board, will leave with the local contingent Monday.

The 45 men of the contingent are members of the group who passed the physical tests last Monday. Among the group are Irwin J. Thomas, sports writer of The Freeman, and Howard Stephens, who was leader of the group when it was sent to an army induction center in Albany.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, who is serving as grand marshal of all the parades being held to escort the new members of Uncle Sam's army to the train, is arranging for the parade to be held Monday. The parade will form at 11:20 o'clock that morning on Broadway in front of the office of the Kingston draft board in the Central Post Office Building.

The official list of those in the contingent follows:

Ship, Traveling as U. S. Troop Transport, Had 4,000 Men Aboard; Four Are Dead

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—The former Liner President Coolidge, operating as an army transport fully loaded with approximately 4,000 troops, hit a mine and sank in the south Pacific, the navy announced today, with a loss of only four men.

"Prompt and efficient rescue efforts" were credited with holding casualties to so small a number, the navy said.

The navy announcement did not disclose in what area of the south Pacific the 21,936-ton vessel was operating at the time and said merely that it was on a war mission.

The names of those lost were not given, but it was stated that the survivors included Henry Nelson (3714 Irving street), San Francisco, the master of the President Coolidge.

This was the tenth transport announced by the navy as having been sunk by enemy action.

The singing of five transports in operation off North Africa early last month was reported on December 3. Prior to that the loss of four troop carriers in the Solomons area had been disclosed.

The President Coolidge was the largest of the ten.

The vessel was owned by the American President Lines of San Francisco but had been chartered and operated by the war shipping administration for the army. It was completed in 1931 at the Newport News, Va., Shipbuilding Company.

Of the actual loss of the vessel the navy said only that it "was lost in recent weeks in the south Pacific."

"The vessel, operating as a transport, was fully loaded with troops and equipment when it struck a mine and sank," the statement continued.

"Through prompt and efficient rescue efforts, casualties were limited to four men."

A navy spokesman said that there were approximately 4,000 troops aboard the ship with only a few score crewmen.

New Haven Pays Interest

Trustees of the New Haven Railroad Co. have been given permission by Judge Hincks of the U. S. District Court to pay nearly $11,200,000 in back interest on bonds of the system. This will make approximately $25,000,000 paid to bondholders within the past year.

Navy Releases New Casualty List for 3 Armed Branches

Three Ulster County Men Are Listed as Killed, Missing in Action and Wounded

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—The navy department announced today that 1,613 new casualties of the navy, marine corps and coastguard were reported to next of kin from November 16-30.

The casualties, which include dead, wounded and missing, brought the total reported to next of kin since the Pearl Harbor attack to 18,838.

Of the new casualties, 546 were reported dead, 660 wounded and 407 missing.

The navy said that some under the classification of "missing" might be rescued or otherwise reported safe.

A recapitulation of casualties to date gave the following totals:

Navy: 4,348 dead; 1,434 wounded; 8,473 missing; total 14,255.

Marine Corps: 1,114 dead; 1,370 wounded; 1921 missing; total 4,405.

Coastguard: 38 dead; 11 wounded; 129 missing; total 178.

The combined totals for these three branches of the services:

Dead, 5,550; wounded, 2,815; missing, 10,523; total, 18,838. The list includes all states and the District of Columbia. The territory of Hawaii also is included but there are no reports for the other territories or possessions.

Among those listed as missing in action are Charles Benjamin Pierpont, fireman, second class, U. S. Navy, a son of William Benjamin Pierpont of Woodstock.

William John White, seaman, second class, U. S. Naval Reserve, son of Edward F. White, Woodstock, killed in action.

Marcel P. Munier, private U. S. Marine Corps, a son of Joseph Munier of Kingston, wounded.

Georgiana Cooper Will

New York, Dec. 11 (Special)—The will of the late Mrs. Georgiana Cooper of Highmount and New York was filed for probate in Surrogate's Court here today. It disposes of property declared formally to be "more than $10,000." Among the beneficiaries is the American Red Cross of Ulster County, which will receive linens, blankets and clothing. One half of the residency estate will go to the New York Post-Graduate Hospital and the Medical School of Columbia University. The other half is shared equally by Helen Feuer and Isabelle Beach, both of this city, who will also receive jewelry. Mrs. Cooper died in New York on December 1, 1942. Her estate has not as yet been appraised.

Horsemeat Is in Demand

Boston, Dec. 12 (AP)—Pressed by heavy demands for horsemeat for public consumption, a Boston wholesale firm, which described the product as "just as good as some cattle beef," today began distributing its second 30,000-pound carload within a week. An executive of the Clinton Beef Co., who asked that his name be withheld, said that the first 30,000 pounds sold within three days and that repeat orders came in rapidly from retailers who reported that customers expressed "complete satisfaction" with the product.

Appearing in today's New York Daily News is a picture of Jane Ball, daughter of Mrs. Anna Ball of Albany avenue. Miss Ball has been honored by the combat crew of a flying fortress at Briggs Field, Tex., who have named their ship for her. She is currently appearing at the Copacabana Club, New York city.

400,000 Coal and Wood Burning Stoves Will Help Fuel Situation

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—An extra 400,000 coal and wood-burning heating stoves will be made available during the coming winter months to relieve the fuel oil shortage, particularly along the Atlantic coast, says Joseph L. Weiner, director of the office of civilian supply of the war production board.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the American Standards Association, Weiner said yesterday that stove manufacturers would be permitted to make an extra 300,000 stoves, while another 100,000 would be diverted from army to civilian use.

To make certain that these stoves "go mainly to the areas where they are most needed, and to the persons who most need them," the office of price administration has been requested to control their distribution by rationing, Weiner said.

The O.P.A. has announced that the dates of expiration of fuel oil ration coupons numbered one and two—each of which entitles the holder to 10 gallons—have been extended one week.

Originally due to expire December 16, coupon number one has been extended to December 23, while coupon number two, originally due to be void January 19, will be good until January 26.

An O.P.A. spokesman explained that the periods during which the two coupons may be used overlap since the second coupon became usable December 2. This overlapping was provided, the O.P.A. explained, to prevent rushes on the last day to use expiring coupons followed by first-day rushes when a new coupon becomes effective.

County Salaries Will Be $130,554; Bonus to Be Given

Ten Per Cent Would Be Given to Compensate for Added Cost of Living; 9 Increases Asked

The total amount of salaries paid out to employes of the County of Ulster for 1943 will be $130,554 compared to $126,850 which was paid out in 1942, a total increase of $3,701.00 on base salaries but certain of the employes in the lower salary bracket will be given an additional bonus to compensate them for the increased cost of living. This bonus for 10 per cent, if voted at the Monday session of the board, will be paid to all employes whose salaries are $1,500 or less, except workers in the County Highway Department who do not participate in the bonus plan. The 10 per cent bonus which is proposed for 1943 will not apply to any employe who holds two positions and whose combined salaries are over $1,500.

There were nine increases in salary recommended by the committee which made its report to the board Friday evening.

These increases in some instances do not represent a true increase since two of the offices had retained certain additional fees in the past. The jailor receives an increase from $1,760 to $2,150, but this increase represents total salary where in the past there was an additional payment to him for finger-printing. In the case of the clerk of the surrogate's court there was also an increase from $2,200 to $2,750 but certain fees which formerly were retained by the clerk must now be turned over to the county treasurer and credited to the county.

Two assistant day jailors and one assistant night jailor received an increase from $1,300 to $1,400 and the clerk in the sheriff's office received a raise from $900 to $1,000.

Chief Probation Officer Lawrence M. Jenson is given an increase from $1,800 to $2,250 and Dwight McEntee, senior clerk in the county treasurer's office is given an increase from $2,600 to $2,800. The county service officer also is increased from $1,800 to $2,150.

In prior years the clerk of the Board of Supervisors was given a $2,500 salary as clerk and an additional $500 as clerk to the county auditor. This salary is now combined at a total of $3,000 for both jobs and listed as Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.

Only one additional job is listed, that of executive secretary of the County Civil Service Commission at $1,800 a year. This position becomes necessary because of the county employes going under civil service on January 1, 1943.

The salary schedule offered by the committee on salaries for 1943 is as follows:

Sheriff	$5,500.00
Under Sheriff	2,400.00
Jailor	2,150.00
Assistant Day Jailor	1,400.00

11 Youths of 18 Register at Board

Eleven boys who had reached the age of 18 years registered in the sixth draft at the office of the Kingston draft board in the Central Post Office Building on Friday, the first day of registration.

All youths who were born in the period between July 1 and August 31, 1924, inclusive, must register with the draft board in the period between December 11 and 17, inclusive.

The county draft boards, outside of Kingston, also report similar light registration on the first day.

The draft office will be open daily from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m.

Politicians Turn Their Attentions To Fractious South

(By The Associated Press)

National political leaders turned suddenly speculative eyes on the midwest and deep south today as a "diagnostic" Democratic huddle developed in the wake of critical rumblings from the party's chief sectional stronghold.

Under the cloud of third party threats from two Democratic stalwarts—a former cabinet member and a southern governor—Democratic leaders from nine midwestern states met today in a surprise session in Omaha in an announced effort to form a united farm front.

Only the importance attached to the meeting by national party heads—reportedly not even consulted in its calling—seemed likely to save it from the stamp of a rump conference. Nebraska National Committeeman James C. Quigley said that Eugene Casey, special assistant to President Roosevelt, and Oscar R. Ewing, national Democratic party vice chairman, will participate and attributed their planned attendance to Washington's interest in the event.

However, he stressed that Iowa and Nebraska party leaders called the meeting without "inspiration in Washington," and that its "decisions will be our own."

Dixieland, meanwhile, heard the charges of Alabama Governor Frank M. Dixon that the Democratic party was "dynamiting" the south's social structure.

Speaking before the southern society of New York last night, Dixon said formation of a southern Democratic party was being strongly suggested and cautioned that "confusion" caused by pressure groups in Washington "is likely to cause the defeat of the next Democratic candidate for president."

Spurring speculation as to whether Dixon's diatribe might be part of an impromptu attempt to split the Democratic party was the Commonwealth Party proposal of former Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring in Topeka, Kansas.

Although the former Democratic governor of Kansas and cabinet member during President Roosevelt's second term said he was bidding for what he called the lost souls of the Democratic and Republican parties, his strongest criticism was aimed at the New Deal.

Rommel Charged With Vital Role In Coming Fight

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

With the British Eighth Army in Libya, Dec. 12—The impending showdown between Allied and Axis forces on the desert about El Agheila promises not only to rank among the decisive battles of the war but involves one of the greatest personal dramas of the entire conflict.

Nazi Marshal Rommel will be in the full glare of the limelight which he loves so well and manages to hold so often. He has been selected by his master to make the sacrifice, performing the seemingly impossible holding operation to give Hitler time to reallign his storm-torn fences in Europe.

Rommel's job is to hold on as long as the devil will let him. And of course his fate involves not only his own front, but that in Tunisia as well.

One's first impulse is to say Rommel is being made the goal, but that's not fair. A man who is among the greatest soldiers of his day is entitled to more dignified characterization than that. We would say that poor Mussolini, whose jaw is bigger than his head, is the gont since he has played a stupid role for Hitler. But Rommel has been assigned a fighting man's task and it will be interesting to see whether he takes it in his usual jaunty stride.

In these days of rapid changes one is chary of applying any such term as suicidal to Rommel's task. We can say however the odds are against him right now and it's highly improbable that either he or Hitler believes Northern Africa can be held for long.

Rommel's debacle at El Alamein at the end of October stripped him pretty clean.

The worst aspect of his situation, however, lies in the fact he has slim reinforcements from Europe to pull him through. He's getting some aid, mainly by air, and so are the Axis forces in Tunisia.

Hitler undoubtedly will manage to send more help to both these theatres, especially in air power, but the dangers which beset him on the continent both by land and air are compelling him to keep strong forces there.

If it were possible for him to detach a large proportion of his luftwaffe for use in Africa his chances of keeping a toehold on the dark continent would be improved vastly, but he dares not strip Europe of air power.

British and American bombers are pouring destruction on Germany and the Hitlerian dependencies. The Russians are tearing at Nazi lines and a potential Allied invasion of the continent menaces him from divers directions. He would be mad to denude Europe of defenses.

Therefore we see the Nazi all-highest staging a holding operation in Africa to give him time to get set for action in Europe. He must consolidate his position in an Italy which, so to speak, sits under the big guns of the Allies and would desert him if it had the physical strength to throw him out of the country.

He must halt that Russian offensive if he is to prevent it from crashing through his eastern defenses. He must avert an invasion through southern and western France and other points. And he must maintain large forces in the occupied countries to prevent an uprising.

Despite all this I believe we

Blow Is Expected

Eisenhower Is to Hit Savagely at Axis, Is African Report

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

R. A. F. warplanes fought their way through cloud banks four miles thick and risked the deadly peril of ice-coated wings to blast northern Italy before dawn today, attacking the Royal Arsenal city of Turin for the third time this week.

Simultaneously, the British announced that Allied planes of the Middle East command again bombed the Italian port of Naples in daylight yesterday, setting fires along the entire waterfront and scoring hits on merchant vessels.

Naples is a main Axis base for supplying the German-Italian armies in North Africa.

The Italian high command acknowledged heavy damage at Naples and listed casualties at 57 killed and 138 injured.

A Fascist communique said 10 American fliers—the crew of one bomber shot down—had been taken prisoner, indicating that the big B-24 Liberator bombers of the U. S. Army Air Forces had hit Naples for the second time in eight days.

The Italians said only slight damage was inflicted in the night raid on Turin.

The R. A. F.'s tempestuous blows at Nazi-conquered Europe were further highlighted by a Paris radio report that 190 persons were killed and 219 injured in a British raid last Sunday on Eindhoven, Holland.

In addition to the attacks on Naples and Turin, long-range Allied fighters winging out over the Mediterranean intercepted a convoy of north-bound Axis transport planes, shooting down at least eight transports, one bomber and four twin-engined fighters.

Results Are Obscured

Dense clouds obscured the results of the R. A. F.'s overnight smash at Turin, home of the Fiat works and other war industries.

At least part of a large force that set out on the hazardous 1,200-mile round trip flight across the Alps reached their goal, the British reported, while others apparently missed their bearings and dropped bombs on Swiss and French soil.

Three bombers were listed as missing.

A Vichy broadcast said planes believed to be British had bombed the town of Annecy, near the Italian frontier, 95 miles from Turin, killing three persons.

At the same time, the Swiss government announced that foreign planes dropped incendiaries on Sins and Canton Argovie in northeast Switzerland, damaging several buildings, and started a forest fire at Canton Valais in western Switzerland near the French border.

Already battered into nearly "ghost city" ruins, Turin had been heavily bombed by home-base British raiders on Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Other key developments:

Tunisia—Fighting in mud described as worse than "the mud of the Somme" in the 1914-18 World War, American, British and French troops were reported holding an almost straight line in the hills before Tunis and Bizerte today after crushing a strong German drive toward Medjez El Bab, 35 miles southwest of Tunis.

Italian headquarters asserted that Axis troops had extended their holdings in renewed local fighting, and the Nazi-controlled Vichy radio said German columns were maintaining pressure against Allied positions southwest of Tebourba.

Both sides were hampered by bad weather.

While Allied headquarters still gave only the meagerest details on the struggle, a spokesman expressed confidence that Lieut.-Gen. Dwight G. Eisenhower would marshal an overwhelming striking force "in due time" to drive the Germans back into the sea.

The spokesman indicated, however, that the Nazis, heavily reinforced by air-borne troops and supplies, were apparently strong enough at the moment to take the initiative in some sectors.

British front-line dispatches estimated that the Axis now had 23,000 German troops and 5,000 Italians in the French North African colony, while the Allies were still bringing up their forces across hundreds of miles of rugged coastal mountains.

"The enemy has been able to

U. S. Alarm Clock Supply Is Running Low and No More May Be Bought

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Sooner or later, some smart-aleck is sure to say that the alarm clock situation is alarming.

Since it is, federal officials beat punners to the punch today and hinted that folks should not kill the old red rooster. He may be needed to wake war workers up in the morning.

Some such solution, or perhaps a more practical one, is being sought to shake the nation's sleepy-heads out of it when the sun begins to shine, for not only are no more civilian alarm clocks being made, but also the supply is gone from almost all marikets.

The alarm clock had (past tense, please) a lot of brass. It also contained much copper, (Hello, ouch, like a third interne, it's all) the War Production Board recently, are needed to fight a war. So they stopped the clock-making of copper and brass.

Wide-awake clock-makers promptly began to build little gadgets like bombsights, to help put the Axis to sleep.

But the public yawned, not waking up to the truth until it tried to buy a new clock. Came then the dawn. Besides the domestic shortage, these naturally are no longer any imported models from Germany and Japan.

At any rate, commerce department officials said only one company still is in the slumber-busting business—putting out an experimental plastic covered job — strictly for the fighting men. It only needs a little steel in its innards, they said, and if it sounds like a fired interne, it's all.

Heat Plan for Iceland Held Up

War Interrupts Project to Harness Numerous Hot Springs of Country.

REYKJAVIK, ICELAND. — Iceland's ambitious program to utilize one of its few natural resources—a project to harness its numerous hot springs to heat homes and business houses—is being delayed by the war.

In a warring world, with the belligerents hard put to find shipping space for war supplies—and needing raw materials to make implements of battle—neutral little Iceland simply hasn't been able to obtain the necessary iron pipes and machinery to complete this peaceful enterprise.

Iceland, geologically speaking, is a young country formed by a series of volcanic eruptions which piled hundreds of basaltic layers on top of each other. So the rugged, barren country has no deposits of coal, oil or gas. Its few trees are stunted in growth and are a slight source of fuel. Farmers in some districts produce peat and also burn sheep dung. But urban Iceland must import its fuel, as well as most of its building materials.

Hot All Year Round.

Many homes, schools and hothouses in rural areas, as well as the American army's largest hospital, already are heated by scalding hot water from near-by springs. The water in most of Iceland's hot springs remains at its unusually high temperature the year round irrespective of weather conditions.

Some of these springs are only a foot or two in diameter. In areas where they are found, the Icelandic housewife doesn't have to worry about fuel to cook the family dinner. She merely puts the food in a pan and lowers it into a hot spring.

The project to tap these springs to heat Reykjavik was launched about ten years ago when the city council purchased a large group of hot springs some ten miles away. Several years elapsed before the government was able to negotiate loans with Danish banks to finance the project. A Danish engineering firm was employed in 1937 and at last the work began. It progressed slowly, but now concrete conduits to house the iron piping have been constructed from the springs to the city and through some of its streets.

Delays in obtaining materials persisted after outbreak of the war. Eventually enough pipes and machinery to complete the job were purchased from Germany, Belgium and Denmark and assembled at Copenhagen. A ship carrying them was almost ready to sail for Reykjavik when Germany invaded Norway and Denmark in April of 1940.

Negotiations With Germany.

Prolonged negotiations between the Icelandic government and the belligerent nations began. The Germans, a Reykjavik representative of the Danish engineering firm said, finally agreed to release the materials but refused to permit ships operating in the Baltic sea to carry the goods. Efforts to get permission for Icelandic vessels to go through the blockade after them proved fruitless.

After the United States joined Great Britain in military occupation of the island, Iceland turned to America for help, and sent a government commission to purchase materials anew.

One shipment of materials has since arrived, but Iceland still does not have enough to complete the project. Because of the acute shipping problem and wartime priorities on materials, it is uncertain when any more will be forthcoming.

Meanwhile, Reykjavik, now a badly overcrowded city of 42,000 persons, will continue to heat its buildings with coal imported from England. Last winter this fuel cost local citizenry $22 a ton.

Older Men Are Gaining Positions in Industry

WASHINGTON.—Older men have been increasing in the ranks of industry as the war has progressed, but the census bureau finds that substantial relief from the man-power shortage cannot be obtained from the older male groups.

There were 17,800,000 men 45 years or older in the United States on April 1, 1940, and 13,700,000 of these were already in the labor force. This left 4,100,000 not in the force, of whom 1,500,000 were 45-64 years old, and 2,600,000 were 65 and over.

Of the 4,100,000 not in the labor force, 2,800,000 were reported unable to work or were in institutions.

This left a reservoir of only 1,300,000 older men, and about 700,000 of them were 65 years old and over.

When parents and teachers in the Sierra de Zongolica district of Mexico recently complained of a lack of schools, the Government promptly ordered the construction of 34 rural schools.

Railroad Sends Christmas Boxes To Men in Service

There are 11,200 New York Central Railroad employes serving in the armed forces of the United States, and each one of them will receive a Christmas package containing numerous useful gifts and accompanied by a special greeting card from President F. E.Williamson.

Many of the Christmas boxes were mailed early in November, as over a thousand of the railroad's employes are known to the stationed abroad—from Africa to the Solomon Islands.

The packages, wrapped in attractive Christmas paper, contain a carton of cigarettes, a pound of hard candy, a large bar of chocolate, several packages of chewing gum, brushless shaving cream, talcum powder, razor blades, tooth brush, tooth powder, toilet soap, stationery, and a mechanical pencil.

Real Estate Men Elect 1943 Officers

Officers and directors of the Ulster County Real Estate Board, reelected at the annual meeting held December 8 are: Peter J. Halloran, president; Frank S. Hyatt, vice president; Walter H. Caunitz, secretary; Arthur J. Burns, treasurer. Stanton M. Babcock, New Paltz; Arthur J. Burns, Walter H. Caunitz, Kingston; William Elwyn, Woodstock; Peter J. Halloran, John A. Hathmaker, Frank S. Hyatt, Joseph Leotta, George W. Moore, Kingston; George Neher, Woodstock; Christo Partenoff, Accord; John C. Sauer, Kingston; Schuyler C. Schultz, James E. Snead, Daisy A. Merritt, Kingston.

George W. Moore was elected as director of the State Association.

Messrs. Moore, Burns, Neher, Snead and Caunitz attended the conference and installation of officers-elect of the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards, Inc., held in Albany Friday.

In spite of the serious and perplexing problems brought on by war conditions the sentiment of members of the Ulster County Board was decidedly optimistic, as more people are seeking to own their own homes, and the members also feel that their efforts are helpful in assisting in the rehabilitation of farms as a part of the war effort.

Bible Reference Puts Court House in Uproar Friday

There was a scurrying around at the court house Friday morning in search of a Bible, a copy of which finally was located in Judge Conway's office. Cause of all the activity was a postcard received by Deputy Dwight McEntee of the county treasurer's office. It was an inquiry concerning taxes from someone living in the Saugerties area who, to emphasize certain statements, referred to several verses in Proverbs, namely verses 13, 14 and 20 of the 16th chapter of Proverbs. County Treasurer Lyons was not available at the time and Deputy Dusinberre was engaged in other work, while as it happened, the particular verses of Scripture referred to were not familiar to Mr. McEntee, so it became necessary to do some research. Just as the suspense was becoming unbearable, a Bible was secured and after some difficulty the verses in question located. As it turned out the references were not as disquieting as had been feared. Freeman readers, most of whom doubtless have their Bibles close at hand, will probably be interested in looking the matter up for themselves.

Led to Captures

Leon Griggs, Newport, Vt., food store proprietor, set up the alarm that led to the capture in Newport of two German seamen who escaped from a Sherbrooke, Quebec, camp. Griggs became suspicious when the two men asked for food in broken accents and offered Canadian money in payment.

HERO OF NAVAL BATTLE CHATS WITH FATHER AND NEW SKIPPER

Commander Bruce McCandless of Long Beach, Calif., (center) who took command of the cruiser San Francisco when other top ranking officers had been killed during the battle in which the cruiser bested a Jap battleship off the Solomons, chats with Capt. A. F. France, Jr., (left) new commanding officer of the cruiser, and with his father, Capt. Byron McCandless, commandant of the destroyer base at San Diego, after the cruiser's arrival in San Francisco. Young McCandless was a Lieutenant Commander when he took over during the battle, but was advanced to Commander for his heroism.

Violators Are Fined

Blackout violators in Schenectady are being haled into court and substantial fines imposed. A $25 fine was imposed on one man who left home to go bowling and left lights on in his home. A $10 fine was imposed on another who left the light burning inside his car while he went to a movie. Another arrest was made for leaving lights burning in a branch of the Schenectady Trust Company and several are charged with leaving lights burning on parked cars.

Arrested for Assault

Joseph Wells, 55, of 105 Cedar street, was arrested last night on a charge of third degree assault. He was accused of striking Richard Banks. This morning Judge Matthew V. Cahill suspended sentence, provided Mr. Wells leave the city.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Leading stocks resumed their slightly irregular shift in today's brief market after a fairly steady performance at the opening.

While gains of fractions were in evidence here and there near the final hour, small declines were plentiful and numerous issues were unchanged.

Blocks of low-priced stocks helped an otherwise negligible volume. Steels slipped and the majority of rails, motors and utilities held at Friday's closing figures.

More tax selling was absorbed without a great deal of difficulty although offerings here were never urgent. Dividends and earnings again brought in bidders for some stocks. Little motivation was found in the war news.

Bonds were narrow and commodities mixed.

Among stocks, intermittent improvement was recorded for Northern Pacific, American Car & Foundry, Standard Oil (N. J.), Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, United Aircraft, American Can and Westinghouse. In arrears at times were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Goodyear, Philip Morris and Youngstown Sheet.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 60 Beaver street, New York city, branch office, 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Rural Results Prove That Cooperation Always Pays

From fluffy chicks to heavy beef, livestock on small farms is being built up by neighborhood co-operatives. The many-sided services of these groups is a real factor in the Food-for-Freedom campaign.

As an example, 10 women of Yazoo City, Miss., with Mrs. Otis Adams as leader, together bought a 400-egg, thermostatically controlled electric incubator for $60. They got a 76 per cent hatch. Charging themselves three cents an egg for the service, the group saved $53 the first year.

In Republic county, Kan., 13 families got loans from the Farm Security administration to buy 24 registered Ayrshire heifers from Vermont and New Hampshire herds; also a three-year-old Ayrshire bull to use on a co-operative "bull ring" basis. More than 5,000 co-op bull rings have been set up with FSA loans.

Nearly a score of Arkansas communities this summer have been dipping their stock in community-owned vats to control wood ticks. Spread by rabbits and other animals, the tick infestation has been reported as heavy. Livestock owners find it to their advantage to join with neighbors in building and operating dipping vats. In many areas, farmers have increased production of food and feed by joining machinery pools.

Treacherous Mountain Trail

Although Mt. Victoria in New Guinea was scaled by Englishmen in 1889, few but Papuan natives living in the vicinity had ever crossed the Owen Stanley range before this war. From Kokoda the trail used in the present fighting plunges into forests with thick undergrowth. Footholds are treacherous, narrow ledges are frequent, hands must be free to grip roots, rocks and saplings in case of faulty footing. A torrid sun beats down on the traveler; steaming jungle heat rises from underfoot. Drenched with perspiration after a day's struggle, he is not prepared for the bitterly cold night that follows. Transportation of supplies through the Owen Stanleys is by native carrier. Level spots to pitch camp are as rare as dry wood for fires to temper the chilling night air. One explorer observed that a few weeks in these mountains develops an effect akin to "sea legs." When a climber reaches the base of the mountains he must break the habit of lifting his knees almost to his chin at every step.

Musician, Fireman

Though his music is more "sweet" than "hot," Ted Weems nevertheless is a fireman at heart. Where this taste originated nobody knows. Both of the Weems parents are musicians with no yen for a torrid blaze. But the jangling of bells and the screeching of sirens will take Ted right off the bandstand in pursuit of the fire wagons. Recently Ted jumped from his hotel bed to watch a fire in a theater where he had appeared earlier that night. In his haste, he neglected to don his regular clothes and arrived on the street in his pajamas.

Ted Weems is still on leave of absence from the Pennsylvania railroad. He has been on leave since 1922.

Medicine Closets Need Protection

Many medicine closets in bathrooms may become practically ruined by rust and be irreplaceable in wartime if not given prompt attention with paint or enamel. Often medicine closets are made with metal linings which must be protected from rust, to which the bottom shelf is especially subject on account of bottles with wet bottoms, wet brushes, etc., being placed thereon. The result of repeated wettings, to say nothing of the humidity which normally prevails in bathrooms, necessitates periodic repainting of such parts of the interior of closet. As soon as any signs of rust appear, scrape and sandpaper the surface thoroughly down to the bright metal and then apply fresh paint or enamel.

GIRLS CALL OFF STRIKE

Patriotism prevailed, and women bus conductors of Maldon, England, have withdrawn a strike threat so that soldiers in outlying districts may have the opportunity of service planned in a bus line extension. The new run met strenuous personal opposition, but a strike plan failed when it was pointed out that troops would benefit from the service.

Local Death Record

Funeral services for Jennie May Stroud, who died in Boston on December 8, were held Friday afternoon in the parlors of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, with burial in Wiltwyck cemetery. The Rev. Clarence E. Brown officiated.

Funeral services were held at Phillipsport Friday afternoon for Irwin F. Hanyen, who died late Tuesday night in the Goshen Hospital, following a fall that morning of 40 feet from a house he was just starting to shingle, on the Craigville road near Goshen. Mr. Hanyen was born in Phillipsport September 18, 1872, son of Daniel and Eliza Jane Foster Hanyen. His wife was the former Emma Budd of Phillipsport. He leaves two sons, Earl B. of Middletown and Arnold D. of Weehawken; a sister, Mrs. Ella Denman of Summitville and a brother, Angus, of Phillipsport. Mr. Hanyen spent most of his life in Phillipsport, but at the time of his death resided in Middletown.

Miss Kate Impett, a resident of this city for the past ten years, died last evening following a long illness. She was born in Canterbury, England, a daughter of the late Thomas and Grace Goldfinch Impett. She was a retired employe of the jewelry firm of Simm Co., of Troy. There are no surviving relatives. Funeral services will be held at the Jenson and Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs street on Sunday evening at 8 p. m. The burial will take place in the family plot in Oakwood cemetery in Troy. The cortege will leave this city on Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the funeral chapel.

Patrick J. Hines died this morning at his home in Port Ewen after a protracted illness. Mr. Hines was born in the village where he died. He was the son of the late John and Margaret Roan Hines. Surviving him are his wife and five sons, John, Tom, James, Leo and Anthony; two daughters, Mrs. William McGowan and Mrs. Sylvester Ferraro; two brothers, Thomas and Anthony; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Eigo and Mrs. Margaret Fox; 16 grandchildren; one great-grandchild. He was a devout member of the Presentation Church and the Holy Name Society of that church. The arrangements for the funeral will be announced later.

The funeral of Michael J. McGowan, who died suddenly at Bridgeport, Conn., Monday, was held at 9:30 a. m. from the home of his brother, John McGowan at Port Ewen, Friday and at the Presentation Church at 10 o'clock, where a solemn high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Stephan McKenna, C.Ss.R., with the Rev. Mark Clary, C.Ss.R., deacon and the Rev. James Connolly, C.Ss.R., sub-deacon. The responses to the Mass were sung by Martin Kelly assisted by organist Theodore Riccobono. At the offertory, Mr. Kelly sang "Ave Verum" and after the Mass, "Ave Maria." During the time the remains reposed at the residence, hundreds came to pay their tribute of respect. Thursday evening Father McKenna called at the home and recited the Rosary, assisted by many relatives and friends. The funeral cortege was large. There were many Mass cards and floral tributes, silent tokens of the esteem in which the deceased was held. The casket bearers were: Michael McGowan, Charles Tucker, Edward McGowan Robert Henry, Peter Tucker and Richard Kivlan, Jr. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, Fathers Clary and Connolly assisting Father McKenna with the final absolution and blessing at the grave.

They got me up to the city lately, and just for curiosity I took in the grand opera. The one I picked out to see was Rig O'Letto, on account of me being fond of Irish plays.

I set there four hours and if any Irishman showed up on that stage I sure didn't spot him.

Everybody was mighty dressed up, the men wearing Prince Albert coats and the women folks in fancy furs. The women on each side of me spent considerable time comparing their furs with other folks'.

Everything considered, I would say the show went off pretty nice. But there was one thing that stood out plain. When the band players would come out of their dugout under the stage and set

Enlistments for Inactive Duty With U. S. Marines

For the first time in the history of the Albany Marine Recruiting District, men may now be enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps and assigned to inactive duty, pending transfer to Parris Island, S. C., it was announced today.

The change removes all previous quota restrictions on Marine enlistments before the deadline for voluntary recruiting at midnight Tuesday, December 15, except that only the number specified in the December quota may be transferred immediately for training. All men enlisted over the original quota will be assigned to their homes, to be called for training sometime during January, 1943.

This is an abrupt departure from the usual Marine system of shipping men to training bases on the day of enlistment. It marks the first time in the memory of local recruiters that men enlisted for general duty have been placed on an inactive duty status. Before the new regulation was announced, only officer candidates and specialists not immediately needed were assigned to inactive duty.

The move is expected to bring a larger number of volunteers into the Corps before the enlistment deadline than was previously anticipated. It was originally planned to enlist and transfer only 250 men, and a much larger number of applications on hand meant that many would have to be left out and become subject to the draft.

As soon as the 250 quota has been reached, the recruiting office announced, men enlisted thereafter will be placed on inactive duty. It is expected that several enlistment ceremonies will be performed each day after the quota is reached, with accepted applicants being sworn into the Corps as soon as their papers are complete.

The restrictions on enlistments still apply, the office declared. Only men between 17 and 35 who have filed applications dated before December 6, 1942, may be enlisted before recruiting stops Tuesday. Applicants between 17 and 18 may still file new applications, and may be enlisted through the entire month of December.

Kingston Ministers' Wives Hold Saugerties Meeting

The Methodist Ministers' Wives of Kingston District met Friday, December 4, at the Methodist parsonage in Saugerties. A business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Robert B. Guice of Ashokan. Christmas carols were sung by the group and Mrs. Arthur Carroll, the district superintendent's wife, sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Francis Potter of Jefferson. Mrs. Clarence Dumm, the wife of the principal of the Kingston High School, spoke on the subject, "Wives of Profesional Men," after which the wives joined their husbands in the church where the Onteora Ministerial Club was holding its business meeting and having a paper presented on evangelism by the Rev. Roscoe Strivings of Trinity Church, Kingston. The Ministers' Wives have met once before this year.

The district is divided into six groups, each of which meets several times a year for social and intellectual betterment. Reports from these groups, at the business meeting Friday showed that they are functioning very nicely. The members are planning to read the book, "I Married a Minister," by Mrs. Jesse Bader.

Big Increase Seen in Food Needs of Allies

With the approach of winter, large quantities of food will be needed to feed American and allied prisoners of war and victims of invasion in devasted countries, according to a joint statement by the American Red Cross and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Using supplies procured by the Agricultural Marketing Administration, the Red Cross has provided supplementary food for American and allied prisoners of war in the Far East. The shipment was made on the first trip of the exchange ship "Gripsholm," and increased supplies are now loaded on the vessel for her second trip. These shipments included AMA supplies of dry whole milk, butter, and concentrated citrus juice packed in individual parcels to feed captured fighting men and interned civilians. Similar packages are being sent regularly to prisoners of war and civilian internees held by Germany and Italy.

The Red Cross is assisting in the feeding of Polish, Greek, and many other refugee groups in Egypt and the Middle East, including war orphans and evacuee children. Commodities sent to the Middle East included beans, canned tomatoes, grapefruit juice, cane syrup and molasses, oatmeal enriched flour, rice, dehydrated soup, powerded milk, and oleomargarine.

Children in unoccupied France recently received a shipload of Red Cross supplies which included 274,000 cases of evaporated milk from AMA stocks. These supplies were already widely distributed before the complete occupation of France by Germany.

Other commodities obtained for the Red Cross by AMA for distribution in the various war areas include: rolled oats, enriched wheat flour, evaporated and dry milk, canned pork sausage, lard, syrup, canned and consentrated citrus juice, canned tomatoes, and vitamin C tablets.

The volume and variety of foods needed to feed prisoners, refugees, and other war victims may be expected to increase sharply this winter and next spring, the joint statement pointed out.

The Agricultural Marketing Administration is now procuring all the food requirements for American Red Cross shipments. The Agriculture agency acts as purchasing agent or sells directly to Red Cross from its stocks held in various parts of the country to supply the needs of the allied nations, the U. S. territories, and for other war purposes.

The foodstuffs are delivered to shipside for Red Cross, which arranges for the overseas shipping, often with safe-conduct through battle zones, and delivers the food when it reaches its destination. Every container is conspicuously marked as a "gift of the American people through the American Red Cross."

Children Contribute Toys

The price of admission for the children's show at Reade's Kingston theatre was a toy which could be reconditioned, and at an early hour, hundreds of youngsters had taken advantage of the offer. Photo shows some of the children and boxes of toys contributed, in the lobby of the theatre.

MODENA

Modena, Dec. 12—The Public Health Nursing Committee of the Town of Plattekill met Monday evening at Mrs. Weygant Courter's home, when during the business session, a number of activities were planned for the coming season. A card party will be held on the next meeting date, Monday evening, January 4, in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, commencing at 8 o'clock. Refreshment committee is as follows: Mrs. Wilbur Williams, Mrs. Freston Paltridge, Mrs. Simon DuBois; ticket and poster committee: Mrs. Burton Ward, Mrs. Arthur Schonberg; general arrangements, Mrs. Weygant Courter. Attending the regular meeting on Monday evening were: Mrs. Fred Bernard, Mrs. Simon DuBois, Mrs. Burton Ward, Mrs. Wilbur Williams and Mrs. Charlotte Ogden, public health nurse. A number of supplies were made for the loan closet maintained by the unit.

Modena Home Bureau met Wednesday in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, when Mrs. Weygant Courter and Mrs. Frank Coy gave a demonstration on the "Foods" project. Mrs. Raymond DuBois discussed the project of "Mental Health." Others attending were: Mrs. Myron Coons, Miss Mary Anderson, Miss Elizabeth Fosler of Plattekill; Mrs. Winfield Jenkins, Mrs. Harry Sutton, Mrs. Siah Roosa of Clintondale; Mrs. Eber Coy, Mrs. Gershom Mount, Mrs. John McNichols, Mrs. Ira Hyatt, Mrs. Eldred Smith, Mrs. Mary Rutgiliano of Ardonia; Mrs. Fred DuBois of Forest Glen; Mrs. Frank DuBois of Gardiner; Mrs. Joseph Hasbrouck, Mrs. Edward Atchinsen, Mrs. Burton Ward, Mrs. Louis Hyatt, Mrs. Arthur Schonberg, Mrs. Myron Shultis, Mrs. Simon DuBois and Mrs. Orville Seymour. The resignation of Mrs. Lester Arnold, chairman of the unit for the past year, was accepted and Mrs. Siah Roosa, vice-chairman, will act in that capacity during the remainder of the program year. A meeting was scheduled for Wednesday, January 20, when the clothing project will be in order.

A special meeting of the Modena Methodist Sunday school board was called for Wednesday evening, when Miss Marguerite Smith was nominated as superintendent, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Lester Arnold. A meeting of the official board of the church was also conducted Wednesday evening.

There was a good attendance at the meeting held Wednesday evening in Hasbrouck Hall, when members of the Methodist Church brought their "talent dollars" and related the manner in which they were increased. A profitable sum was realized despite the fact that a complete report was not available.

Mrs. Edward Hartney and daughter Joan, visited relatives in Walden, recently.

Mrs. Norman Walsh has returned to her home in Schenectady, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edward Atchinsen and Mrs. E. DuBois, here.

5 Inboard Speed Records

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Five inboard speed records were set during 1942 despite widespread curtailment of activities because of gasoline rationing, the American Power Boat Association announced today. Tommy Ince traveled a measured mile at a rate of 77.67 m.p.h. for the top speed of the year at Lake Elsinore, Calif., on May 17. Hit also is a record for division 11 of the 225 cubic inch class.

Produce Growers Plan Meeting in Syracuse

Ithaca, N. Y.—Vegetable and potato growers of New York state have their eighth joint convention in Syracuse on Wednesday and Thursday, January 6 and 7.

In the morning, the two groups will be in separate sessions, to consider individual problems of production, labor, seed, marketing, disease control, and farm machinery.

The afternoon joint session will present several prominent speakers. Dr. Guy Meal, of the Agricultural Marketing Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will discuss the U. S. D. A. 1943 program for fruit and vegetable growers. As shortage of transportation is expected to bring curtailment of some long-distance shipments, and require greater production in areas close to the markets, Dr. Meal's talk may outline revised production plans for New York state growers, relatively close to their markets.

Other speakers on the program will describe the outlook for fertilizer, insecticides, and farm supplies in 1943, the general farm situation, and the growing market for dried vegetables and potatoes.

Forum discussions, in which growers can thresh out their problems, are part of the program. Growers, as in former years, may consult growers from other states, trade experts and members of the research staffs of the Cornell and Geneva agricultural experiment stations, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Harry Pierce Is Injured

Harry F. Pierce of 701 Broadway was taken to the Kingston Hospital this morning for treatment of injury sustained when he fell from a roof to the ground. A flag pole which also is used for attaching several radio aerials was blown down by the wind last week. Mr. Pierce had gone upon a back roof to repair the aerial when he slipped and fell. He sustained a possible fracture of the leg above the ankle.

All tires imported into Cuba are now placed only in essential services.

Campaign Is Most Crucial This Year

County Health Officer Asks Generous Help From All

"The coming year is one of the most crucial the anti-tuberculosis campaign has ever faced," said Dr. Clealand A. Sargent, Ulster county state district health officer, in a statement today in which he urged all citizens to support as generously as possible the annual Christmas Seal Sale of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association, which opened on November 23.

Dr. Sargent said, "That although our country had not as yet shown any evidence of a war-time rise in tuberculosis, in large industrial cities and in Europe and Asia a decided increase has been shown.

Arthur Laidlaw, superintendent of schools, urged all parents and pupils to take an active part in the campaign.

"Not only does the association need our financial support, but our moral support," he said. "Too much emphasis cannot be placed on protection against tuberculosis for boys and girls of high school age. Mr. Laidlaw pointed out that tuberculosis is the chief health enemy of persons between 15 and 19, killing and disabling more persons in this age group than any other disease.

Henry Darrow, president of Kiwanis Club, and William O'Reilly, president of Rotary Club, both have assured the association that all members would do their part in the tuberculosis and Christmas Seal campaign.

Break Church Windows

Vandals have been breaking the windows in the Wurts Street Baptist Church. Friday afternoon Attorney Floyd W. Powell, an officer of the church, reported to the police department that two more windows were broken in the church. This time the windows were on the Spring street side of the church. It is not known as yet whether the vandals are children or adults.

FUEL OIL RATIONING

Almost all coupons have been mailed to customers. Please study your coupon sheet carefully and properly endorse on line marked "signature of coupon holder." Then copy your ration number (number appearing on white stamp) on each and every stamp.

DO THIS AT ONCE AND AVOID LOSS AND CONFUSION

Period 1 and Period 2 coupons are now good for 10 gallons each. Period 1 coupon expires December 23. Period 2 expires January 19. Value of other coupons will be announced later.

1 gallon and 5 gallon coupons are good until September 30, 1943.

You must deliver to your supplier coupons for all oil received since October 1st. If you do not your supplier must report you to the rationing board.

Please cooperate with your oil man and have your coupons ready when he calls. He cannot possibly handle all this extra work without your fullest cooperation.

You have been allowed about 70% of your last year's oil purchases. If coupons allowed you do not approximate this figure you may appeal to your local rationing board, but don't do so this week. They are swamped with work and cannot handle appeals now.

Do not phone————write.

Heat Plan for Iceland Held Up

War Interrupts Project to Harness Numerous Hot Springs of Country.

REYKJAVIK, ICELAND. — Iceland's ambitious program to utilize one of its few natural resources—a project to harness its numerous hot springs to heat homes and business houses—is being delayed by the war.

In a warring world, with the belligerents hard put to find shipping space for war supplies—and needing raw materials to make implements of battle—neutral little Iceland simply hasn't been able to obtain the necessary iron pipes and machinery to complete this peaceful enterprise.

Iceland, geologically speaking, is a young country formed by a series of volcanic eruptions which piled hundreds of basaltic layers on top of each other. So the rugged, barren country has no deposits of coal, oil or gas. Its few trees are stunted in growth and are a slight source of fuel. Farmers in some districts produce peat and also burn sheep dung. But urban Iceland must import its fuel, as well as most of its building materials.

Hot All Year Round.

Many homes, schools and hothouses in rural areas, as well as the American army's largest hospital, already are heated by scalding hot water from near-by springs. The water in most of Iceland's hot springs remains at its unusually high temperature the year round irrespective of weather conditions.

Some of these springs are only a foot or two in diameter. In areas where they are found, the Icelandic housewife doesn't have to worry about fuel to cook the family dinner. She merely puts the food in a pan and lowers it into a hot spring.

The project to tap these springs to heat Reykjavik was launched about ten years ago when the city council purchased a large group of hot springs some ten miles away. Several years elapsed before the government was able to negotiate loans with Danish banks to finance the project. A Danish engineering firm was employed in 1937 and at last the work began. It progressed slowly, but now concrete conduits to house the iron piping have been constructed from the springs to the city and through some of its streets.

Delays in obtaining materials persisted after outbreak of the war. Eventually enough pipes and machinery to complete the job were purchased from Germany, Belgium and Denmark and assembled at Copenhagen. A ship carrying them was almost ready to sail for Reykjavik when Germany invaded Norway and Denmark in April of 1940.

Negotiations With Germany.

Prolonged negotiations between the Icelandic government and the belligerent nations began. The Germans, a Reykjavik representative of the Danish engineering firm said, finally agreed to release the materials but refused to permit ships operating in the Baltic sea to carry the goods. Efforts to get permission for Icelandic vessels to go through the blockade after them proved fruitless.

After the United States joined Great Britain in military occupation of the island, Iceland turned to America for help, and sent a government commission to purchase materials anew.

One shipment of materials has since arrived, but Iceland still does not have enough to complete the project. Because of the acute shipping problem and wartime priorities on materials, it is uncertain when any more will be forthcoming.

Meanwhile, Reykjavik, now a badly overcrowded city of 42,000 persons, will continue to heat its buildings with coal imported from England. Last winter this fuel cost local citizenry $22 a ton.

Older Men Are Gaining Positions in Industry

WASHINGTON.—Older men have been increasing in the ranks of industry as the war has progressed, but the census bureau finds that substantial relief from the man-power shortage cannot be obtained from the older male groups.

There were 17,600,000 men 45 years or older in the United States on April 1, 1940, and 13,700,000 of these were already in the labor force. This left 4,100,000 not in the force, of whom 1,500,000 were 45-64 years old, and 2,600,000 were 65 and over.

Of the 4,100,000 not in the labor force, 2,000,000 were reported unable to work or were in institutions.

This left a reservoir of only 1,300,000 older men, and about 700,000 of them were 65 years old and over.

When parents and teachers in the Sierra de Zongolica district of Mexico recently complained of a lack of schools, the Government promptly ordered the construction of 34 rural schools.

Railroad Sends Christmas Boxes To Men in Service

There are 11,200 New York Central Railroad employes serving in the armed forces of the United States, and each one of them will receive a Christmas package containing numerous useful gifts and accompanied by a special greeting card from President F. E. Williamson.

Many of the Christmas boxes were mailed early in November, as over a thousand of the railroad's employes are known to the stationed abroad—from Africa to the Solomon Islands.

The packages, wrapped in attractive Christmas paper, contain a carton of cigarettes, a pound of hard candy, a large bar of chocolate, several packages of chewing gum, brushless shaving cream, talcum powder, razor blades, tooth brush, tooth powder, toilet soap, stationery, and a mechanical pencil.

Real Estate Men Elect 1943 Officers

Officers and directors of the Ulster County Real Estate Board, reelected at the annual meeting held December 8 are: Peter J. Halloran, president; Frank S. Hyatt, vice president; Walter H. Caunitz, secretary; Arthur J. Burns, treasurer. Stanton M. Babcock, New Paltz; Arthur J. Burns, Walter H. Caunitz, Kingston; William Elwyn, Woodstock; Peter J. Halloran, John A. Hathmaker, Frank S. Hyatt, Joseph Leotta, George W. Moore, Kingston; George Neher, Woodstock; Christo Partenoff, Accord; John C. Sauer, Kingston; Schuyler C. Schultz, James E. Snead, Daisy A. Merritt, Kingston.

George W. Moore was elected as director of the State Association.

Messrs. Moore, Burns, Neher, Snead and Caunitz attended the conference and installation of officers-elect of the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards, Inc., held in Albany Friday.

In spite of the serious and perplexing problems brought on by war conditions the sentiment of members of the Ulster County Board was decidedly optimistic, as more people are seeking to own their own homes, and the members also feel that their efforts are helpful in assisting in the rehabilitation of farms as a part of the war effort.

Bible Reference Puts Court House in Uproar Friday

There was a scurrying around at the court house Friday morning in search of a Bible, a copy of which finally was located in Judge Conway's office. Cause of all the activity was a postcard received by Deputy Dwight McEntee of the county treasurer's office. It was an inquiry concerning taxes from someone living in the Saugerties area who, to emphasize certain statements, referred to several verses in Proverbs, namely verses 13, 14 and 20 of the 16th chapter of Proverbs. County Treasurer Lyons was not available at the time and Deputy Dusinberre was engaged in other work, while as it happened, the particular verses of Scripture referred to were not familiar to Mr. McEntee, so it became necessary to do some research. Just as the suspense was becoming unbearable, a Bible was secured and after some difficulty the verses in question located. As it turned out the references were not as disquieting as had been feared. Freeman readers, most of whom doubtless have their Bibles close at hand, will probably be interested in looking the matter up for themselves.

Led to Captures

Leon Griggs, Newport, Vt., food store proprietor, set up the alarm that led to the capture in Newport of two German seamen who escaped from a Sherbrooke, Quebec, camp. Griggs became suspicious when the two men asked for food in broken accents and offered Canadian money in payment.

HERO OF NAVAL BATTLE CHATS WITH FATHER AND NEW SKIPPER

Commander Bruce McCandless of Long Beach, Calif., (center) who took command of the cruiser San Francisco when other top ranking officers had been killed during the battle in which the cruiser bested a Jap battleship off the Solomons, chats with Capt. A. F. France, Jr., (left) new commanding officer of the cruiser, and with his father, Capt. Byron McCandless, commandant of the destroyer base at San Diego, after the cruiser's arrival in San Francisco. Young McCandless was a Lieutenant Commander when he took over during the battle, but was advanced to Commander for his heroism.

Violators Are Fined

Blackout violators in Schenectady are being haled into court and substantial fines imposed. A $25 fine was imposed on one man who left home to go bowling and left lights on in his home. A $10 fine was imposed on another who left the light burning inside his car while he went to a movie. Another arrest was made for leaving lights burning in a branch of the Schenectady Trust Company and several are charged with leaving lights burning on parked cars.

Arrested for Assault

Joseph Wells, 55, of 165 Cedar street, was arrested last night on a charge of third degree assault. He was accused of striking Richard Banks. This morning Judge Matthew V. Cahill suspended sentence, provided Mr. Wells leave the city.

Spoon River Sam at the Opera

By SPOON RIVER SAM
AP Features

They got me up to the city lately, and just for curiosity I took in the grand opera. The one I picked out to see was Big O'Leary, on account of me being fond of Irish plays.

I set there four hours and if any Irishman showed up on that stage I sure didn't spot him.

Everybody was mighty dressed up, the men wearing Prince Albert coats and the women folks in fancy furs. The women on each side of me spent considerable time comparing their furs with other folks'.

Everything considered, I would say the show went off pretty nice. But there was one thing that stood out plain. When the band players would come out of their dugout under the stage and set down to play, the man that waved the stick at 'em was always last. He never did get there ahead of 'em. He must of stood in pretty good with the union, to get away with it.

There was an awful lot of singing, and I remarked about that. One of them women leaned over and said that was what opera was for. But sometimes it wasn't exactly singing, but more like barking or screaming. None of the actors could do a thing without ripping off a song. Before they went to kiss or kill somebody, they'd sing at 'em. Then the intended victim would sing right back, till disposed of. It seems to me most opera murders are justified.

Now I don't aim to poke fun at opera singers, it's just the way they were brought up I guess. But they sounded real nice at times, and I think even our Spoon River Rhythm Singers would admire their power and endurance. Personally, I'd like to see them on our festival program next fall, then we wouldn't have to fret over a sound system.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Leading stocks resumed their slightly irregular shift in today's brief market after a fairly steady performance at the opening.

While gains of fractions were in evidence here and there near the final hour, small declines were plentiful and numerous issues were unchanged.

Blocks of low-priced stocks helped an otherwise negligible volume. Steels slipped and the majority of rails, motors and utilities held at Friday's closing figures.

More tax selling was absorbed without a great deal of difficulty although offerings here were never urgent. Dividends and earnings again brought in bidders for some stocks. Little motivation was found in the war news.

Bonds were narrow and commodities mixed.

Among stocks, intermittent improvement was recorded for Northern Pacific, American Car & Foundry, Standard Oil (N. J.), Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, United Aircraft, American Can and Westinghouse. In arrears at times were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Goodyear, Philip Morris and Youngstown Sheet.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 60 Beaver street, New York city, branch office, 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Rural Results Prove That Cooperation Always Pays

From fluffy chicks to heavy beef, livestock on small farms is being built up by neighborhood co-operatives. The many-sided services of these groups is a real factor in the Food-for-Freedom campaign.

As an example, 10 women of Yazoo City, Miss., with Mrs. Otis Adams as leader, together bought a 400-egg, thermostatically controlled electric incubator for $60. They got a 76 per cent hatch. Charging themselves three cents an egg for the service, the group saved $53 the first year.

In Republic county, Kan., 13 families got loans from the Farm Security administration to buy 24 registered Ayrshire heifers from Vermont and New Hampshire herds; also a three-year-old Ayrshire bull to use on a co-operative "bull ring" basis. More than 5,000 co-op bull rings have been set up with FSA loans.

Nearly a score of Arkansas communities this summer have been dipping their stock in community-owned vats to control wood ticks. Spread by rabbits and other animals, the tick infestation has been reported as heavy. Livestock owners find it to their advantage to join with neighbors in building and operating dipping vats. In many areas, farmers have increased production of food and feed by joining machinery pools.

Treacherous Mountain Trail

Although Mt. Victoria in New Guinea was scaled by Englishmen in 1889, few but Papuan natives living in the vicinity had ever crossed the Owen Stanley range before this war. From Kokoda the trail used in the present fighting plunges into forests with thick undergrowth. Footholds are treacherous, narrow ledges are frequent, hands must be free to grip roots, rocks and saplings in case of faulty footing. A torrid sun beats down on the traveler; steaming jungle heat rises from underfoot. Drenched with perspiration after a day's struggle, he is not prepared for the bitterly cold night that follows. Transportation of supplies through the Owen Stanleys is by native carrier. Level spots to pitch camp are as rare as dry wood for fires to temper the chilling night air. One explorer observed that a few weeks in these mountains develops an effect akin to "sea legs." When a climber reaches the base of the mountains he must break the habit of lifting his knees almost to his chin at every step.

Musician, Fireman

Though his music is more "sweet" than "hot," Ted Weems nevertheless is a fireman at heart. Where this taste originated nobody knows. Both of the Weems parents are musicians with no yen for a torrid blaze. But the jangling of bells and the screeching of sirens will take Ted right off the bandstand in pursuit of the fire wagons. Recently Ted jumped from his hotel bed to watch a fire in a theater where he had appeared earlier that night. In his haste, he neglected to don his regular clothes and arrived on the street in his pajamas.

Ted Weems is still on leave of absence from the Pennsylvania railroad. He has been on leave since 1922.

Medicine Closets Need Protection

Many medicine closets in bathrooms may become practically ruined by rust and be irreplaceable in wartime if not given prompt attention with paint or enamel. Often medicine closets are made with metal linings which must be protected from rust, to which the bottom shelf is especially subject on account of bottles with wet bottoms, wet brushes, etc., being placed thereon. The result of repeated wettings, to say nothing of the humidity which normally prevails in bathrooms, necessitates periodic repainting of such parts of the interior of closet. As soon as any signs of rust appear, scrape and sandpaper the surface thoroughly down to the bright metal and then apply fresh paint or enamel.

GIRLS CALL OFF STRIKE

Patriotism prevailed, and women bus conductors of Maldon, England, have withdrawn a strike threat so that soldiers in outlying districts may have the opportunity of service planned in a bus line extension. The new run met strenuous personal opposition, but a strike plan failed when it was pointed out that troops would benefit from the service.

Local Death Record

Funeral services for Jennie May Stroud, who died in Boston on December 8, were held Friday afternoon in the parlors of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, with burial in Wiltwyck cemetery. The Rev. Clarence E. Brown officiated.

Funeral services were held at Phillipsport Friday afternoon for Irwin F. Hanyen, who died late Tuesday night in the Goshen Hospital, following a fall that morning of 40 feet from a house he was just starting to shingle, on the Craigville road near Goshen. Mr. Hanyen was born in Phillipsport September 18, 1872, son of Daniel and Eliza Jane Foster Hanyen. His wife was the former Emma Budd of Phillipsport. He leaves two sons, Earl B. of Middletown and Arnold D. of Weehawken; a sister, Mrs. Ella Denman of Summitville and a brother, Angus, of Phillipsport. Mr. Hanyen spent most of his life in Phillipsport, but at the time of his death resided in Middletown.

Miss Kate Impett, a resident of this city for the past ten years, died last evening following a long illness. She was born in Canterbury, England, a daughter of the late Thomas and Grace Goldfinch Impett. She was a retired employe of the jewelry firm of Simm Co., of Troy. There are no surviving relatives. Funeral services will be held at the Jenson and Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs street on Sunday evening at 8 p. m. The burial will take place in the family plot in Oakwood cemetery in Troy. The cortege will leave this city on Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the funeral chapel.

Patrick J. Hines died this morning at his home in Port Ewen after a protracted illness. Mr. Hines was born in the village where he died. He was the son of the late John and Margaret Roan Hines. Surviving him are his wife and five sons, John, Tom, James, Leo and Anthony; two daughters, Mrs. William McGowan and Mrs. Sylvester Ferraro; two brothers, Thomas and Anthony; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Eigo and Mrs. Margaret Fox; 16 grandchildren; one great-grandchild. He was a devout member of the Presentation Church and the Holy Name Society of that church. The arrangements for the funeral will be announced later.

The funeral of Michael J. McGowan, who died suddenly at Bridgeport, Conn., Monday, was held at 9:30 a. m. from the home of his brother, John McGowan at Port Ewen, Friday and at the Presentation Church at 10 o'clock, where a solemn high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Stephan McKenna, C.Ss.R., with the Rev. Mark Clary, C.Ss.R., deacon and the Rev. James Connolly, C.Ss.R., sub-deacon. The responses to the Mass were sung by Martin Kelly assisted by organist Theodore Riccobono. At the offertory, Mr. Kelly sang "Ave Verum" and after the Mass, "Ave Maria." During the time the remains reposed at the residence, hundreds came to pay their tribute of respect. Thursday evening Father McKenna called at the home and recited the Rosary, assisted by many relatives and friends. The funeral cortege was large. There were many Mass cards and floral tributes, silent tokens of the esteem in which the deceased was held. The casket bearers were: Michael McGowan, Charles Tucker, Edward McGowan Robert Henry, Peter Tucker and Richard Kivlan, Jr. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, Fathers Clary and Connolly assisting Father McKenna with the final absolution and blessing at the grave.

LIFTING CLOUDS

The brilliant victories of American arms in the Southern Pacific and in Northern Africa, together with the crushing of Rommel and the new Russian offensive, have given a tremendous boost to the morale of the United Nations, including our own. We feel that we are at last accomplishing something and that the defeat of the Axis powers is measurably nearer.

However, leaders in the war movement are warning us not to be too optimistic. The Axis has been slowed down but a mortal wound has not yet been inflicted. Winston Churchill tells us that we are not seeing the beginning of the end but the end of the beginning.

All of these warnings are proper and salutory. It is the business of our leaders to see there is no lessening of the war effort through over-confidence. The best way to win a short war is to prepare for a long one. Our military leaders would be lax indeed if they permitted brilliant successes to interfere with the preparations for a long and grueling contest. If the war ends measurably soon all the better. But we want to be ready for a long, tough fight.

Aside from these precautions, however, there are one or two things to be pointed out which can be the basis for reasonable optimism. When things were going against the United Nations our morale did not crack because we realized that the bad luck was only temporary. The Axis had beaten us to the punch but we realized that we were getting stronger and sooner or later we would be in a dominant position both in men and materiel. Therefore we could well afford to tighten our belts and wait for things to change. With the Axis, however, it is different. Its people have been fed up on victories which they were told would win the war. When this doesn't happen and the enemy becomes stronger and assumes the offensive, the Axis nations cannot afford to wait for another turn as we did. They have reached their peak. From now on their manpower and their sinews will begin to decline. They cannot expect a comeback because they do not have the reserve strength.

The people have lost their enthusiasm and slave labor is not as efficient. The result is the slowing down of production. This together with the R.A.F. bombings of plants has made a big difference on both the Russian and African fronts.

It will not be surprising, therefore, if the morale of the people in the Axis nations does not crack sooner or later. When that time comes the war may be over sooner than even the military leaders now expect. This is not based entirely on wishful thinking. We remember the first world war. Six months before the armistice was signed everyone in America thought two or three years of hard fighting were ahead. Yet when the end did come, it came with surprising suddenness. It seemed almost too good to be true and the armistice celebration is well remembered by those yet alive who took part in it.

Therefore, we have a right to be hopeful. Let us by all means prepare for a long war and keep on preparing. But let's not forget that when the Axis is slapped down it will not have the springboard in reserve that we possess.

ARMED PEACE LEAGUE

What to look forward to in the future is in part the theme of a new book, "Our Fighting Faith," published by President James B. Conant of Harvard University. He says:

"The will to peace of free democratic countries has been proved during the last three years beyond doubt or question. A free people will not readily engage in a modern war. Hence, if freedom is to be protected once the Axis powers are beaten, potential aggressors must be too weak to strike. An armed association of free societies must stand ready, once this war is over, to serve together if need be, not to impose their form of government on other people, but to prevent the growth of new challenges to their freedom. If this is done without malice on the one hand, and without seeking the refuge of illusions on the other, we may hope that international order will be restored, and that our children's children may walk boldly and with confidence along the enduring paths of liberty and peace."

STRATEGIC SILENCE

Facts revealed in connection with the anniversary of Pearl Harbor seem to justify the silence maintained there for a year. Neither the American public nor the enemy realized the extent of the damage done in that infamous raid. If the Japanese had really known the weakness to which the great Hawaiian stronghold was reduced, while their own strength was still intact, they would probably have rushed back to complete the job and seize the islands. Such a success would have made American recovery in the Pacific far harder and slower.

The newspapers naturally want to print all the news that can be safely revealed, and the public wants it. And there has been much dissatisfaction with the concealment in this case. But seen in retrospect, with the full facts known, few people will complain further about the long silence.

THE BOUNDING BASQUE

Jean Borotra is in the news again. Tennis-lovers who followed the French team that years ago took the Davis Cup away from this country will remember Borotra, "the bounding Basque," and the general air of commotion he gave to the tennis courts. Lately he has been director of sports for the Vichy government, thereby greatly grieving his admirers the world over.

Now Borotra has balked at Vichy's continual subservience to Hitler, and resigned from the Petain-Laval payroll. On the old principle which still holds, "better late than never," he will be welcomed to the fold of fighters for freedom.

It doesn't seem logical to use the word "logistics" for military transport and supply.

War is still hell, but blessed is the man with five good tires.

INFLUENZA AND PNEUMONIA

Physicians who went through the influenza epidemic of 1918-1919, and witnessed the hopelessness in the treatment of thousands of cases, now look with eager eyes toward future battles with influenza. No longer is there the feeling of helplessness should another epidemic occur because the physician is now well equipped to fight this dread disease.

It was because influenza went on to pneumonia and bronchopneumonia and the heart already damaged by influenza was unable to sustain the continued fight against pneumonia and bronchopneumonia, that so many victims died. Now that the physician has at hand the sulfa drugs which have reduced the death rate in pneumonia from nearly 10 per cent to about 3 per cent, he is able to fight influenza and pneumonia successfully.

Some interesting figures were recently released by Dr. Louis I. Dublin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The figures show that there has been a decrease in the death rate of influenza and pneumonia of 65 per cent from 1900 to 1940, that is from 202 per hundred thousand of the population in 1900 to 70 in 1940.

While this is gratifying, the use of the sulfa drugs during 1941 and 1942 has caused an even more rapid decrease.

How remarkable this drop in the death rate really is can only be realized by thinking of the rate of decrease in the years 1900 to 1940, or before the general use of the sulfa drugs. For the general population, the decrease in the death rate from influenza and pneumonia has been at the rate of 1½ per year for the forty years. During the last two years judging the whole population by the millions of wage earners and their families of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the death rate has decreased more than 14 per cent a year. In other words, the sulfa drugs have decreased the death rate in influenza and pneumonia over nine times as much each of the last two years as in any of the previous forty years.

When we think of how diabetes and perhicious anaemia—two diseases that were formerly always fatal—have been controlled, it is not too much to believe that in the days to come influenza and pneumonia will be likewise controlled.

"Indeed if the present trend continues for a few more years, pneumonia which just ten years ago was a scourge, will have become a minor cause of death."

DIVORCE NEAR IN CHILE

Radicals and Socialists in the Chilean Congress have joined forces to push through the bill for absolute dissolution of the marriage tie. The bill has been pending for many years, while divorce has existed in fact, based on the legal "nullification" of marriage by subterfuges. The Conservatives will oppose the legislation by every means in their power, supported by the influence of the church, but it is believed in Santiago that eventually the measure will be adopted.

Poem on Pearl Harbor

The following song-poem was read and sung by its author, Sophie Schmidtkonz, at the meeting Thursday evening of the Business and Professional Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A.:

VICTORY OVER SIN

I

You did an awful wicked thing
To bomb Pearl Harbor in a wink
Yet sinful Japs of Japanland
You've broken off with God and man
Of all the terrible things thus done
This is the worst and blackest one

II

Ye men of Japan fearing God
You share with us, the shepherd's rod
We'll do our share to set you free
From darkness and from tyranny
God serves the good through His dear Son
The bad by God and man are shunned

FINALE

Ye men of God, o'er all the earth
Your lamentations and your cries
Are heard by God, so don't despair
For God is love, you're in His care
Just pray to God the Almighty One
So let this world war soon be won
And lift your eyes unto the hills
From whence comes victory over sin

SOPHIE SCHMIDTKONZ

P.S. To be sung to the tune of the hymn, "Eternal Father! Strong to Save"; music by John B. Dykes 1861. In the finale the last two lines are sung to a repetition of the last line of the music.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Isaac T. Mesereau, one of the few old time printers of Ulster county, died suddenly on August 7, 1928, in his room in the Fischer Hotel on the Strand, where he had lived for several years.

Mr. Mesereau had been connected with the newspaper business all his life. In the days of Horatio Fowkes he was employed as a compositor on the old Rondout Courier. Later he became associated with The Freeman as a printer where he worked for a number of years.

Hhe was one of the founders of the old Kingston Daily Express which in later years was absorbed by The Kingston Daily Leader. He was with the Express for a number of years until he sold his interests in the newspaper to Louis Hoysradt and returned to The Freeman where he was employed as a printer in the coming room.

Mr. Mesereau also for many years published the old Rosendale Journal, a weekly newspaper. I wonder how many of the older readers of this column recall that weekly.

For several years Mr. Mesereau made his home in New York city, but life in the metropolis did not appeal to him and he returned to Kingston to work on The Freeman until he retired a few years before he died.

And speaking of the old Express I recal lthat on August 4, 1918, the building which had housed it for years on lower Broadway, was bought by Harry Netburn, the plumbing contractor.

James E. Canfield served his last day as city treasurer on July 31, 1918, as he had resigned to accept the position of secretary of the newly organized Chamber of Commerce in Saratoga Springs. He was succeeded as city treasurer by A. D. Pardee, who held the office for several years.

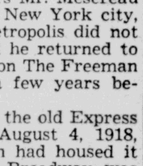

Older readers will recall that Mr. Canfield had also served the local Chamber of Commerce as its secretary, before he became city treasurer during the administration of Mayor Palmer Canfield.

In the years at the turn of the century sport fans and athletes used to meet in the cigar store of Arthur Rice on lower Broadway. It was on July 30, 1918, that Mr. Rice sold the business to Ernest Fidow. Mr. Rice for years was widely known as a ballplayer and played with many of the outstanding baseball teams in the Hudson valley.

In later years he became interested in politics and had served as sheriff of Ulster county with distinction.

Only 52 bicycles were imported by Argentina in the first half of this year, compared with 69,967 in the corresponding period of 1939.

War Ration Boards Are Getting Fine Run Around by Capital Administrators

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 12 — Again a group of fine American citizens, volunteering their services on local boards to help the war effort, are being victimized by incompetent and inefficient administrators in Washington.

The fuel heating problem is the worst scandal of them all—far worse than the mix-ups over the draft or gasoline rationing. People who do not live in the areas rationed for fuel oil fortunately are untouched by the latest piece of bureaucratic red tape.

The fact is that, although warned to convert to coal, many people have been unable to get the necessary equipment to convert.

The fact also is that, although the public press carried the intimation that the amount of curtailment would be around 25 per cent, some people have been cut as much as 66 per cent. The reason for this happens to be some curious mathematical formula based on some alleged method of measuring what the heating requirements of homes should be.

But even if this formula were accepted, the administrative side of the government fell down in handling the citizens. Instead of notifying the public just how their fuel allocation would be handled, word was issued that until the ration cards were available the citizen could continue to use oil on a sort of credit basis, that is, he would be obliged when the coupons were issued to allow the oil company to deduct the coupons that he had used up to the time of receipt of ration certificates.

But the number of coupons used up were based on what the citizen, after all proper conservation steps, thought he was going to be permitted to use. It so happens that in one case known to this writer, where there was no way of knowing that the cut would be 66 per cent, when the coupons were issued the oil company was obliged to confiscate all of the cutrent coupons, and this left the citizen without any oil whatsoever for the period between now and January 3.

To meet this particular situation, the citizen was told that coupons for the next period could be exchanged for those of the current period provided an application was filed, together with the testimony of a heating engineer, stating that every effort had been made to secure maximum efficiency with the fuel allotted. But such a certificate is superfluous. There is no way by which a 66 per cent gain in efficiency can be obtained, no matter how many doors or windows are plugged up.

The senate committee investigating national defense, known as the Truman committee, in a formal report just issued says:

"The average cut in the use of fuel oil for residential heating purposes which will have to be made in order to save 157,000 barrels of fuel oil per day during the winter heating period will be 25 per cent. The necessity for a cut of this amount was determined by the office of the petroleum coordinator, and the means by which such cut was to be effected were determined by the war production board under the direction of Leon Henderson.

"The committee has examined the instructions of the office of price administration, the forms of applications for heating oil prepared by it, and the formulas by which they are resolved. The committee is of the opinion that they were unnecessarily complex and that such complexity has not only created confusion in the public mind but has resulted in an inequitable and unworkable determination of fuel oil needs. . . .

"In all except rare instances, home owners knew or were able to ascertain how much fuel oil they used last year. Since it must be assumed that they did not desire to waste their own money by purchasing fuel oil they did not need, the office of price administration should have assumed that they purchased it because they needed it. Consequently the committee is of the opinion that if the office of price administration had concluded that a straight line cut could be made without rendering the home uninhabitable, it should have proceeded in the first instance to make a flat percentage cut in each area with provision for application by individual home owners for more fuel where they could prove a necessity by reason of special circumstances and with provision for review by local boards of those situations where by reason of special circumstances less fuel oil would be sufficient."

The O.P.A. failed to accomplish this and today many citizens are suffering. But doubtless the New Deal will say it doesn't matter much—only a few persons are cold, after all. Small wonder the people voted in a big number of opposition candidates in the last election. Under a parliamentary system an election held today would doubtless wipe out all vestiges of the New Deal and its incompetent administrators.

Three little books on India—

To the average American the most incomprehensible theory in the world is Gandhi's idea that his "non-violence" could be applied against the Japanese if only Britain would get out of India and give it a chance. However you define non-violence it still means what the word means. Gandhi has backed and filled, and has contradicted himself over and over, as all three of the recent books on him and his ideas freely admit. But the immediate threat to India is Japan, and the little brown men have been notably unimpressed by other little brown men sitting in huts wrapped in sheets.

"What Does Gandhi Want?" T. A. Raman calls his book. Raman is a longtime friend and sympathetic interpreter of Gandhi, yet the gist of "What Does Gandhi Want?" is that although the Mahatma is no fifth columnist, it would be tragic to allow him to oppose non-violence to the Japs. And he also shows that although Gandhi is the most publicized man in India, he is not even one with all of his own party, and has twice, in July, 1940, and January, 1942, been "relieved" publicly of his leadership.

Louis Fischer's "A Week With Gandhi" interprets Gandhi's inconsistency differently. Mr. Fischer spent only a week with him, but he was much impressed. He believes the Mahatma merely thinks aloud; it is as if a writer were to publish all the drafts of a novel, exposing thereby the entire creative process as well as the end result. He does not, however, explain why the end result itself is so often contradictory—as when Gandhi wrote that the first thing he would do in a free India would be to negotiate with the Japs, and then declared that of course that would be impossible. Nor does Mr. Fischer show in what way publishing all the drafts of a novel would help reader, author, or indeed anybody but the printing and binding trade.

And there is also a small book compiled from Gandhi's writing from April 26 to July 26 of this year by Anand T. Hingorani. I am sure those more lavishly lacquered with the Mahatma's "philosophy" than I will be able to make sense out of this compilation, but I have failed ignominiously.

The title is "My Appeal to the British."

TROOPS MUST NOT SHOOT

Soldiers may hunt rabbits on a portion of Salisbury Plain, but they must not shoot, snare or trap them, a court ruling at Devizes, England, revealed. The disclosure came when Gunner Frederick G. Jones, Royal Artillery, was charged with having 78 rabbits in his possession. Jones was freed when the court learned troops were allowed to hunt rabbits on provision they only used one method—that of running the rabbits to ground with dogs and then digging them from their burrows.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — Almost unnoticed in the mass of war news pouring out in recent weeks has been the War Department's abandonment of an important experiment: the flight sergeant. In his place now is the "Flight Officer"—described by the army as a "sort of third lieutenant."

Next year will bring more than 100,000 pilots into the Army Air Corps. This change therefore is pretty important.

Flight officers get the same rank, pay and allowances provided for warrant officers of junior grade, but they get the same consideration, salute, etc., as any other officer. Thus end the "non-coms with wings" and nobody is happier to see them go than those very "non-coms with wings."

* * *

The "flying sergeants" have for several years been bearing the responsibilities of officer pilots, but with none of the benefits or even such little considerations as being "sirred" and saluted by the ground crews. Some of them have been even better pilots than the men who wore bars along with their wings, yet lacked the qualities which would make them officers. They were better pilots of planes than of men.

There is no better explanation for this than was offered by one air corps general. Babe Ruth, he said, was a great baseball player—a genius with a bat who also hung up records as a fielder and pitcher. Still, the Babe lacked something. He never could win his spurs as a manager.

* * *

Under the new regulations any man who has been a flight sergeant or any of those now coming out of schools originally designed to graduate flight sergeants will become flight officers. He will have the same insignia as a warrant officer except that his bar will be blue instead of brown and it will be crossed by a strip of gold.

In training, he will have no distinction from the men who are to become flying officers (men earmarked for flight sergeants have heretofore been known as flying students while flight officers in training were designated as flying cadets).

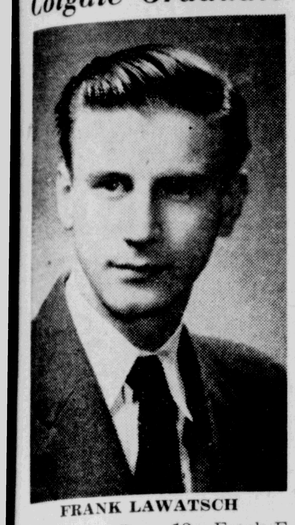

His record in flight school will determine his status as either a flight officer or second lieutenant, but you can bet the air corps will do its best to see that there is no stigma attached to a man coming out with the lesser grade.

In the matter of pay, the flight officers will be only a shade under the men with the bars. They still receive 50 per cent above base pay for flying. Army pay being what it is these days, that's nothing to shrug off.

Colgate Graduate

FRANK LAWATSCH

Hamilton, Dec. 12.—Frank E. Lawatsch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Lawatsch of 109 East Chester street, Kingston, is a member of the senior class scheduled to receive bachelor of arts degrees, Sunday morning, when Colgate University holds its 122nd commencement exercises, the first ever held in winter at the institution. Entering Colgate as the Class of 1943, the seniors have completed their college work nearly six months ahead of schedule through the accelerated program adopted by Colgate immediately after Pearl Harbor.

Commencement was to have been held December 20, but will be held Sunday because more than 30 members of the senior class have been ordered to report for active duty with the army, navy or marines, and of the 184 seniors, 137 are members of reserve branches of the armed forces and 24 more will take war-related jobs.

Mr. Lawatsch is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1939, entered Colgate on a President's Scholarship and has been an honor student in chemistry since. He has been a member of the band eight semesters, won a Cobb Prize for outstanding service to Colgate as a junior, and has been a member of the Student Senate this year. He is a member of Alpha Chi Sigma, professional fraternity for chemists.

Highland Chapter, O. E. S., Reports on Service Work

Highland, Dec. 12—At the regular meeting of Highland Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, Tuesday evening, Worthy Matron Mrs. Minnie Schmalkuche and Worthy Patron Kenneth DuBois presided. Sustitute officers were Mrs. Helen Washington, associate matron; Mrs. Elizabeth Lent, Martha; Mrs. Florence E. Cotant, Ruth.

At the meeting December 22 the annual election of officers will be held and a buffet lunch with members contributing food. Mrs. Ella Fischer has charge of the Christmas tree and members will bring small gifts to be exchanged.

A report was made on the splendid work done by the organization for the benefit of those in service, althought no local benefit has been sponsored by the group because the membership is from such a widespread area in the county. Each relative in service is given a cash gift, and the grand patron has charge of a fund to send cartons of cigarettes to those in service. Sweaters have been made by the various chapters, the local one contributing six.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses: Mrs. Elizabeth Lent, Mrs. Olympia Cottine, Mrs. Minna Gunsalus and Mrs. Ethyl Finley.

First Church Forms Women's Group

The first meeting of all the women of the First Reformed Church to form a general organization was held last evening in the chapel of the church. Temporary chairman for the evening was Mrs. A. Noble Graham.

A constitution for the group was adopted and in general provides for meetings of the organization on the first Wednesday of each month except during July, August and September. The meetings will be held at 7:30 p. m. and 2:30 p. m. alternating in order to give all women an opportunity to attend. Membership will be for all women of the church and the group will be divided into seven chapters: World Fellowship, missionary group; Choir Mothers; Dorcas Sewing; Manse and Church House; Henrietta Wynkoop who will have charge of the communion service, linen and dishes; social service for aid to the needy and Christmas Cheer; and Church Decoration.

There will be an executive committee composed of the officers and the chapter chairmen. Other committees will include budget and finance, program and devotion and membership.

Officers for the general organization were also elected last evening. They are Mrs. Harry B. Walker, president; Mrs. C. C. Rose, vice-president; Mrs. O. D. B. Ingalls, recording secretary; Mrs. Frederick Merritt, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Cornelius Treadwell, treasurer. The president and vice-president have been elected for a period of two years.

The next meeting will be an evening meeting, January 6.

Panich-Harkavy

Ellenville, Dec. 12 — Miss Lillian Harkavy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Harkavy of Ellenville, and Sol Panich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Panich of Briggs Highway, were married at the Silver Manor in Brooklyn, Saturday, December 5.

The bride wore a white satin wedding gown with a long veil, and a crown of white beads, and carried a cascade of white roses. Her sister, Miss Mildred Harkavy, who was maid of honor, also wore a white gown, a light blue veil and blue accessories, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The two bridesmaids were Miss Clara Panich, a sister of the bridegroom, who wore a red gown with red and silver accessories and Miss Toby Lachterman, who was dressed in blue with red accessories. Both carried old fashioned bouquets of red roses.

Mrs. David Harkavy, mother of the bride, wore a blue gown with silver sequins and silver accessories and Mrs. Jacob Panich, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue and gold gown with gold accessories. Both wore corsages of red roses. There were 12 ushers, and Miss Charlotte Rosoff of Kerhonkson was the flower girl. Both Mr. and Mrs. Panich are graduates of Ellenville High School and Mr. Panich attended New York University. The couple will make their home on Briggs Highway, where the bridegroom has an interest in the Highland Rest Hotel. More than 200 guests attended the wedding, among them friends from Ellenville and vicinity.

Book Club Welcomes New Members at Meeting

On December 8, the Book Club held a regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Shuback. Miss Belle Fertel, Miss Dorothy Shapiro and Mrs. A. Appenzeller were welcomed as new members.

The report on Major De Seversky's book, "Victory Through Air Power," was given by Mrs. Harry Fertel and was followed by a spirited discussion. There is to be a meeting in two weeks at which time the discussion will be continued and a report on the book "Past Imperfect" by Ilka Chase will be made.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments.

Birthday Party

A birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mulligan, Pine street, Sunday afternoon in honor of their daughter, Patricia, who was celebrating her fourth birthday. She received many gifts and at 4:30 o'clock the guests were ushered into the dining room where the table was decorated in pink and white.

Those present were: The Misses Diana and Donna Zucca, Elaine Hofer, Elizabeth Brown, Kathryn Kaiser, Mary Jane McSpirit, Barbara Bilyou, Jean Bilyou and also John Brown, William Mulligan, Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. John Dodge, Mrs. William Schwalbach, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schick, Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Zucca, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Avnet and William Brown.

League Members Do Volunteer War Work

On the first anniversary of Pearl Harbor, Mrs. Sanger Carleton of Stone Ridge photographed some of the Kingston Junior League members at volunteer work in the war effort. Other members, not pictured, are doing volunteer work in the public health nursing committees, the maternal health center, the blood bank department, the control center, spotting stations and many other fields of community services.

At the left is shown Mrs. E. E. Fessenden, Jr., chairman of the league loan closet, as she selects a pair of crutches for a needy patient. The loan closet is located in the basement of the city laboratory and is open to community needs.

Mrs. Edwin O'Reilly, center, deputy chairman of the Civilian Defense Office, is pictured at her desk, working on the day's program.

Bride of Howard Murdock

MRS. FRANCES KINERK MURDOCK

Miss Frances L. Kinerk became the bride of Howard Murdock, both of South Bend, Ind., at South Bend, Saturday, October 31. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murdock of 122 Hone street.

Howard Murdock Marries Miss Kinerk of South Bend

The marriage of Miss Frances Lucille Kinerk of South Bend, Ind., to Howard D. J. Murdock, also of South Bend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Murdock of 122 Hone street, was performed in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, South Bend, Saturday, October 31. The Rev. Wendell P. Corcoran, C.S.C., officiated at an altar banked with white chrysanthemums, ferns and tapers.

Miss Genevieve Turnock was maid of honor and Paul Schatzel of Kingston was the best man. Ushers were Dr. Robert Van Boklelen and Dr. William H. Johnston of Laporte, Ind.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Lieut. Louis O. Kinerk, wore a gown of ivory satin fashioned with a heart neckline and short train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was caught by a cap of Duchess lace which belonged to her mother. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and bouvardia. The maid of honor wore a colleen green velveteen gown fashioned with a long torso edged with scallops at the waist and on the bracelet length sleeves. She wore matching plumes in her hair and carried a cascade bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served in the Coral room of the Hotel Lasalle and in the early afternoon a reception for 100 guests was held at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Murdock left for a wedding trip in the east and they are now making their home in Laporte, Ind.

The bride was graduated from Central High School and is a member of the Service Guild. Mr. Murdock was graduated from Kingston High School where he played varsity football and received his master of science degree from the University of Notre Dame in 1940. OUR USUAL FEATURE

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, Monday, December 14. Tomorrow they will be guests of honor at a family dinner party at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Staerker of 7 Otis street, and at open house during the afternoon.

Miss Rose Abernethy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Abernethy of 139 Pearl street, a sophomore at the College of St. Rose, will take part in the Christmas concert to be given by the members of the college glee club, Tuesday, December 15.

Pvt. Vernon E. Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Snyder of Snyder place, is now stationed at Camp Pickett, Va., in the medical corps. He was formerly employed at Dorns Transportation and left with the Kingston contingent November 24.

Among those who will be graduated at Turner Air Field, Albany, Ga., Sunday, is Richard Kukuk, son of Henry Kukuk of Albany and a grandson of Elmer E. Swart of 110 Elmendorf street. He will receive his wings and a commission as lieutenant in the air corps, in which he enlisted in January.

Louis W. Sapp, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Sapp of 279 Clinton avenue, has received his rating as third class petty officer after his training at the Great Lakes Naval Training station. He will be stationed at the navy yard Bureau of Aeronautics, Ordnance Department, Washington, D. C.

The promotion of Tech. 5th grade Leo Lynch of 67 Fairmount avenue to the rank of tech. 4th grade in the demonstration regiment of the Armored Force School, Fort Knox, Ky., was announced this week.

In an item released to the Freeman concerning the farewell party for a Whelan drug store clerk held at the Barn, Wednesday, the name of the inductee Robert E. Campbell of 20 Esopus avenue was erroneously given as Isaac A. Campbell of 21 Downs street. Mr. Campbell will leave with the contingent Monday.

Engagement Announced

Ellenville, Dec. 12 — Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Panich of the Highland Rest Hotel, Briggs Highway, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Clara Panich, to Martin Rugg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Rugg, of Brooklyn.

Miss Panich is a graduate of the Ellenville High School and Mr. Rugg is a graduate of C. C. N. Y. The couple will be married in the near future.

Good Taste Today

MANNERS IN SCHOOL BUILDING

A man tells me that while he knows he is expected to take his hat off when in the presence of ladies indoors, he resents this situation which he has described to me as follows: "I was leaving a public school building one evening with a group of students and teachers. As I reached the foyer before going through the main exit, I put on my hat. The principal who is much older than I took me to task for my bad manners in having put on my hat. He said that a gentleman never wears a hat in a public building, particularly when with a lady. I disagreed with him on this occasion because with my hat in my hand I had found it awkward to open the heavy door for the ladies to go out."

In answer to this I would say that as a man nears the door of any public building it is permissible for him to put on his hat. In fact, this is the only way he can manage to put on his overcoat before going outdoors. This difference between taking his hat off upon entering a building and putting it on before leaving is illustrated whenever a man enters the auditorium of a theatre. He always enters with his hat in his hand but as he stands up to leave his seat he puts his hat on—always! Not only in order to put on his coat but to keep his hat out of the way. The custom probably began when men wore easily spoilable silk hats. In any case I see no discourtesy in the scene you described as having taken place at a door or exit.

Announcements for All Children

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to send announcements of a second baby's arrival? Someone tells me it is best taste to limit them to a first child.

Answer: No, there's no rule about it at all. One can send them as often as one has occasion to do so. But as a stationer put it the other day, the parents themselves seem to lose interest after the first time. At least so this one "specialist" said.

A Shower Without the Guest of Honor

Dear Mrs. Post: We gave a bridal shower lately for a friend and at the last minute she was taken ill and couldn't come. Her mother came and offered to open the packages in her place. We did not like the idea and for Mary it really spoiled the party. But how else could this situation have been met?

Answer: I think it would have been much better had someone suggested that the presents be kept unopened and the shower held another day. They might for example have been taken to her house as soon as she was well enough to receive the givers.

Dressing for an Afternoon Concert

Dear Mrs. Post: On a Sunday afternoon soon a well known opera star is going to sing at an afternoon concert to be given for the benefit of a local charity. We women would like to know how to dress and whether to wear hats? Be sure your advice includes the length of skirts and whether to wear hats?

Answer: Wear a street length dress and hat. The same sort of clothes that you would wear to church.

Announcing Engagement?

Is it good taste to send a photograph to the newspaper when you announce your engagement? Mrs. Post answers this question and others on wedding procedure in her booklet No. 501, "The Etiquette of Weddings." Send for it enclosing ten cents in coin and a 3-cent stamp to cover postage and handling. Write Mrs. Post in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

Daily Menus

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

Long Slow Cooking Dishes
Baked Lima Beans
(Meat Alternate)

1 quart (4 cups) dried lima beans
Water
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon mustard.
2 tablespoons chopped onions
1/3 cup molasses (dark)
½ cup chili sauce or catsup
2/3 pound fresh lean pork
Boiling bean stock

Wash beans and cover by 4 inches with cold water. Soak over night. Drain and rinse and cover with more water. Add salt and cook, covered, slowly until beans are tender. Drain and reserve the stock. Part can be used for the beans and the rest for soup or stew at a later meal.

Mix together beans, mustard, onions, molasses and sauce. Pour half of it in a bean pot or deep baking dish. Add the pork and cover with rest of bean mixture. Cover with bean stock and add a lid. Bake 7 hours in a slow oven—about 275 or 300 degrees F. Add more boiling stock as it cooks out of the beans.

Uncover and bake an hour to brown the top.

Here is a helpful moisture test for good baked beans: After an hour press a spoon on top of the beans and if liquid appears by pressing down about ½ inch there is enough moisture in the beans, if not add more.

Beans should be moist but not "runny." They thicken upon cooling.

Indian Pudding

2 cups milk
1/3 cup cornmeal
1/3 cup molasses
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg or mace
2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Heat milk in double boiler until smoking. Add rest of ingredients and cook covered 20 minutes over low heat. Stir several times with fork. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake 2½ hours in a slow oven—about 275-300 degrees F. Serve hot with vanilla ice cream, hard sauce or vanilla flavored liquid sauce.

This pudding can be reheated by cooking covered 20 minutes in a double boiler.

Enlistments for Inactive Duty With U. S. Marines

For the first time in the history of the Albany Marine Recruiting District, men may now be enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps and assigned to inactive duty, pending transfer to Parris Island, S. C., it was announced today.

The change removes all previous quota restrictions on Marine enlistments before the deadline for voluntary recruiting at midnight Tuesday, December 15, except that only the number specified in the December quota may be transferred immediately for training. All men enlisted over the original quota will be assigned to their homes, to be called for training sometime during January, 1943.

This is an abrupt departure from the usual Marine system of shipping men to training bases on the day of enlistment. It marks the first time in the memory of local recruiters that men enlisted for general duty have been placed on an inactive duty status. Before the new regulation was announced, only officer candidates and specialists not immediately needed were assigned to inactive duty.

The move is expected to bring a larger number of volunteers into the Corps before the enlistment deadline than was previously anticipated. It was originally planned to enlist and transfer only 250 men, and a much larger number of applications on hand meant that many would have to be left out and become subject to the draft.

As soon as the 250 quota has been reached, the recruiting office announced, men enlisted thereafter will be placed on inactive duty. It is expected that several enlistment ceremonies will be performed each day after the quota is reached, with accepted applicants being sworn into the Corps as soon as their papers are complete.

The restrictions on enlistments still apply, the office declared. Only men between 17 and 35 who have filed applications dated before December 6, 1942, may be enlisted before recruiting stops Tuesday. Applicants between 17 and 18 may still file new applications, and may be enlisted through the entire month of December.

Kingston Ministers' Wives Hold Saugerties Meeting

The Methodist Ministers' Wives of Kingston District met Friday, December 4, at the Methodist parsonage in Saugerties. A business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Robert B. Guice of Ashokan. Christmas carols were sung by the group and Mrs. Arthur Carroll, the district superintendent's wife, sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Francis Potter of Jefferson. Mrs. Clarence Dumm, the wife of the principal of the Kingston High School, spoke on the subject, "Wives of Profesional Men," after which the wives joined their husbands in the church where the Onteora Ministerial Club was holding its business meeting and having a paper presented on evangelism by the Rev. Roscoe Strivings of Trinity Church, Kingston. The Ministers' Wives have met once before this year.

The district is divided into six groups, each of which meets several times a year for social and intellectual betterment. Reports from these groups, at the business meeting Friday showed that they are functioning very nicely. The members are planning to read the book, "I Married a Minister," by Mrs. Jesse Bader.

Big Increase Seen in Food Needs of Allies

With the approach of winter, large quantities of food will be needed to feed American and allied prisoners of war and victims of invasion in devasted countries, according to a joint statement by the American Red Cross and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Using supplies procured by the Agricultural Marketing Administration, the Red Cross has provided supplementary food for American and allied prisoners of war in the Far East. The shipment was made on the first trip of the exchange ship "Gripsholm," and increased supplies are now loaded on the vessel for her second trip. These shipments included AMA supplies of dry whole milk, butter, and concentrated citrus juice packed in individual parcels to feed captured fighting men and interned civilians. Similar packages are being sent regularly to prisoners of war and civilian internees held by Germany and Italy.

The Red Cross is assisting in the feeding of Polish, Greek, and many other refugee groups in Egypt and the Middle East, including war orphans and evacuee children. Commodities sent to the Middle East included beans, canned tomatoes, grapefruit juice, cane syrup and molasses, oatmeal enriched flour, rice, dehydrated soup, powerded milk, and oleomargarine.

Children in unoccupied France recently received a shipload of Red Cross supplies which included 274,000 cases of evaporated milk from AMA stocks. These supplies were already widely distributed before the complete occupation of France by Germany.

Other commodities obtained for the Red Cross by AMA for distribution in the various war areas include: rolled oats, enriched wheat flour, evaporated and dry milk, canned pork sausage, lard, syrup, canned and consentrated citrus juice, canned tomatoes, and vitamin C tablets.

The volume and variety of foods needed to feed prisoners, refugees, and other war victims may be expected to increase sharply this winter and next spring, the joint statement pointed out.

The Agricultural Marketing Administration is now procuring all the food requirements for American Red Cross shipments. The Agriculture agency acts as purchasing agent or sells directly to Red Cross from its stocks held in various parts of the country to supply the needs of the allied nations, the U. S. territories, and for other war purposes.

The foodstuffs are delivered to shipside for Red Cross, which arranges for the overseas shipping, often with safe-conduct through battle zones, and delivers the food when it reaches its destination. Every container is conspicuously marked as a "gift of the American people through the American Red Cross."

The resignation of Mrs. Lester Arnold, chairman of the unit for the past year, was accepted and Mrs. Siah Roosa, vice-chairman, will act in that capacity during the remainder of the program year. A meeting was scheduled for Wednesday, January 20, when the clothing project will be in order.

A special meeting of the Modena Methodist Sunday school board was called for Wednesday evening, when Miss Marguerite Smith was nominated as superintendent, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Lester Arnold. A meeting of the official board of the church was also conducted Wednesday evening.

There was a good attendance at the meeting held Wednesday evening in Hasbrouck Hall, when members of the Methodist Church brought their "talent dollars" and related the manner in which they were increased. A profitable sum was realized despite the fact that a complete report was not available.

Mrs. Edward Hartney and daughter Joan, visited relatives in Walden, recently.

Mrs. Norman Walsh has returned to her home in Schenectady, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edward Atchinsen and Mrs. E. DuBois, here.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Paltridge of Ardonia, spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wager.

Miss Helen Jones and Miss Carolyn Thomas of Newburgh, were guests of Mrs. Curtis Otto, Friday evening.

Mrs. Burton Ward, Mrs. Arthur Schonberg, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Atchinsen and Mrs. E. DuBois visited in Newburgh Tuesday.

Mrs. Edward Hartney and daughter Joan, accompanied Miss Ruth Weber and friends from Newburgh and Fostertown, to Jersey City, Sunday, where they visited relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Wager have vacated the house of Herbert Winders, near the Modena railroad station, and moved into the Lucy farmhouse with Mrs. Wager's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Decker. Mr. Wager will leave for an army training camp in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray DuBois entertained company at their home Tuesday evening.

Will Hold Mass

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Union Hose will hold a Mass in St. Mary's Church, Monday morning at 7 o'clock for the Union Hose members now in service. Relatives and friends are invited.

5 Inboard Speed Records

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Five inboard speed records were set during 1942 despite widespread curtailment of activities because of gasoline rationing, the American Power Boat Association announced today. Tommy Ince traveled a measured mile at a rate of 77.67 m.p.h. for the top speed of the year at Lake Elsinore, Calif., on May 17. Hit also is a record for division II of the 225 cubic inch class.

Produce Growers Plan Meeting in Syracuse

Ithaca, N. Y.—Vegetable and potato growers of New York state have their eighth joint convention in Syracuse on Wednesday and Thursday, January 6 and 7.

In the morning, the two groups will be in separate sessions, to consider individual problems of production, labor, seed, marketing, disease control, and farm machinery.

The afternoon joint session will present several prominent speakers. Dr. Guy Meal, of the Agricultural Marketing Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will discuss the U. S. D. A. 1943 program for fruit and vegetable growers. As shortage of transportation is expected to bring curtailment of some long-distance shipments, and require greater production in areas close to the markets, Dr. Meal's talk may outline revised production plans for New York state growers, relatively close to their markets.

Other speakers on the program will describe the outlook for fertilizer, insecticides, and farm supplies in 1943, the general farm situation, and the growing market for dried vegetables and potatoes.

Forum discussions, in which growers can thresh out their problems, are part of the program. Growers, as in former years, may consult growers from other states, trade experts and members of the research staffs of the Cornell and Geneva agricultural experiment stations, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Harry Pierce Is Injured

Harry F. Pierce of 701 Broadway was taken to the Kingston Hospital this morning for treatment of injury sustained when he fell from a roof to the ground. A flag pole which also is used for attaching several radio aerials was blown down by the wind last week. Mr. Pierce had gone upon a back roof to repair the aerial when he slipped and fell. He sustained a possible fracture of the leg above the ankle.

All tires imported into Cuba are now placed only in essential services.

County Health Officer Asks Generous Help From All

"The coming year is one of the most crucial the anti-tuberculosis campaign has ever faced," said Dr. Clealand A. Sargent, Ulster county state district health officer, in a statement today in which he urged all citizens to support as generously as possible the annual Christmas Seal Sale of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association, which opened on November 23.

Dr. Sargent said, "That although our country had not as yet shown any evidence of a war-time rise in tuberculosis, in large industrial cities and in Europe and Asia a decided increase has been shown."

Arthur Laidlaw, superintendent of schools, urged all parents and pupils to take an active part in the campaign.

"Not only does the association need our financial support, but our moral support," he said. "Too much emphasis cannot be placed on protection against tuberculosis for boys and girls of high school age. Mr. Laidlaw pointed out that tuberculosis is the chief health enemy of persons between 15 and 19, killing and disabling more persons in this age group than any other disease.

Henry Darrow, president of Kiwanis Club, and William O'Reilly, president of Rotary Club, both have assured the association that all members would do their part in the tuberculosis and Christmas Seal campaign.

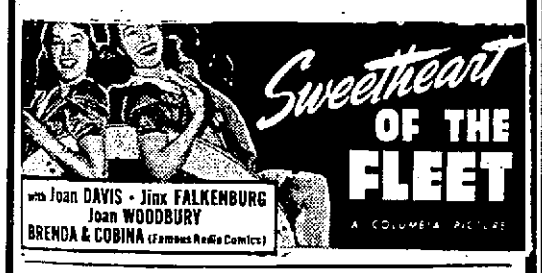

Break Church Windows

Vandals have been breaking the windows in the Wurts Street Baptist Church. Friday afternoon Attorney Floyd W. Powell, an officer of the church, reported to the police department that two more windows were broken in the church. This time the windows were on the Spring street side of the church. It is not known as yet whether the vandals are children or adults.

Important Notice On
FUEL OIL RATIONING

Almost all coupons have been mailed to customers. Please study your coupon sheet carefully and properly endorse on line marked "signature of coupon holder." Then copy your ration number (number appearing on white stamp) on each and every stamp.

DO THIS AT ONCE AND AVOID LOSS AND CONFUSION

Period 1 and Period 2 coupons are now good for 10 gallons each. Period 1 coupon expires December 23. Period 2 expires January 19. Value of other coupons will be announced later.

1 gallon and 5 gallon coupons are good until September 30, 1943.

You must deliver to your supplier coupons for all oil received since October 1st. If you do not your supplier must report you to the rationing board.

Please cooperate with your oil man and have your coupons ready when he calls. He cannot possibly handle all this extra work without your fullest cooperation.

You have been allowed about 70% of your last year's oil purchases. If coupons allowed you do not approximate this figure you may appeal to your local rationing board, but don't do so this week. They are swamped with work and cannot handle appeals now.

Do not phone———write.
Oil is ammunition — use it wisely.

TRADE MARK REG.

By Junius

This new slow driving would enable us to enjoy the scenery if we would quit thinking about the tires.

Lawyer (when he called on his client at the jail)—What are you here for?

Man—Just a little traffic case.

Lawyer—But they don't throw you in jail for that. You can sign a citation and they'll let you appear. It must have been something else.

Man—I tell you it was a traffic case. The traffic officer came up along side and claimed I hadn't signaled for a turn. Then he started talking to me just as my wife does. Before I knew it I was answering "Yes, my dear" and then he threw me into jail.

Try This on the Judge

A truck driver in Milwaukee, Wis., arrested for driving the wrong way in a one-way street, explained he was cutting his mileage 25 per cent to save rubber. Sentence was suspended.

Owner—What will it cost me to have my car fixed?

Garageman—What's the matter with it?

Owner—I don't know.

Garageman—Forty-eight dollars and fifty cents.

Grandfather cut firewood in the timber. Walked beside the wagon in zero weather. Carried lines over his shoulder and whipped his hands around his body to keep from freezing. Now his grandson thinks he is roughing it if he has to drive a sedan without a heater.

First—The party is dull, isn't it?

Second—Yes, very.

First—Let's go home?

Second—I can't. I'm host.

We Americans talk about all-out war, but we can wage an all-out war only when we have all-out patriotism. What is all-out patriotism? It is such patriotism as Stephen Decatur defined when he said:

"In her intercourse with foreign nations may our country always be in the right: but our country, right or wrong."

Challenged by the forces of evil, our country today fights for the preservation of rights. She deserves, and must have, the boundless patriotism of each citizen.

Sally—Say, Dad, I want you to tell me something about Michael.

Dad—Now what? You want to marry that rascal, I suppose?

Sally—No, Dad. You see we were secretly married a month ago. I want you to help me get a divorce.

Judge—After this, you had better stay out of bad company.

Culprit—Yes, sir, Judge. You won't see me again in a hurry.

The fellow who drives the hearse a couple of days a week out for a pleasure ride seldom develops speed mania.

A man, while single, was in the habit of going to a certain restaurant and ordering honey for his waffles. After he got married he took his wife to the same restaurant, ordered waffles and not being served honey to go with them, said to the waitress:

Man—Where's my honey?

Waitress—Oh, she doesn't work here any more.

December Breezes

The man who wins may have been counted out several times but he did not hear the referee. It is easy to forgive an enemy if we know we can lick him. It would be easy to like our wife's relatives if they were not her relatives. Why find fault with Nevada? If divorce is wrong, the wrong is a matter of fact, not of weeks or months. If she works before getting married, that's a career; if she works after marriage, that's a job. The less a man has, the harder he will fight for it, be it liberty, property or religion.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Dec. 11—The Ladies' Aid members held a successful weekly quilting and dinner at the church Wednesday, with the following present: Mrs. Belle Burgher, president; Mrs. Kathryn Terwilliger, vice-president; Mrs. Florence Bell, treasurer; Mrs. Anna Avery, Mrs. Bertha Shimer, Mrs. Elizabeth Richter, Mrs. Minnie Every, Mrs. Nicholas Winkler, Mrs. Lottie Campbell, Mrs. Margaret Martin, Mrs. Mattie Davis.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Saugerties, Dec. 11—Pvt. Gerald Snyder has been transferred from the induction center at Camp Upton to Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

The annual Parent-Teachers Christmas party was held in the high school auditorium Wednesday evening. The speaker of the evening was William Burger of the New York state Y.M.C.A. who talked on, "What Can the Saugerties Churches Do for the Adjustment of Youth?" Three years ago Mr. Burger addressed the local organization in December and this year his presence was made possible through the boys and girls Hi-Y Clubs of the school. The committee was: Mrs. Anthony Bitterman, Mrs. Franklin Clum, Mrs. William Spring, Mrs. Phyllis Wood, Mrs. Eliot Fatum, Mrs. Robert Schuchhardt, Mrs. Robert Weikel, Mrs. Matilda Hauck, Mrs. Vincent Kenney, Mrs. Floyd Myer, Mrs. James Hoffman, Miss Nellie Schmidt, Miss Jean Dusenbury and Miss Leona Hogan.

Mrs. Grant D. Morse of Ulster avenue was called to Gainesville, Ga., where her father is seriously ill.

On last Sunday morning Christian baptism was administered to Charlotte Ann Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bell at the Lutheran Church by the Rev. Ray Kulman. Frank Kenney and Miss Alice Clancey were sponsors.

David Ray Kulman, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Ray Kulman of the Lutheran Church was baptised in the local Lutheran Church by the Rev. LaRoy Deitrich, pastor of the West Camp Lutheran Church.

The Rinaldi store on South Partition street has issued an announcement that hereafter their delivery service will be made only three days each week, on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

The Saugerties Methodist Church has announced that the Christmas service will be held Sunday morning, December 20. Christmas exercises will take place Sunday evening, December 20. Sunday school Christmas party will be held December 23 with the primary department holding its party in the afternoon and the junior and senior departments in the evening at 7 o'clock.

Pvt. Ward Breithaupt is now stationed at Camp Crowder, Mo., from Fort Meade, Md.

Donald Washburn, U.S.N., was a recent guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Washburn on Main street.

Miss Mary Doyle of MacDonald street was in Brooklyn for several days, where she attended the funeral of her late brother John Doyle.

Mrs. Fred Bush of Livingston street has gone to Washington, D. C., where she will live with her son.

Miss Katherine Miller, who has been visiting her parents in Ohio, has returned to her home at the Exchange Hotel.

George Hildebrandt of the local Hi-Y Club at the high school will attend the annual Hi-Y Assembly to be held in Albany, December 11, 12 and 13, as a delegate from this village.

The regular meeting of the Saugerties village board was held last Monday evening and it was decided to contribute the iron fence and cannon balls at the Soldiers' monument on Ulster avenue to the government's scrap pile. G. William Gardner was voted chief of the Saugerties fire department in place of Sydney Mills, who has accepted a defense position at Hartford, Conn.

The local post office has announced that the following hours will be observed on Saturdays until Christmas: Saturday, December 12, until 5 p. m., Saturday, December 19 until 6 p. m. and Saturday, December 26 until 6 p. m. All patrons are asked to mail early and address their mail clearly.

A contingent of 65 young men were sent to Albany on Wednesday morning where their final examinations were held. Thirty-five were residents from this village under orders from the Saugerties Board No. 314.

Dr. Emily Pratt of the State Education Department visited the Saugerties schools on Monday.

Pvt. Allen Whitney of Pine Camp, was a recent guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Whitney on Ulster avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Emerick of Kingston were week-end guests of his parents in Katsbaan.

William C. Cotton of Saxton was named chairman of the local draft board No. 314 and George Knight of this village has been named secretary. The local organization now consists of five members.

Pvt. Grant Crum of this village is now stationed at Miama, Fla., where he is a member of the Training Squadron, Flight G.

Mr. and Mrs. Shields of Lake Katrine spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Horton Pearson in Katsbaan.

BRITISH HONOR U. S. SONG

The Star Spangled Banner, written when this nation was at war with England, was sung enthusiastically in the British Isles when services were held at Belfast, Northern Ireland, welcoming American troops to new stations there. Major W. T. Brundick, American chaplain, was guest speaker and a special choir was composed of members from both British and American services. The entire audience arose and sang the American anthem to open the meeting.

LINKED ARMS FORBIDDEN

British soldiers and girl members of certain commands of the Auxiliary Transport Service are forbidden to walk arm-in-arm under new regulations recently announced in London. Such practice is "unmilitary," the regulation stated. Previously they were forbidden to hold the arms of male relatives and friends

4-H Girl Reports On Chicago Trip

Nine Years' Club Work Is Well Repaid, She Says

Miss Theodora Stokes of Rifton, Ulster county 4-H girl who was chosen as one of a dozen New York state girls to attend the National 4-H Club Congress held in Chicago recently, has made a complete and detailed report of her trip to the local 4-H office. She says it was a most eventful and enjoyable trip and well worth while.

Miss Stokes left her home at 6 o'clock on the morning of November 28 and with the other New York state delegates traveled all day, until they reached Cleveland, where they spent the night. The next morning they resumed their journey, reaching Chicago at 4 o'clock that afternoon. At the first gathering they attended, Miss Stokes was given the honor of carrying the New York state flag.

Through Wednesday, the program was a round of dinners, luncheons, entertainments, a visit to the Field Museum, another to the Art Institute, discussions, addresses by well known people, a dress review and demonstration.

Miss Stokes writes, "This trip alone has more than repaid me for completing my nine years in club work. Anyone who does not try for this trip would regret it greatly if they could only have a sample of what a grand time they could have."

WAR-TIME STRIKES BANNED

Sentence of 182 miners of Kaikato, New Zealand, has been suspended by the imposition of a series of strict conditions, including a proviso that the men must not go on strike while the war lasts. The agreement, announced by Prime Minister P. Fraser, called for prompt return to work, diligent activity on the job and agreement neither to strike or to encourage others to strike for the duration.

LIFTING CLOUDS

The brilliant victories of American arms in the Southern Pacific and in Northern Africa, together with the crushing of Rommel and the new Russian offensive, have given a tremendous boost to the morale of the United Nations, including our own. We feel that we are at last accomplishing something and that the defeat of the Axis powers is measurably nearer.

However, leaders in the war movement are warning us not to be too optimistic. The Axis has been slowed down but a mortal wound has not yet been inflicted. Winston Churchill tells us that we are not seeing the beginning of the end but the end of the beginning.

All of these warnings are proper and salutory. It is the business of our leaders to see there is no lessening of the war effort through over-confidence. The best way to win a short war is to prepare for a long one. Our military leaders would be lax indeed if they permitted brilliant successes to interfere with the preparations for a long and grueling contest. If the war ends measurably soon all the better. But we want to be ready for a long, tough fight.

Aside from these precautions, however, there are one or two things to be pointed out which can be the basis for reasonable optimism. When things were going against the United Nations our morale did not crack because we realized that the bad luck was only temporary. The Axis had beaten us to the punch but we realized that we were getting stronger and sooner or later we would be in a dominant position both in men and materiel. Therefore we could well afford to tighten our belts and wait for things to change. With the Axis, however, it is different. Its people have been fed up on victories which they were told would win the war. When this doesn't happen and the enemy becomes stronger and assumes the offensive, the Axis nations cannot afford to wait for another turn as we did. They have reached their peak. From now on their manpower and their sinews will begin to decline. They cannot expect a comeback because they do not have the reserve strength.

The people have lost their enthusiasm and slave labor is not as efficient. The result is the slowing down of production. This together with the R.A.F. bombings of plants has made a big difference on both the Russian and African fronts.

It will not be surprising, therefore, if the morale of the people in the Axis nations does not crack sooner or later. When that time comes the war may be over sooner than even the military leaders now expect. This is not based entirely on wishful thinking. We remember the first world war. Six months before the armistice was signed everyone in America thought two or three years of hard fighting were ahead. Yet when the end did come, it came with surprising suddenness. It seemed almost too good to be true and the armistice celebration is well remembered by those yet alive who took part in it.

Therefore, we have a right to be hopeful. Let us by all means prepare for a long war and keep on preparing. But let's not forget that when the Axis is slapped down it will not have the springboard in reserve that we possess.

ARMED PEACE LEAGUE

What to look forward to in the future is in part the theme of a new book, "Our Fighting Faith," published by President James B. Conant of Harvard University. He says:

"The will to peace of free democratic countries has been proved during the last three years beyond doubt or question. A free people will not readily engage in a modern war. Hence, if freedom is to be protected once the Axis powers are beaten, potential aggressors must be too weak to strike. An armed association of free societies must stand ready, once this war is over, to serve together if need be, not to impose their form of government on other people, but to prevent the growth of new challenges to their freedom. If this is done without malice on the one hand, and without seeking the refuge of illusions on the other, we may hope that international order will be restored, and that our children's children may walk boldly and with confidence along the enduring paths of liberty and peace."

STRATEGIC SILENCE

Facts revealed in connection with the anniversary of Pearl Harbor seem to justify the silence maintained there for a year. Neither the American public nor the enemy realized the extent of the damage done in that infamous raid. If the Japanese had really known the weakness to which the great Hawaiian stronghold was reduced, while their own strength was still intact, they would probably have rushed back to complete the job and seize the islands. Such a success would have made American recovery in the Pacific far harder and slower.

The newspapers naturally want to print all the news that can be safely revealed, and the public wants it. And there has been much dissatisfaction with the concealment in this case. But seen in retrospect, with the full facts known, few people will complain further about the long silence.

THE BOUNDING BASQUE

Jean Borotra is in the news again. Tennis-lovers who followed the French team that years ago took the Davis Cup away from this country will remember Borotra, "the bounding Basque," and the general air of commotion he gave to the tennis courts. Lately he has been director of sports for the Vichy government, thereby greatly grieving his admirers the world over.

Now Borotra has balked at Vichy's continual subservience to Hitler, and resigned from the Petain-Laval payroll. On the old principle which still holds, "better late than never," he will be welcomed to the fold of fighters for freedom.

It doesn't seem logical to use the word "logistics" for military transport and supply.

War is still hell, but blessed is the man with five good tires.

INFLUENZA AND PNEUMONIA

Physicians who went through the influenza epidemic of 1918-1919, and witnessed the hopelessness in the treatment of thousands of cases, now look with eager eyes toward future battles with influenza. No longer is there the feeling of helplessness should another epidemic occur because the physician is now well equipped to fight this dread disease.

It was because influenza went on to pneumonia and bronchopneumonia and the heart already damaged by influenza was unable to sustain the continued fight against pneumonia and bronchopneumonia, that so many victims died. Now that the physician has at hand the sulfa drugs which have reduced the death rate in pneumonia from nearly 10 per cent to about 3 per cent, he is able to fight influenza and pneumonia successfully.

Some interesting figures were recently released by Dr. Louis I. Dublin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The figures show that there has been a decrease in the death rate of influenza and pneumonia of 65 per cent from 1900 to 1940, that is from 202 per hundred thousand of the population in 1900 to 70 in 1940.

While this is gratifying, the use of the sulfa drugs during 1941 and 1942 has caused an even more rapid decrease.

How remarkable this drop in the death rate really is can only be realized by thinking of the rate of decrease in the years 1900 to 1940, or before the general use of the sulfa drugs. For the general population, the decrease in the death rate from influenza and pneumonia has been at the rate of 1½ per year for the forty years. During the last two years judging the whole population by the millions of wage earners and their families of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the death rate has decreased more than 14 per cent a year. In other words, the sulfa drugs have decreased the death rate in influenza and pneumonia over nine times as much each of the last two years as in any of the previous forty years.

When we think of how diabetes and perhicious anaemia—two diseases that were formerly always fatal—have been controlled, it is not too much to believe that in the days to come influenza and pneumonia will be likewise controlled.

"Indeed if the present trend continues for a few more years, pneumonia which just ten years ago was a scourge, will have become a minor cause of death."

DIVORCE NEAR IN CHILE

Radicals and Socialists in the Chilean Congress have joined forces to push through the bill for absolute dissolution of the marriage tie. The bill has been pending for many years, while divorce has existed in fact, based on the legal "nullification" of marriage by subterfuges. The Conservatives will oppose the legislation by every means in their power, supported by the influence of the church, but it is believed in Santiago that eventually the measure will be adopted.

One thousand machines which plant young cabbages at the rate of 200 a minute are helping British farmers speed up food production.

Poem on Pearl Harbor

The following song-poem was read and sung by its author, Sophie Schmidtkonz, at the meeting Thursday evening of the Business and Professional Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A.:

VICTORY OVER SIN

I

You did an awful wicked thing
To bomb Pearl Harbor in a wink
Yet sinful Japs of Japanland
You've broken off with God and man
Of all the terrible things thus done
This is the worst and blackest one

II

Ye men of Japan fearing God
You share with us, the shepherd's rod
We'll do our share to set you free
From darkness and from tyranny
God serves the good through His dear Son
The bad by God and man are shunned

FINALE

Ye men of God, o'er all the earth
Your lamentations and your cries
Are heard by God, so don't despair
For God is love, you're in His care
Just pray to God the Almighty One
So let this world war soon be won
And lift your eyes unto the hills

SOPHIE SCHMIDTKONZ

P.S. To be sung to the tune of the hymn, "Eternal Father! Strong to Save"; music by John B. Dykes 1861. In the finale the last two lines are sung to a repetition of the last line of the music.

NAVY NEEDS SEA BOOTS

Australia's merchant navy is short of sea boots because of regulations freezing rubber, and as a result of rationing the crews are short of working clothes. Deck and engine room crews may have to go to sea in their best civilian clothes.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Isaac T. Mesereau, one of the few old time printers of Ulster county, died suddenly on August 7, 1928, in his room in the Fischer Hotel on the Strand, where he had lived for several years.

Mr. Mesereau had been connected with the newspaper business all his life. In the days of Horatio Fowkes he was employed as a compositor on the old Rondout Courier. Later he became associated with The Freeman as a printer where he worked for a number of years.

He was one of the founders of the old Kingston Daily Express which in later years was absorbed by The Kingston Daily Leader. He was with the Express for a number of years until he sold his interests in the newspaper to Louis Hoysradt and returned to The Freeman where he was employed as a printer in the coming room.

Mr. Mesereau also for many years published the old Rosendale Journal, a weekly newspaper. I wonder how many of the older readers of this column recall that weekly.

For several years Mr. Mesereau made his home in New York city, but life in the metropolis did not appeal to him and he returned to Kingston to work on The Freeman until he retired a few years before he died.

And speaking of the old Express I recal that on August 4, 1918, the building which had housed it for years on lower Broadway, was bought by Harry Nelburn, the plumbing contractor.

James E. Canfield served his last day as city treasurer on July 31, 1918, as he had resigned to accept the position of secretary of the newly organized Chamber of Commerce in Saratoga Springs. He was succeeded as city treasurer by A. D. Pardee, who held the office for several years.

Older readers will recall that Mr. Canfield had also served the local Chamber of Commerce as its secretary, before he became city treasurer during the administration of Mayor Palmer Canfield.

In the years at the turn of the century sport fans and athletes used to meet in the cigar store of Arthur Rice on lower Broadway. It was on July 30, 1918, that Mr. Rice sold the business to Ernest Fidow. Mr. Rice for years was widely known as a ballplayer and played with many of the outstanding baseball teams in the Hudson valley.

In later years he became interested in politics and had served as sheriff of Ulster county with distinction.

Only 52 bicycles were imported by Argentina in the first half of this year, compared with 68,967 in the corresponding period of 1939.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 12 — Again a group of fine American citizens, volunteering their services on local boards to help the war effort, are being victimized by incompetent and inefficient administrators in Washington.

The fuel heating problem is the worst scandal of them all—far worse than the mix-ups over the draft or gasoline rationing. People who do not live in the areas rationed for fuel oil fortunately are untouched by the latest piece of bureaucratic red tape.

The fact is that, although warned to convert to coal, many people have been unable to get the necessary equipment to convert.

The fact also is that, although the public press carried the intimation that the amount of curtailment would be around 25 per cent, some people have been cut as much as 66 per cent. The reason for this happens to be some curious mathematical formula based on some alleged method of measuring what the heating requirements of homes should be.

But even if this formula were accepted, the administrative side of the government fell down in handling the citizens. Instead of notifying the public just how their fuel allocation would be handled, word was issued that until the ration cards were available the citizen could continue to use oil on a sort of credit basis, that is, he would be obliged when the coupons were issued to allow the oil company to deduct the coupons that he had used up to the time of receipt of ration certificates.

But the number of coupons used up were based on what the citizen, after all proper conservation steps, thought he was going to be permitted to use. It so happens that in one case known to this writer, where there was no way of knowing that the cut would be 66 per cent, when the coupons were issued the oil company was obliged to confiscate all of the current coupons, and this left the citizen without any oil whatsoever for the period between now and January 3.

To meet this particular situation, the citizen was told that coupons for the next period could be exchanged for those of the current period provided an application was filed, together with the testimony of a heating engineer, stating that every effort had been made to secure maximum efficiency with the fuel allotted. But such a certificate is superfluous. There is no way by which a 66 per cent gain in efficiency can be obtained, no matter how many doors or windows are plugged up.

The senate committee investigating national defense, known as the Truman committee, in a formal report just issued says:

"The average cut in the use of fuel oil for residential heating purposes which will have to be made in order to save 157,000 barrels of fuel oil per day during the winter heating period will be 25 per cent. The necessity for a cut of this amount was determined by the office of the petroleum coordinator, and the means by which such cut was to be effected were determined by the war production board under the direction of Leon Henderson.

"The committee has examined the instructions of the office of price administration, the forms of applications for heating oil prepared by it, and the formulas by which they are resolved. The committee is of the opinion that they were unnecessarily complex and that such complexity has not only created confusion in the public mind but has resulted in an inequitable and unworkable determination of fuel oil needs.

"In all except rare instances, home owners knew or were able to ascertain how much fuel oil they used last year. Since it must be assumed that they did not desire to waste their own money by purchasing fuel oil they did not need, the office of price administration should have assumed that they purchased it because they needed it. Consequently the committee is of the opinion that if the office of price administration had concluded that a straight line cut could be made without rendering the home uninhabitable, it should have proceeded in the first instance to make a flat percentage cut in each area with provision for application by individual home owners for more fuel where they could prove a necessity by reason of special circumstances and with provision for review by local boards of those situations where by reason of special circumstances less fuel oil would be sufficient."

The O.P.A. failed to accomplish this and today many citizens are suffering. But doubtless the New Deal will say it doesn't matter much—only a few persons are cold, after all. Small wonder the people voted in a big number of opposition candidates in the last election. Under a parliamentary system an election held today would doubtless wipe out all vestiges of the New Deal and its incompetent administrators.

Three little books on India—

To the average American the most incomprehensible theory in the world is Gandhi's idea that his "non-violence" could be applied against the Japanese if only Britain would get out of India and give it a chance. However you define non-violence it still means what the word means. Gandhi has backed and filled, and has contradicted himself over and over, as all three of the recent books on him and his ideas freely admit. But the immediate threat to India is Japan, and the little brown men have been notably unimpressed by other little brown men sitting in huts wrapped in sheets.

"What Does Gandhi Want?" T. A. Raman calls his book. Raman is a longtime friend and sympathetic interpreter of Gandhi, yet the gist of "What Does Gandhi Want?" is that although the Mahatma is no fifth columnist, it would be tragic to allow him to oppose non-violence to the Japs. And he also shows that although Gandhi is the most publicized man in India, he is not even one with all of his own party, and has twice, in July, 1940, and January, 1942, been "relieved" publicly of his leadership.

Louis Fischer's "A Week With Gandhi" interprets Gandhi's inconsistency differently. Mr. Fischer spent only a week with him, but he was much impressed. He believes the Mahatma merely thinks aloud; it is as if a writer were to publish all the drafts of a novel, exposing thereby the entire creative process as well as the end result. He does not, however, explain why the end result itself is so often contradictory—as when Gandhi wrote that the first thing he would do in a free India would be to negotiate with the Japs, and then declared that of course that would be impossible. Nor does Mr. Fischer show in what way publishing all the drafts of a novel would help reader, author, or indeed anybody but the printing and binding trade.

And there is also a small book compiled from Gandhi's writing from April 26 to July 26 of this year by Anand T. Hingorani. I am sure those more lavishly lacquered with the Mahatma's "philosophy" than I will be able to make sense out of this compilation, but I have failed ignominiously.

The title is "My Appeal to the British."

TROOPS MUST NOT SHOOT

Soldiers may hunt rabbits on a portion of Salisbury Plain, but they must not shoot, snare or trap them, a court ruling at Devizes, England, revealed. The disclosure came when Gunner Frederick G. Jones, Royal Artillery, was charged with having 78 rabbits in his possession. Jones was freed when the court learned troops were allowed to hunt rabbits on provision they only used one method—that of running the rabbits to ground with dogs and then digging them from their burrows.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — Almost unnoticed in the mass of war news pouring out in recent weeks has been the War Department's abandonment of an important experiment: the flight sergeant. In his place now is the "Flight Officer"—described by the army as a "sort of third lieutenant."

Next year will bring more than 100,000 pilots into the Army Air Corps. This change therefore is pretty important.

Flight officers get the same rank, pay and allowances provided for warrant officers of junior grade, but they get the same consideration, salute, etc., as any other officer. Thus end the "non-coms with wings" and nobody is happier to see them go than those very "non-coms with wings."

• • •

The "flying sergeants" have for several years been bearing the responsibilities of officer pilots, but with none of the benefits or even such little considerations as being "sirred" and saluted by the ground crews. Some of them have been even better pilots than the men who were fresh along with their wings, yet lacked the qualities which would make them officers. They were better pilots of planes than of men.

There is no better explanation for this than was offered by one air corps general. Babe Ruth, he said, was a great baseball player—a genius with a bat who also hung up records as a fielder and pitcher. Still, the Babe lacked something. He never could win his spurs as a manager.

• • •

Under the new regulations any man who has been a flight sergeant or any of those now coming out of schools originally designed to graduate flight sergeants will become flight officers. He will have the same insignia as a warrant officer except that his bar will be blue instead of brown and it will be crossed by a strip of gold.

In training, he will have no distinction from the men who are to become flying officers (men earmarked for flight sergeants have heretofore been known as flying students while flight officers in training were designated as flying cadets).

His record in flight school will determine his status as either a flight officer or second lieutenant, but you can bet the air corps will do its best to see that there is no stigma attached to a man coming out with the lesser grade.

In the matter of pay, the flight officers will be only a shade under the men with the bars. They still receive 50 per cent above base pay for flying. Army pay being what it is these days, that's nothing to shrug off.

The story of a People's crusade

A STORY EVERY AMERICAN CAN BE PROUD OF

This is the story of a people's triumph...the story of an aroused American public marching as to war.

Marching with scrap. Millions of tons of it...from homes, offices, stores, public buildings and farms...from cities, villages and hamlets.

Millions of tons of scrap for the steel mills...to enable them to produce the ships and tanks and planes and guns which our armed forces must have to win the war.

It was a major crisis that faced the nation early in September. If the steel mills didn't get more scrap metal soon, they would be forced to shut down. If the mills shut down...if our Army and Navy didn't get the arms and equipment they needed...how could we be sure of Victory?

It was, said Donald Nelson, one of the nation's gravest war problems.

The War Production Board knew that only by arousing the people in every community, only by making them scrapping mad, could the problem be solved. It had to be a people's job, a people's crusade. Nelson asked the newspapers of the country to lead it.

It was a big assignment. Gladly and quickly the newspapers accepted it. Almost overnight they set up national, sectional, state, and local committees. Almost overnight nearly every newspaper in the country was in action...and had enlisted the aid of local officials and the cooperation of civic, welfare, and religious organizations.

* * *

The drive was launched by advertisements...large, small and medium. Prepared by the National Committee of Newspapers and adjusted for local use by local newspapers, they appeared almost overnight and continued almost every day in hundreds of newspapers throughout the country. They furnished the motivating power. They started the people going. And when the people got going, the newspapers gave the drive further momentum with news stories, pictures, cartoons and editorials...urging the public to get out more scrap, to get out more scrap.

Each community handled the drive in its own way...adopted, under the leadership of local newspapers, special plans to fit its own local conditions. In thousands of communities there were local contests, prizes, public meetings, special events...to speed the job along.

* * *

Within a few days, the whole nation was scrap-conscious. When the drive was only 16 days old, a Gallup Poll showed that 94 per cent of the people knew about the great crusade, had read about the scrap campaign in their newspapers. The newspapers, with their ads and their stories, had taken the drive into every home in the country.

And within a few days, mountains of scrap began to pile up in thousands of cities, towns and villages. By truckload and bargeload and trainload the metal began to flow across the land to the mills...enabling the furnaces where Victory is being forged to glow again with the white heat of peak production.

The war on the scrap front must go on, of course. The steel mills will need scrap metal as long as the war lasts. But this, the first great battle, is won.

Donald Nelson wanted 4,000,000 tons of scrap in eight weeks. The people gave him more than 5,000,000 tons in three weeks. And that, said Vice Admiral S. M. Robinson, Chief of the Navy's Bureau of Procurement and Material, is enough scrap to build several times more battleships than there are in all the fleets of the world combined.

* * *

That's the story, briefly. It's the story of a national triumph made up of thousands of local successes, in which local pride, local energy, and local leadership of newspapers went to work. It's a story in which millions of Americans had a part...a story every American can be proud of. And it demonstrates once again the power of the press, its capacity to serve the public...and its ability not only to sell the people an idea, but to get them to do something about it.

A Statement from DONALD NELSON, Chairman, War Production Board

"This has been a wonderful job and has resulted in increasing the flow of scrap to the steel furnaces that must be kept going to keep our munitions program up. The whole campaign has been a major contribution to the war effort....The job that the newspapers have done is absolutely unprecedented in this country....The results have surpassed my fondest hopes."

A WAACy Merry Christmas!

ARTISTIC WAAC: Third Officer Lorraine Marshall and cards she designed.

AP Features

Fort Des Moines, Iowa.—Sixty-seven thousand home folks will get a kick out of the same number of WAACY Christmas cards this year. Designed especially for the WAACS, the gaily colored greeting cards have been snapped up so quickly at the Post Exchange, that the number has been limited to fifty cards per girl.

It all came about this way: Third Officer Lorraine Marshall couldn't get the Army off her mind while she was on furlough visiting her family in Chicago. So, she sketched pictures for the greeting cards. A commercial artist before she took to Army life, it wasn't long before she carried through her ideas to help the WAACS extend Christmas greetings to their civilian friends in military style. WAAC Auxiliary Donna J. Carteen and Corporal Vincent Schall assisted with the sketches.

The results are eighteen different amusing and delightful designs, depicting the various branches of military service in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. There's an oven full of good wishes for the cooks and bakers corps, a "jeep" for the motor corps, an office girl for the administrative service, and four camp scenes. Included also in the selection is a formal greeting card with a place for the sender to insert her own photograph in the WAAC uniform.

Even the familiar Christmas snowman is not neglected. On one card a uniformed WAAC stands between two snowmen wearing WAAC hats. Ths card reads, "It's Snow Picnic—But It's a Jolly Time I'm Wishing You."

British Will Celebrate in Relays

By EDWARD ROBINSON
(AP Features)

London—Britain's fourth war Christmas, which would normally have been a long four-day respite from work, will be a "staggered" and stay-at-home holiday for most of the 23,500,000 full-time workers and a few million more part-timers.

Relay systems will keep the war factories going, and the real holiday is expected to be either Saturday (Boxing Day) of Sunday.

Thousands of the workers will attempt to get home for Christmas, but travelers will find railway services cut, cold waiting rooms, interrupted journeys.

The only automobiles on the road will be those engaged on war work, or those whose owners have persuaded authorities of the need for their journey.

Christmas will, however, be more communual than any of the other war holidays. Hundreds of thousands of men and women in the forces are doing everything possible within limited resources to give Yuletide its traditional atmosphere. Many are acting as collective Santa Claus to evacuated children. Thousands of doughboys and dominion soldiers will be guests of British families.

United States personnel are giving a party to 200 children at the Londonderry Naval base — with Christmas trees, presents, turkeys.

All Britain is optimistically hopeful of a Christmas free from the heavy raids of previous winters.

There will be one toast for every family in the land—"to absent ones."

Pork, veal, roast beef will appear on most tables, due to a short supply of poultry.

Drinks will be chiefly a topic for reminiscence. Nothing extra is being released.

Buying presents is about the hardest of the holiday problems, and a bigger strain than ever on the purse. Most of them are in the luxury class, and luxuries are taxed at 66 and 1/3rd per cent.

Lutheran Shurch to Hold Rededication Services

Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone streets, will formally rededicate its newly decorated church on Sunday morning, December 20, at 10:30 a. m. Last May the church had a financial campaign for $10,000 in order to do the work. The drive was so successful that almost $14,000 was received in cash and pledges. The contract for the york was awarded to the Payne-Spiers Studios, Inc., of Paterson, N. J. The church has not been redecorated since 1905. The total cost of the work will approximate $12,000. The Rev. Frank Lawrence Gollnick is the ninth pastor in Trinity's history of one hundred years of Christian service.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, Dec. 11 — Theodora de Ruyter has returned from a visit in New York, and has resumed her work at Kingston High School.

The Woodstock Press suspended publication with its issue of December 11, for the duration of the war. It is the intention of the publishers to resume the publication of the newspaper within eight months after the war is over. Donald Mc Lennan, the owner and publisher of the paper has accepted a position at Albany with the division of Standards and Purchase of the State of New York. He will continue to reside in Woodstock and the equipment of the press will be kept intact pending the future publication of the paper.

Figures are now available on the salvage drive Christmas fund for the soldiers. The amount of money spent in this way was $249, and the balance on hand for the same purpose next year, should the war continue is $340.74. The articles purchased were: Cigarettes, two cartons to each of 64 men, $141.50; fountain pens, one each to 17 men, $30.09; regulation shirts, one each to two men, $5.92; socks, three pairs each to four men, $11.28; The Readers Digest, a one year subscription to each of 31 men, $46.50; duffle bags, one set of three to each of eight men, $23.44; Time Magazine, one year's subscription to each of eight men, $28; candy to one man, $2. The parcel post charges were $3.69. Questions as to what the men wanted were answered and it was upon these replies that the gifts were selected.

On the sick list at the present time is Ray Allen, who is recovering from an attack of pneumonia. J. Ordway Russ, who was taken to the Benedictine Hospital on Sunday, Miss Alice Henderson, who underwent an operation on Monday, Mrs. David Myer, who underwent an operation in Kingston on Wednesday and Joe Friedberg, who is at the Veterans' Hospital, Kings bridge road, the Bronx.

HOME BUREAU

Lomontville

On Thursday the Lomontville Home Bureau unit met at the home of Mrs. Demetrius J. France in the afternoon.

It was the first meeting since Ocfober. Mrs. Ray LeFevre, who had recovered from her recent illness, was welcomed by the members.

Mrs. Ray LeFevre held a business meeting.

Mrs. Macdonald had prepared an extensive recreation program, but was not able to come, so Mrs. LeFevre led the group in singing Christmas songs instead. The ladies had an enjoyable time.

Mrs. France served coffee and cookies.

Those present were: Mrs. Ray LeFevre, Mrs. Demetrius J. France, Mrs. Otto Kern, Mrs. Raymond Terwilliger, Mrs. William Koehler, Mrs. Vernon Goetchius and Enid Goetchius.

Central Dividend First Since 1931

The board of directors of the New York Central Railroad Company, on November 11, declared a dividend of one dollar per share, payable January 15, 1943, to stockholders of record as of December 10, 1942.

President F. E. Williamson of the New York Central System, declared that this contributed the first return since 1931 to the 61,500 stockholders whose equity, represented by invested capital and surplus, aggregates $771,800,000.

The net income for the first nine months of 1942 was listed as $32,129,045, after providing for tax accruals in the amount of $61,851,846 and interest on debt.

An 86-year-old farmer, Mathias Held, helped ease a Columbus, Ohio, farm labor shortage recently by husking 400 bushels of corn for a neighbor at the rate of 40 bushels per day, working 11 hours daily. Asked what he'd do with the husking money. Held said, "Well, I thought I might buy some more war bonds."

Colgate Graduate

FRANK LAWATSCH

Hamilton, Dec. 12.—Frank E. Lawatsch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Lawatsch of 109 East Chester street, Kingston, is a member of the senior class scheduled to receive bachelor of arts degrees, Sunday morning, when Colgate University holds its 122nd commencement exercises, the first ever held in winter at the institution. Entering Colgate as the Class of 1943, the seniors have completed their college work nearly six months ahead of schedule through the accelerated program adopted by Colgate immediately after Pearl Harbor.

Commencement was to have been held December 20, but will be held Sunday because more than 90 members of the senior class have been ordered to report for active duty with the army, navy or marines, and of the 184 seniors, 137 are members of reserve branches of the armed forces and 24 more will take war-related jobs.

Mr. Lawatsch is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1939, entered Colgate on a President's Scholarship and has been an honor student in chemistry since. He has been a member of the band eight semesters, won a Cobb Prize for outstanding service to Colgate as a junior, and has been a member of the Student Senate this year. He is a member of Alpha Chi Sigma, professional fraternity for chemists.

First Church Forms Women's Group

The first meeting of all the women of the First Reformed Church to form a general organization was held last evening in the chapel of the church. Temporary chairman for the evening was Mrs. A. Noble Graham.

A constitution for the group was adopted and in general provides for meetings of the organization on the first Wednesday of each month except during July, August and September. The meetings will be held at 7:30 p. m. and 2:30 p. m. alternating in order to give all women an opportunity to attend. Membership will be for all women of the church and the group will be divided into seven chapters: World Fellowship, missionary group; Choir Mothers; Dorcas Sewing; Manse and Church House; Henrietta Wynkoop who will have charge of the communion service, linen and dishes; social service for aid to the needy and Christmas Cheer; and Church Decoration.

There will be an executive committee composed of the officers and the chapter chairmen. Other committees will include budget and finance, program and devotion and membership.

Officers for the general organization were also elected last evening. They are Mrs. Harry B. Walker, president; Mrs. C. C. Rose, vice-president; Mrs. O. D. B. Ingalls, recording secretary; Mrs. Frederick Merritt, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Cornelius Treadwell, treasurer. The president and vice-president have been elected for a period of two years.

The next meeting will be an evening meeting, January 6.

Panich-Harkavy

Ellenville, Dec. 12 — Miss Lillian Harkavy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Harkavy of Ellenville, and Sol Panich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Panich of Briggs Highway, were married at the Silver Manor in Brooklyn, Saturday, December 5.

The bride wore a white satin wedding gown with a long veil, and a crown of white beads, and carried a cascade of white roses. Her sister, Miss Mildred Harkavy, who was maid of honor, also wore a white gown, a light blue veil and blue accessories, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The two bridesmaids were Miss Clara Panich, a sister of the bridegroom, who wore a red gown with red and silver accessories and Miss Toby Lachterman, who was dressed in blue with red accessories. Both carried old fashioned bouquets of red roses.

Mrs. David Harkavy, mother of the bride, wore a blue gown with silver sequins and silver accessories and Mrs. Jacob Panich, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue and gold gown with gold accessories. Both wore corsages of red roses. There were 12 ushers, and Miss Charlotte Rosoff of Kerhonkson was the flower girl. Both Mr. and Mrs. Panich are graduates of Ellenville High School and Mr. Panich attended New York University. The couple will make their home on Briggs Highway, where the bridegroom has an interest in the Highland Rest Hotel. More than 200 guests attended the wedding, among them friends from Ellenville and vicinity.

Highland Chapter, O. E. S., Reports on Service Work

Highland, Dec. 12—At the regular meeting of Highland Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, Tuesday evening, Worthy Matron Mrs. Minnie Schmalkuche and Worthy Patron Kenneth DuBois presided. Institute officers were Mrs. Helen Washington, associate matron; Mrs. Elizabeth Lent, Martha; Mrs. Florence E. Cotant, Ruth.

At the meeting December 22 the annual election of officers will be held and a buffet lunch with members contributing food. Mrs. Ella Fischer has charge of the Christmas tree and members will bring small gifts to be exchanged.

A report was made on the splendid work done by the organization for the benefit of those in service, although no local benefit has been sponsored by the group because the membership is from such a widespread area in the county. Each relative in service is given a cash gift, and the grand patron has charge of a fund to send cartons of cigarettes to those in service. Sweaters have been made by the various chapters, the local one contributing six.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses: Mrs. Elizabeth Lent, Mrs. Olympia Cottine, Mrs. Minna Gunsalus and Mrs. Ethyl Finley.

An English critic has protested against the use of a paper rose in the flower show scene in the "Mrs. Miniver" film.

Book Club Welcomes New Members at Meeting

On December 8, the Book Club held a regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Shuback. Miss Belle Fertel, Miss Dorothy Shapiro and Mrs. A. Appenzeller were welcomed as new members.

The report on Major De Seversky's book, "Victory Through Air Power," was given by Mrs. Harry Fertel and was followed by a spirited discussion. There is to be a meeting in two weeks at which time the discussion will be continued and a report on the book "Past Imperfect" by Ilka Chase will be made.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments.

Birthday Party

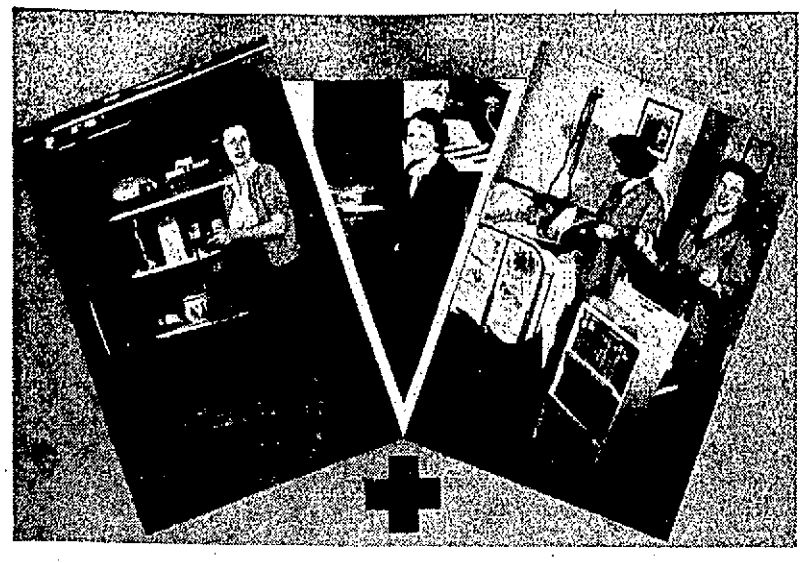

A birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mulligan, Pine street, Sunday afternoon in honor of their daughter, Patricia, who was celebrating her fourth birthday. She received many gifts and at 4:30 o'clock the guests were ushered into the dining room where the table was decorated in pink and white.

Those present were: The Misses Diana and Donna Zucca, Elaine Hofer, Elizabeth Brown, Kathryn Kaiser, Mary Jane McSpirit, Barbara Bilyou, Jean Bilyou and also John Brown, William Mulligan, Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. John Dodge, Mrs. William Schwalbach, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schick, Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Zucca, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Avnet and William Brown.

League Members Do Volunteer War Work

On the first anniversary of Pearl Harbor, Mrs. Sanger Carleton of Stone Ridge photographed some of the Kingston Junior League members at volunteer work in the war effort. Other members, not pictured, are doing volunteer work in the public health nursing committees, the maternal health center, the blood bank department, the control center, spotting stations and many other fields of community services.

At the left is shown Mrs. E. F. Fessenden, Jr., chairman of the league loan closet, as she selects a pair of crutches for a needy patient. The loan closet is located in the basement of the city laboratory and is open to community needs.

Mrs. Edwin O'Reilly, center, deputy chairman of the Civilian Defense Office, is pictured at her desk, working on the day's program.

Bride of Howard Murdock

MRS. FRANCES KINERK MURDOCK

Miss Frances L. Kinerk became the bride of Howard Murdock, both of South Bend, Ind., at South Bend, Saturday, October 31. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murdock of 122 Hone street.

Howard Murdock Marries Miss Kinerk of South Bend

The marriage of Miss Frances Lucille Kinerk of South Bend, Ind., to Howard D. J. Murdock, also of South Bend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Murdock of 122 Hone street, was performed in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, South Bend, Saturday, October 31. The Rev. Wendell P. Corcoran, C.S.C., officiated at an altar banked with white chrysanthemums, ferns and tapers.

Miss Genevieve Turnock was maid of honor and Paul Schatzel of Kingston was the best man. Ushers were Dr. Robert Van Boklelen and Dr. William H. Johnston of Laporte, Ind.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Lieut. Louis O. Kinerk, wore a gown of ivory satin fashioned with a heart neckline and short train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was caught by a cap of Duchess lace which belonged to her mother. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and bouvardia. The maid of honor wore a colleen green velveteen gown fashioned with a long torso edged with scallops at the waist and on the bracelet length sleeves. She wore matching plumes in her hair and carried a cascade bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served in the Coral room of the Hotel Lasalle and in the early afternoon a reception for 100 guests was held at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Murdock left for a wedding trip in the east and they are now making their home in Laporte, Ind.

The bride was graduated from Central High School and is a member of the Service Guild. Mr. Murdock was graduated from Kingston High School where he played varsity football and received his master of science degree from the University of Notre Dame in 1940. He was sports broadcaster for the university for six years and still broadcasts over the local station WFEF. He is employed by the Kingsbury Ordnance.

Sixty-three per cent of the married women working in British war plants have children under 14.

Engagement Announced

Ellenville, Dec. 12 — Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Panich of the Highland Rest Hotel, Briggs Highway, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Clara Panich, to Martin Rugg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Rugg, of Brooklyn.

Miss Panich is a graduate of the Ellenville High School and Mr. Rugg is a graduate of C. C. N. Y. The couple will be married in the near future.

Daily Menus

Long Slow Cooking Dishes

Baked Lima Beans (Meat Alternate)

1 quart (4 cups) dried lima beans
Water
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon mustard,
2 tablespoons chopped onions
1/3 cup molasses (dark)
½ cup chili sauce or catsup
2/3 pound fresh lean pork
Boiling bean stock

Wash beans and cover by 4 inches with cold water. Soak over night. Drain and rinse and cover with more water. Add salt and cook, covered, slowly until beans are tender. Drain and reserve the stock. Part can be used for the beans and the rest for soup or stew at a later meal.

Mix together beans, mustard, onions, molasses and sauce. Pour half of it in a bean pot or deep baking dish. Add the pork and cover with rest of bean mixture. Cover with bean stock and add a lid. Bake 7 hours in a slow oven—about 275 or 300 degrees F. Add more boiling stock as it cooks out of the beans.

Uncover and bake an hour to brown the top.

Here is a helpful moisture test for good baked beans: After an hour press a spoon on top of the beans and if liquid appears by pressing down about ½ inch there is enough moisture in the beans, if not add more.

Beans should be moist but not "runny." They thicken upon cooling.

Indian Pudding

2 cups milk
1/3 cup cornmeal
1/3 cup molasses
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg or mace
2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Heat milk in double boiler until smoking. Add rest of ingredients and cook covered 20 minutes over low heat. Stir several times with fork. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake 2½ hours in a slow oven—about 275-300 degrees F. Serve hot with vanilla ice cream, hard sauce or vanilla flavored liquid sauce.

This pudding can be reheated by cooking covered 20 minutes in a double boiler.

MANNERS IN SCHOOL BUILDING

A man tells me that while he knows he is expected to take his hat off when in the presence of ladies indoors, he resents this situation which he has described to me as follows: "I was leaving a public school building one evening with a group of students and teachers. As I reached the foyer before going through the main exit, I put on my hat. The principal who is much older than I took me to task for my bad manners in having put on my hat. He said that a gentleman never wears a hat in a public building, particularly when with a lady. I disagreed with him on this occasion because with my hat in my hand I had found it awkward to open the heavy door for the ladies to go out."

In answer to this I would say that as a man nears the door of any public building it is permissible for him to put on his hat. In fact, this is the only way he can manage to put on his overcoat before going outdoors. This difference between taking his hat off upon entering a building and putting it on before leaving is illustrated whenever a man enters the auditorium of a theatre. He always enters with his hat in his hand but as he stands up to leave his seat he puts his hat on—always! Not only in order to put on his coat but to keep his hat out of the way. The custom probably began when men wore easily spoilable silk hats. In any case I see no discourtesy in the scene you described as having taken place at a door or exit.

Announcements for All Children

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to send announcements of a second baby's arrival? Someone tells me it is best taste to limit them to a first child.

Answer: No, there's no rule about it at all. One can send them as often as one has occasion to do so. But as a stationer put it the other day, the parents themselves seem to lose interest after the first time. At least so this one "specialist" said.

A Shower Without the Guest of Honor

Dear Mrs. Post: We gave a bridal shower lately for a friend and at the last minute she was taken ill and couldn't come. Her mother came and offered to open the packages in her place. We did not like the idea and for Mary it really spoiled the party. But how else could this situation have been met?

Answer: I think it would have been much better had someone suggested that the presents be kept unopened and the shower held another day. They might for example have been taken to her house as soon as she was well enough to receive the givers.

Dressing for an Afternoon Concert

Dear Mrs. Post: On a Sunday afternoon soon a well known opera star is going to sing at an afternoon concert to be given for the benefit of a local charity. We women would like to know how to dress and whether to wear hats? Be sure your advice includes the length of skirts and whether to wear hats?

Answer: Wear a street length dress and hat. The same sort of clothes that you would wear to church.

Announcing Engagement?

Is it good taste to send a photograph to the newspaper when you announce your engagement? Mrs. Post answers this question and others on wedding procedure in her booklet No. 501, "The Etiquette of Weddings." Send for it, enclosing ten cents in coin and a 3-cent stamp to cover postage and handling. Write Mrs. Post in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

K.H.S. Quintet Defeats Saugerties High, 30 to 25

Locals Take Lead In First Half, Remain in Front Throughout; Jaynees Lose

Friday night, the Kingston High School basketball team successfully opened the 1942-43 campaign with a 30-25 triumph over Saugerties High at the municipal auditorium. Since this was the first game of the season, and neither team has had more than a month of practice, some of the play was ragged and several shots were missed, but in spots, both teams showed flashes of good passing and ball handling.

The quintet which took the floor for Kingston at the start of the game was comprised of Capt. George Zelie playing center, Rod Sagendorf, last year's DUSO high scorer, at one of the forward slots and Fred Parslow, another of last year's squad at guard, with two players on last season's Jayvees, Fred Dressell and Les Morton rounding out the positions. Greco, Beatty, Kaufman, Amrod and Ackert started the game for Saugerties.

Kingston had the more powerful offensive last night and was able to build up a commanding lead in the first half. Captain Zelie started the Maroon and White scoring by picking up two points on a pair of charity tosses, and then Sagendorf and Parslow sunk a two-pointer and a free throw, respectively, to give Kingston a 5-2 lead in the first few minutes of play.

At the half, the count was 19-12, in favor of Kingston, and after that, with the exception of the last few minutes, Saugerties never really threatened. In the final quarter, after the local cagers had run the score up to 27-17, in their favor, Saugerties put on their one scoring threat. Zelie started the point collecting by sinking a free shot for Kingston, but immediately Kaufman and Greco rang up a deuce apiece for the visitors. Parslow then tossed in a two-pointer for Kingston, but Amrod of Saugerties instantly matched this with a goal, and a minute later, Hommel pushed another through to make the score 30-25 as the final gun sounded.

Rod Sagendorf seemed to begin his scoring where he left off last season, ringing up four from the field, and three from the free throw mark, for a total of 11 points. Sharing the honors with Rod was another Kingston forward, newcomer Don McGrane, who dropped in five deuces, and one from the foul line. Kaufman was the high scorer for the losers, collecting 7 points on 3 field goals and one foul shot.

Saugerties Juniors Win

In the preliminary the Saugerties Junior Varsity made up, to some extent, for the result of the main event by defeating the Kingston Jayvees, 19-6. Christiana and Lachmann led the winners, with six points each, while Dan Basch rang up a brace of two-pointers to top the Kingston scorers.

This was the first game for Kingston under the revised wartime schedule, which does away with the former two halves of the DUSO League schedule, and also eliminates many games with distant teams. In compliance with this ruling, the Maroon and White are facing several new rivals, listing games with Beacon, Arlington and other nearby opponents. Next Friday, the K.H.S. squad will travel to Newburgh for the first DUSO contest of the campaign.

Mauriello Kayoes Nova in Sixth

Lou Now in Hospital With Assorted Injuries

By SID FEDER

New York, Dec. 12 (AP) — As a heavyweight contender, Lou Nova was in a hospital with assorted injuries today, his dreams of hitting the jackpot just about dead.

And, the way things began to shape up after the golden boy from California was put to sleep by young Tami Mauriello for the entertainment of a noisy collection of 15,369 in Madison Square Garden last night, the very fancy fuss over the so-called "duration" heavyweight championship was just about the same, thank you.

Nova had quite a collection of injuries from his six-round stay with the Bronx "gang buster." Dr. Vincent Nardiello had X-ray plates showing a broken ninth rib on Lou's left side, a dislocated tenth rib, a torn cartilage and a possible kidney injury. This last will be looked into today with further Xrays, and if one more is required after that, Lou can easily claim the title of "most-photographed-young-man" in town.

But aside from Nova's ailments, most of which he acquired from a right hand shot in the breadbasket in the fourth round, the situation over the much-billed duration heavyweight champ is virtually unchanged.

For, less than 10 minutes after the kid from the Bronx had treated the California "Adonis" to his going over, Tami's manager, Private Lefty Rimini, and Promoter Mike Jacobs had about decided to toss out previous plans to match Mauriello and Jimmy Bivins, the Cleveland clouter, in January. These two have been regarded as the two top tusslers to keep heavyweight interest alive, now that Joe Louis is working for Uncle Sam and is looking ahead to retirement. (At the moment, you can't quite figure out what Joe has to worry about.)

Now, this is no song-and-dance for Bivins, especially since the elegant waltz the mid-west mauler put on with Lee Savold in the Garden his last time out. But anyone who expects to get a reasonable facsimile of a "duration" champ out of the stew that's been cooking since Louis told the Associated press he figures he's through must put Bivins in the picture in some other spot than just for laughs.

Nova, outweighing his rival by 20 pounds, was a particularly tough detour for Mauriello until Tami came off the floor from a first-round knockdown to make the birdies sing for Lou at 2:34 of the sixth round of their ten-rounder. As a matter of fact, Nova, after toppling Tami for an eight-count, was ahead, three rounds to two, on the Associated Press score card for the five completed heats.

And, while Lou wasn't talking today, his Ray-Ray cheering section (Manager Ray Carlen and Trainer Ray Arcel) both insisted the one body punch in the fourth round did all the damage. Even Lou would insist that as body punch it was slightly worse than being tickled by a feather.

MINERS APPEAL FOR AID

Mexican government experts of the Ministries of Finance, National Economy and Labor are investigating mining conditions following the appeal of a delegation asking federal aid for their families. The delegates, headed by Juan Manuel Elizondo, union secretary general, reported a continued low scale of pay and increased living cost level had jeopardized their economic condition.

Ten per cent of her salary looked pretty small to Mrs. Noel Millet of Little Rock, Ark., when it came to signing up for a payroll savings plan, so she decided to put one hundred per cent of it into War Bonds. Her husband, a United States engineer, buys two bonds a month, and her son, Eugene buys another. She has three brothers and a son Noel in the armed forces.

Party Is Held for Arlensky

Chicago Bears, Washington in Playoff Sunday

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Football's most devastating outfit, the Chicago Bears, blew into town today for a final workout before laying their world championship on the line in a National League playoff contest with the Washington Redskins at Griffith Stadium tomorrow.

Even in football-rabid Washington, where it's considered treasonable to discredit the Redskins, Chicago ruled at least a 3-1 favorite. To the 36,000-odd fans who have tickets, Sammy Baugh and Company are without a peer, but not even the most enthusiastic can discount the Bears' record of three straight western division titles and two consecutive world championships.

The Bears boast a 1942 record of 11 wins and no losses. Most of their victories were by lop-sided, or at least substantial, scores.

In winning the eastern division championship, the Redskins chalked up 10 victories and suffered one defeat, the lone loss coming in a deluge that drowned almost everyone except the New York Giants, who won the game without making a first down.

As usual, the Redskins will rely chiefly on Baugh, one of football's greatest passers, and the league's premier kicker. His pitches to Dick Todd, Bob Masterson and Ed Cifers constitute the biggest part of the Washington attack.

For running plays, Coach Ray Flaherty has rigged up a series of formations featuring Ray Hare, Ed Justice and Andy Farkas.

Nobody, least of all Flaherty, is discounting the advantage the Bears will hold.

For more than a week now the game has been a sellout. George Strickler, the league's publicity director, has been besieged for tickets ever since he established headquarters here two days ago. The scalpers reportedly are asking—and getting—as high as $15 for a regular $4.40 ticket.

Chile has just created the Institution for Education of the Farm Laborer, which will distribute through the state police illustrated publications to teach agricultural workers rules of health, sanitation, agriculture, livestock, civic duties and rights, and also Chilean history.

Northern Pacific Coast Champions Building Around Three Lettermen

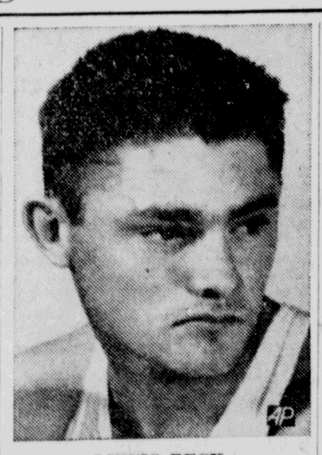

(AP) Features

Corvallis, Ore. — Oregon State College, champion of the Northern division of the Pacific Coast conference last season, expects to continue its winning ways this year although only three lettermen are returning. Last year's great team lost to Stanford, eventual national champion, in the last three minutes of the conference playoff game.

The Beavers have consistently had one of the strongest teams in the league for several seasons. Over the past 10 years, Coach A. T. "Slats" Gill has led the Orangemen to four Northern division titles and one Pacific Coast conference crown.

Gill is building his latest team around the three returning lettermen. They are Don Durdan and Lewis Beck, guards, and Glen Warren, 6 foot, 5 inch forward. Backing these men will be several varsity reserves from last year's club and a number of promising sophomores and transfers.

Durdan and Beck played outstanding ball last year and should be the best guard combination in the conference. How well the Beavers go this winter will depend to a large extent how much support these two get from the rest of the squad.

LEWIS BECK

Durdan is one of the few great all-around athletes in the country, already having won three letters each in football and baseball.

Beck was rated the outstanding sophomore in the league last winter. Stanford picked him on its all-opponent team, a high honor for a sophomore. He was one of the leading conference scorers last season with 127 points. Beck has the ability to shoot over the defensive man's head or drive past him for a lay-in shot. He stands 5 feet, 11 inches tall and weighs 158.

The other veteran, Warren, moves around very well for a tall man and is deadly under the basket.

Bolstering the squad strength are three promising transfers, Fred Winter, Don Cecil and Bob Howard. Winter has the makings of a good guard. Cecil is a fair shot and a good ball handler and Howard shoots well and is aggressive.

Most promising of the men up from last year's freshman team are Erland Anderson, 6 feet, 4 inch center, and Mickey Brophy, a forward.

Coach Gill rates the University of Washington as the team to beat in the Northern division race this season. The Huskies lost only two men from last year's club which finished right behind Oregon State. The Orange mentor predicts, however, that Washington State, Oregon and the Beavers will give the Huskies a fight.

Cowboys' Back Quite a Guy

DOC MOBLEY
Hardin-Simmons Star

(AP Features)

Abilene, Tex.—There is no set formula for Rudolph Mobley's runs that have made him the nation's leading ball-carrier.

Little Doc hits anywhere and it doesn't matter where—he goes through or around.

The Hardin-Simmons back has scored from every angle imaginable and has averaged close to 30 yards on each touchdown run.

Take the Baylor game when the Cowboys shocked the Southwest by beating the burly Bruins. It was Baylor's line that held Texas A. and M. nine times inside the 20, yet Doc scored standing up—12 yards around right end.

In the Arizona game, when he gained 278 yards he broke over left guard for 72 and went around left end for 15 to score touchdowns.

And so on.

Not that Mobley is fast because both of his understudies — Gayle Campbell and Johnny Allsup—can beat him in a foot race.

Quite a guy is the 155-pound wrath of the plains country.

Drop Indictment Against Alleged Still Operators

New York, Dec. 11 (Special)—On motion in Federal Court here today of Assistant United States Attorney Richard Burke, the indictment pending since November 29, 1938, against three men charged with liquor law violations at Esopus was dismissed by Judge Alfred C. Coxe.

The defendants, Victor Tony Konopskie, August J. Greco and Michael Greco, were charged with possession on June 28, 1938, on the Kirton Farm, New Salem road, Esopus, of a 1,000-gallon unregistered still and 10,500 gallons of mash.

The fact that they pleaded guilty to another liquor indictment and were sentenced, led to the present motion.

CREWMEN OF U. S. S. S. SAN FRANCISCO LINE RAIL UPON ARRIVAL

SLIPS UNDER GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE

The U. S. cruiser San Francisco, which licked a Japanese battleship in combat off the Solomon Islands early in November, slips under the Golden Gate bridge and into San Francisco harbor. It J. Callaghan of Oakland, Calif., and Captain Cassin Young, the cruiser's skipper, were killed.

Job Placements Here During Month of October

New York, N. Y. — Non-agricultural placements by the United States Employment Service showed a five per cent increase from September to October. During the same period, however, because of the normal seasonal drop in farm labor demand, total placements fell off six per cent.

Total placements numbered 84,565 as compared with 80,769 for September, according to Richard C. Brockway, director for New York of the United States Employment Service of the War Manpower Commission. In contrast to this over-all trend, non-agricultural placements rose from 74,289 to 77,973.

Improved activity in New York city was responsible for the pick-up in non-agricultural placements, according to Mr. Brockway. Upstate, non-agricultural activity was practically unchanged and would have declined had it not been for the placement of about 4,400 students and business men as "week-end commandos" at the Quartermasters Supply Depot in Schenectady. Placements dropped noticeably at Geneva and Syracuse because large construction projects in these areas are nearing completion.

In Kingston, a total of 357 workers were placed in jobs, as compared with 463 in September. Of these 61 were in manufacturing, 51 were in household employment, 184 were in agriculture, and 61 were in miscellaneous employment.

Throughout the state, 40,080 women were placed in non-agricultural jobs in October—an increase of 6 per cent over the September total of 37,619. Of these women, 16,025 went into service occupations such as household employment, work in hotels, restaurants, beauty parlors, etc. The service industry placements were also 5 per cent higher than in September.

Placements of non-white workers in non-agricultural employment totalled 23,840—an increase of 6 per cent over September. Manufacturing firms employed 3,909 of these workers, an increase of 16 per cent over September. This increase occurred almost entirely in New York city.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

So Near, So Far

Gettysburg, Pa.—Corp. Roy K. Mickley spent 17 months learning invasion tactics. Then, rarin' for action, he headed for North Africa.

Within sight of land his ship was sunk. Another craft rescued him—and steamed off to the United States before he had set foot on African soil.

Rationing Victim

A tank on the machine contained three gallons of gasoline.

Total

Fort Morgan, Colo. — There wasn't any question about the success of a test blackout at Holyoke.

Sent by the Army to observe the blackout, Lieut. James R. Norris flew over the little town and never knew it.

Fresh Meat

Pratt, Kas.—To the rescue of meatless meat counters jumps the Kansas rabbit.

Cottontails are being killed and sold in unprecedented numbers, Director Guy Josserand of the State Game Commission acknowledges.

Some hunters are killing as many as 100 a day, selling them at from 10 to 25 cents, dressed, he reported.

Stymied

Ontario, Calif.—As Santa Claus' assistant in charge of his local correspondence, Miss Bertha Schwartzwaelder, head of the city nursing staff, gets some tough assignments. But this one has her stopped completely.

Signed "Helen," the letter read: "Dear Santa: I am a little girl 18 years old. I want 20 gallons of gasoline, four new tires and a second lieutenant."

Conservation

Lemongrove, Calif.—Speaking of making things go a long way—

A five-pound paper candy box that for 29 years has been used by Mrs. Ivy Stillman Johnson, of Lemongrove, and Mrs. Clella Herbert, of Denver, to exchange Christmas gifts, is en route to the Colorado capital.

Mrs. Johnson expects to receive the well-patched container again next Christmas.

ARDONIA

Ardonia, Dec. 11 — Mrs. Ira Hyatt was a recent guest of her son and family in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Bernard of Poughkeepsie and Donna Paltridge of Modena called on Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Paltridge, Friday.

Mrs. Earl DeWitt was elected vice president of the W. S. C. S. of Modena at a recent meeting.

Miss Hilda Smith of Newburgh visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith, over the week-end.

Local ladies attended the Home Bureau meeting at the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall in Modena on Wednesday.

Mrs. Roy Jensen visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Seymour recently.

By Junius

This new slow driving would enable us to enjoy the scenery if we would quit thinking about the tires.

Lawyer (when he called on his client at the jail)—What are you here for?

Man—Just a little traffic case.

Lawyer—But they don't throw you in jail for that. You can sign a citation and they'll let you appear. It must have been something else.

Man—I tell you it was a traffic case. The traffic officer came up along side and claimed I hadn't signaled for a turn. Then he started talking to me just as my wife does. Before I knew it I was answering "Yes, my dear" and then he threw me into jail.

Try This on the Judge

A truck driver in Milwaukee, Wis., arrested for driving the wrong way in a one-way street, explained he was cutting his mileage 25 per cent to save rubber. Sentence was suspended.

Owner—What will it cost me to have my car fixed?

Garageman—What's the matter with it?

Owner—I don't know.

Garageman—Forty-eight dollars and fifty cents.

Grandfather cut firewood in the timber. Walked beside the wagon in zero weather. Carried lines over his shoulder and whipped his hands around his body to keep from freezing. Now his grandson thinks he is roughing it if he has to drive a sedan without a heater.

First—The party is dull, isn't it?

Second—Yes, very.

First—Let's go home?

Second—I can't. I'm host.

We Americans talk about all-out war, but we can wage an all-out war only when we have all-out patriotism. What is all-out patriotism? It is such patriotism as Stephen Decatur defined when he said:

"In her intercourse with foreign nations may our country always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."

Challenged by the forces of evil, our country today fights for the preservation of rights. She deserves, and must have, the boundless patriotism of each citizen.

Sally—Say, Dad, I want you to tell me something about Michael.

Dad—Now what? You want to marry that rascal, I suppose?

Sally—No, Dad. You see we were secretly married a month ago. I want you to help me get a divorce.

Judge—After this, you had better stay out of bad company.

Culprit—Yes, sir, Judge. You won't see me again in a hurry.

The fellow who drives the hearse a couple of days a week out for a pleasure ride seldom develops speed mania.

A man, while single, was in the habit of going to a certain restaurant and ordering honey for his waffles. After he got married he took his wife to the same restaurant, ordered waffles and not being served honey to go with them, said to the waitress:

Man—Where's my honey?

Waitress—Oh, she doesn't work here any more.

December Breezes

The man who wins may have been counted out several times but he did not hear the referee. It is easy to forgive an enemy if we know we can lick him. It would be easy to like our wife's relatives if they were not her relatives. Why find fault with Nevada? If divorce is wrong, the wrong is a matter of fact, not of weeks or months. If she works before getting married, that's a concern of she works after marriage, that's a job. The less a man has, the harder he will fight for it, be it liberty, property or religion.

WEST SHOKAN

Honor of Representing Far West at Stake

Los Angeles, Dec. 12 (AP)—The honor of representing the Far West in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day was at stake as the U. C. L. A. Bruins came to grips today with their old jinx, Southern California.

The outcome was regarded generally as a tossup, with the breaks likely to determine which shall oppose Georgia and Frankie Sinkwich in Pasadena's stadium.

Southern California hasn't been able this year to beat a team employing the "T" formation and U. C. L. A.'s "QT" adaptation may give the Trojans lots of trouble with Left Halfback Al Solari exploding into the secondary on quick opening plays.

Pacific Coast Conference athletic representatives will select Georgia's opponent in a telephone vote expected to be completed at 9 o'clock (Pacific war time) tonight. If U. C. L. A. wins they undoubtedly will be selected, but they also may be the team if they get no better than a tie. Southern California, likewise, was expected to be the nominee if it wins. It never has lost to the Bruins in nine years.

The consensus seems to be that the game will be a test between the superlative passing of the Bruins' Bob Waterfield, and the versatile (when it works) running attack of the Trojans.

Solari bears the burden of the Bruins' ground offensive. He fits in well with U. C. L. A.'s QT style of attack, and is a threat every time he gets his hands on the ball.

U. S. C.'s Mickey McCardle won his Associated Press All-Conference berth largely on his adeptness as a runner, but he also is a competent passer. And Southpaw Paul Taylor and Bob Musick also are better than average flingers.

William Krum Gets Corporal's Rank in Army

William Krum, a former member of the Kingston police department, now with the U. S. Army Air Force, has been promoted to the rank of corporal.

Corporal Krum is a member of the 1070th Guard Squadron, Army Air Base at Ardmore, Okla. He was the first member of the police department to be drafted, leaving Kingston in August of this year.

His brother, Raymond Krum, who is in the merchant marines, is now stationed at Baltimore, Md. Another brother of Corporal Krum is Thomas A. Krum, who is stationed at Camp Pickett, Va., in the Medical Corps. He also has another brother, George Krum, Jr., who is serving in the State Guard.

All four are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Krum of 611 Abeel street.

Because of the farm labor shortage in England, M. Barber, aged 86, of Burringham, had to spend seven days this year cutting his corn with a scythe.

There were not many people present at the farewell party at the school Tuesday evening. Remarks were made by the Rev. Devello S. Haynes and Webster Langdon. Michael Shopinsky, a soldier home on furlough, also spoke. Those who left Thursday were: Nicholas Marrone, James Bolde, Nicholas Cirtino, Donald Martin, John Marrone, Elmer Palmatier. George P. Muller presented each with the usual gifts.

Will Open Factory

A new factory will open its doors in Kingston, Wednesday December 16, when Jack Paikoff of 121 Downs street will re-open the former Jayson Classics establishment located above the Craft Super Market at 61 O'Neil street. Mr. Paikoff announced this morning that he would open the dress manufacturing factory Wednesday, but he emphasized that it was in no way connected with the former firm which occupied the location. An advertisement appearing in Friday's issue of The Freeman served as a formal announcement of the new factory and offered the opportunity for employment to local citizens.

must expect hard fighting in the African campaign. Rommel isn't a quitter, and the stubborn resistance of the Axis forces in Tunisia indicates a determination to hang on to the last and at least fulfill the mission of standing off the Allies while Hitler consolidates his defenses at home.

Heavy resistance is fully expected by the British, but so confident are the troops they're anxious to get ahead with the job. As I've already reported to you, General Montgomery, the commander-in-chief of the British Eighth Army, has assured me the Axis will be ousted from Africa, and there's not the slightest doubt that he believes this.

General Montgomery said too in one of his messages to the troops that this will be the decisive battle of the war. However that may be, it certainly is true that the ousting of the Axis from Africa and the consequent breaking of its purchase on the Mediterranean will go far towards preparing Hitler for the coup de grace.

Nettlow vs. Robinson

Philadelphia, Dec. 12 (AP)—Marty Servo, rugged little welterweight who has come closer than anyone else to whipping Ray (Sugar) Robinson, will serve as Al Nettlow's second when Nettlow fights the Harlem negro in Convention Hall Monday night. Servo, on duty with the coast guard, has arranged a 24-hour furlough to be in Nettlow's corner. Both Servo and Nettlow are managed by Al Weill.

What It Means

R A F Objectives in Italy

By JOHN GROVER

Winston Churchill's threat and warning to Italy to expect prolonged and destructive bombing wasn't idle talk. And there's plenty left to bomb in Italy, exclusive of Italian morale, which is a prime military objective in itself.

First objective will likely be Italy's network of power plants. Italy is heavily dependent on electric power, and the dams and generating plants are wide open to air attack. Their destruction will in turn increase the need for coal, of which Italy produces only 8/10 per cent of her needs.

The Italian railroad system is of vital importance with Italian merchant ships bottled up in harbor. Italy is utterly dependent on imports from Germany to eat and to defend herself, as Mussolini admitted when he said Hitler would send anti-aircraft guns and other weapons.

So the rail centers automatically become bomb tragets. Freight yards and the rail lines in narrow mountain defiles, where repair is difficult, rank high on the list of air objectives in Italy.

Italian mines in Tuscany, Istria and Sardinia produce important contributions to the metal-starved Axis war machine. Bauxite, iron, copper, zinc, lead and silver are some of them. Mine structures above ground are duck soup for bombers.

Italian heavy industry all down the Po valley, in Naples and to a degree around Rome, will come in for attention in Churchill's air blitz. The shipyards at Naples and Genoa can't be bomb-proofed. The textile industry's loss would hit at the cold Axis legions in Russia.

These are all legitimate military objectives. Their destruction would subtract from the primary ability of the Axis to wage war. The corollary result, the destruction of Italian morale, is no less important.

The mass evacuation of Genoa and Turin indicates that civilian morale has been badly shaken. The British could "take it" in the 1940-41 blitzes, because the Nazis suffered heavy plane losses. The Italians, never very keen about the war, have seen R. A. F. planes get away almost scot free.

Evacuation to rural regions of comparative safety will not solve the morale problem. Italians are on a minimum subsistence ration of heat, food and other necessities now. Aerial disruption of transport that prevents imports of the rations the Nazis dole out will additionally lower Italian morale. So will further family disruption, increased living costs for split families and the like.

Italy is strictly on a hot spot, squarely in the sights of Allied bombardiers.

Program for Week At the Y. W. C. A.

Members of the T.N.T. Club will have their annual Christmas party at the Y.W.C.A., following their regular club meeting on Tuesday evening. The cast of the play, "The Right Answer," will have an important rehearsal, during which time the party committee will also meet. An attractive program of games and carols has been arranged, and refreshments will be served. Miss Genevieve Monteleone is in charge and will be assisted by members of the social committee.

The Junior Married Women's Club will have a Christmas party at the Y.W.C.A. on this coming Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, at which time the girls of the Wassaic Colony will be their guests. At their last meeting the members had as guest speaker, Miss Louise VanWagenen, who spoke on Hawaii. Having lived there for many years, she had a wealth of intimate stories of the people and their life and customs. She also exhibited many pictures and articles that had been given her by her Hawaiian friends. She still is in close touch with many people there and told of the great hospitality that is being shown to the American service men The meeting closed with a social hour.

THE FREEMAN

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Saugerties, Dec. 11—Pvt. Gerald Snyder has been transferred from the induction center at Camp Upton to Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

The annual Parent-Teachers Christmas party was held in the high school auditorium Wednesday evening. The speaker of the evening was William Burger of the New York state Y.M.C.A. who talked on, "What Can the Saugerties Churches Do for the Adjustment of Youth?" Three years ago Mr. Burger addressed the local organization in December and this year his presence was made possible through the boys and girls Hi-Y Clubs of the school. The committee was: Mrs. Anthony Bitterman, Mrs. Franklin Clum, Mrs. William Spring, Mrs. Phyllis Wood, Mrs. Eliot Fatum, Mrs. Robert Schuchhardt, Mrs. Robert Weikel, Mrs. Matilda Hauck, Mrs. Vincent Kenney, Mrs. Floyd Myer, Mrs. James Hoffman, Miss Nellie Schmidt, Miss Jean Dusenbury and Miss Leona Hogan.

Mrs. Grant D. Morse of Ulster avenue was called to Gainesville, Ga., where her father is seriously ill.

On last Sunday morning Christian baptism was administered to Charlotte Ann Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bell at the Lutheran Church by the Rev. Ray Kulman. Frank Kenney and Miss Alice Clancey were sponsors.

David Ray Kulman, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Ray Kulman of the Lutheran Church was baptised in the local Lutheran Church by the Rev. LaRoy Deitrich, pastor of the West Camp Lutheran Church.

The Rinaldi store on South Partition street has issued an announcement that hereafter their delivery service will be made only three days each week, on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

The Saugerties Methodist Church has announced that the Christmas service will be held Sunday morning, December 20. Christmas exercises will take place Sunday evening, December 20. Sunday school Christmas party will be held December 23 with the primary department holding its party in the afternoon and the junior and senior departments in the evening at 7 o'clock.

Pvt. Ward Breithaupt is now stationed at Camp Crowder, Mo., from Fort Meade, Md.

Donald Washburn, U.S.N., was a recent guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Washburn on Main street.

Miss Mary Doyle of MacDonald street was in Brooklyn for several days, where she attended the funeral of her late brother John Doyle.

Mrs. Fred Bush of Livingston street has gone to Washington, D. C., where she will live with her son.

Miss Katherine Miller, who has been visiting her parents in Ohio, has returned to her home at the Exchange Hotel.

George Hildebrandt of the local Hi-Y Club at the high school will attend the annual Hi-Y Assembly to be held in Albany, December 11, 12 and 13, as a delegate from this village.

The regular meeting of the Saugerties village board was held last Monday evening and it was decided to contribute the iron fence and cannon balls at the Soldiers' monument on Ulster avenue to the government's scrap pile. G. William Gardner was voted chief of the Saugerties fire department in place of Sydney Mills, who has accepted a defense position at Hartford, Conn.

The local post office has announced that the following hours will be observed on Saturdays until Christmas: Saturday, December 12, until 5 p. m., Saturday, December 19 until 6 p. m. and Saturday, December 26 until 6 p. m. All patrons are asked to mail early and address their mail clearly.

A contingent of 65 young men were sent to Albany on Wednesday morning where their final examinations were held. Thirty-five were residents from this village under orders from the Saugerties Board No. 314.

Dr. Emily Pratt of the State Education Department visited the Saugerties schools on Monday.

Pvt. Allen Whitney of Pine Camp, was a recent guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Whitney on Ulster avenue.

Pvt. John F. Carnright of Atlantic City, N. J., spent last weekend with his mother, Mrs. F. J. Carnright on Post street.

Pvt. Donald Genthner of Fort Meade, Md., spent the past few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Genthner on Main street.

P.F.C. George Swart of Fort Benning, Ga., is spending his furlough with relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Emerick of Kingston were week-end guests of his parents in Katsbaan.

William C. Cotton of Saxton was named chairman of the local draft board No. 314 and George Knight of this village has been named secretary. The local organization now consists of five members.

Pvt. Grant Crum of this village is now stationed at Miama, Fla., where he is a member of the Training Squadron, Flight G.

Mr. and Mrs. Shields of Lake Katrine spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Horton Pearson in Katsbaan.

BRITISH HONOR U. S. SONG

The Star Spangled Banner, written when this nation was at war with England, was sung enthusiastically in the British Isles when services were held at Belfast, Northern Ireland, welcoming American troops to new stations there. Major W. T. Brundick, American chaplain, was guest speaker and a special choir was composed of members from both British and American services. The entire audience arose and sang the American anthem to open the meeting.

LINKED ARMS FORBIDDEN

British soldiers and girl members of certain commands of the Auxiliary Transport Service are forbidden to walk arm-in-arm under new regulations recently announced in London. Such practice is "unmilitary," the regulation stated. Previously they were forbidden to hold the arms of male relatives and friends.

4-H Girl Reports On Chicago Trip

Nine Years' Club Work Is Well Repaid, She Says

Miss Theodora Stokes of Rifton, Ulster county 4-H girl who was chosen as one of a dozen New York state girls to attend the National 4-H Club Congress held in Chicago recently, has made a complete and detailed report of her trip to the local 4-H office. She says it was a most eventful and enjoyable trip and well worth while.

Miss Stokes left her home at 6 o'clock on the morning of November 28 and with the other New York state delegates traveled all day, until they reached Cleveland, where they spent the night. The next morning they resumed their journey, reaching Chicago at 4 o'clock that afternoon. At the first gathering they attended, Miss Stokes was given the honor of carrying the New York state flag.

Through Wednesday, the program was a round of dinners, luncheons, entertainments, a visit to the Field Museum, another to the Art Institute, discussions, addresses by well known people, a dress review and demonstration.

Miss Stokes writes, "This trip alone has more than repaid me for completing my nine years in club work. Anyone who does not try for this trip would regret it greatly if they could only have a sample of what a grand time they could have."

WAR-TIME STRIKES BANNED

Sentence of 182 miners of Kaikato, New Zealand, has been suspended by the imposition of a series of strict conditions, including a proviso that the men must not go on strike while the war lasts. The agreement, announced by Prime Minister P. Fraser, called for prompt return to work, diligent activity on the job and agreement neither to strike or to encourage others to strike for the duration.

The story of a People's crusade

A STORY EVERY AMERICAN CAN BE PROUD OF

This is the story of a people's triumph...the story of an aroused American public marching as to war.

Marching with scrap. Millions of tons of it...from homes, offices, stores, public buildings and farms...from cities, villages and hamlets.

Millions of tons of scrap for the steel mills...to enable them to produce the ships and tanks and planes and guns which our armed forces must have to win the war.

It was a major crisis that faced the nation early in September. If the steel mills didn't get more scrap metal soon, they would be forced to shut down. If the mills shut down...if our Army and Navy didn't get the arms and equipment they needed...how could we be sure of Victory?

It was, said Donald Nelson, one of the nation's gravest war problems.

The War Production Board knew that only by arousing the people in every community, only by making them scrapping mad, could the problem be solved. It had to be a people's job, a people's crusade. Nelson asked the newspapers of the country to lead it.

It was a big assignment. Gladly and quickly the newspapers accepted it. Almost overnight they set up national, sectional, state, and local committees. Almost overnight nearly every newspaper in the country was in action...and had enlisted the aid of local officials and the cooperation of civic, welfare, and religious organizations.

* * *

The drive was launched by advertisements...large, small and medium. Prepared by the National Committee of Newspapers and adjusted for local use by local newspapers, they appeared almost overnight and continued almost every day in hundreds of newspapers throughout the country. They furnished the motivating power. They started the people going. And when the people got going, the newspapers gave the drive further momentum with news stories, pictures, cartoons and editorials...urging the public to get out more scrap, to get out more scrap.

Each community handled the drive in its own way...adopted, under the leadership of local newspapers, special plans to fit its own local conditions. In thousands of communities there were local contests, prizes, public meetings, special events...to speed the job along.

* * *

Within a few days, the whole nation was scrap-conscious. When the drive was only 16 days old, a Gallup Poll showed that 94 per cent of the people knew about the great crusade, had read about the scrap campaign in their newspapers. The newspapers, with their ads and their stories, had taken the drive into every home in the country.

And within a few days, mountains of scrap began to pile up in thousands of cities, towns and villages. By truckload and bargeload and trainload the metal began to flow across the land to the mills...enabling the furnaces where Victory is being forged to glow again with the white heat of peak production.

The war on the scrap front must go on, of course. The steel mills will need scrap metal as long as the war lasts. But this, the first great battle, is won.

Donald Nelson wanted 4,000,000 tons of scrap in eight weeks. The people gave him more than 5,000,000 tons in three weeks. And that, said Vice Admiral S. M. Robinson, Chief of the Navy's Bureau of Procurement and Material, is enough scrap to build several times more battleships than there are in all the fleets of the world combined.

* * *

That's the story, briefly. It's the story of a national triumph made up of thousands of local successes, in which local pride, local energy, and local leadership of newspapers went to work. It's a story in which millions of Americans had a part...a story every American can be proud of. And it demonstrates once again the power of the press, its capacity to serve the public...and its ability not only to sell the people an idea, but to get them to do something about it.

A Statement from DONALD NELSON, Chairman, War Production Board

"This has been a wonderful job and has resulted in increasing the flow of scrap to the steel furnaces that must be kept going to keep our munitions program up. The whole campaign has been a major contribution to the war effort.... The job that the newspapers have done is absolutely unprecedented in this country.... The results have surpassed my fondest hopes."

A WAACy Merry Christmas!

AP Features

Fort Des Moines, Iowa.—Sixty-seven thousand home folks will get a kick out of the same number of WAACY Christmas cards this year. Designed especially for the WAACS, the gaily colored greeting cards have been snapped up so quickly at the Post Exchange, that the number has been limited to fifty cards per girl.

It all came about this way: Third Officer Lorraine Marshall couldn't get the Army off her mind while she was on furlough visiting her family in Chicago. So, she sketched pictures for the greeting cards. A commercial artist before she took to Army life, it wasn't long before she carried through her ideas to help the WAACS extend Christmas greetings to their civilian friends in military style. WAAC Auxiliary Donna J. Carteen and Corporal Vincent Schall assisted with the sketches.

The results are eighteen different amusing and delightful designs, depicting the various branches of military service in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. There's an oven full of good wishes for the cooks and bakers corps, a "jeep" for the motor corps, an office girl for the administrative service, and four camp scenes. Included also in the selection is a formal greeting card with a place for the sender to insert her own photograph in the WAAC uniform.

Even the familiar Christmas snowman is not neglected. On one card a uniformed WAAC stands between two snowmen wearing WAAC hats. This card reads, "It's Snow Picnic—But It's a Jolly Time I'm Wishing You."

British Will Celebrate in Relays

By EDWARD ROBINSON
(AP Features)

London—Britain's fourth war Christmas, which would normally have been a long four-day respite from work, will be a "staggered" and stay-at-home holiday for most of the 23,500,000 full-time workers and a few million more part-timers.

Relay systems will keep the war factories going, and the real holiday is expected to be either Saturday (Boxing Day) of Sunday.

Thousands of the workers will attempt to get home for Christmas, but travelers will find railway services cut, cold waiting rooms, interrupted journeys.

The only automobiles on the road will be those engaged on war work, or those whose owners have persuaded authorities of the need for their journey.

Christmas will, however, be more communal than any of the other war holidays. Hundreds of thousands of men and women in the forces are doing everything possible within limited resources to give Yuletide its traditional atmosphere. Many are acting as collective Santa Claus to evacuated children. Thousands of doughboys and dominion soldiers will be guests of British families.

All Britain is optimistically hopeful of a Christmas free from the heavy raids of previous winters.

There will be one toast for every family in the land—"to absent ones."

Pork, veal, roast beef will appear on most tables, due to a short supply of poultry.

Drinks will be chiefly a topic for reminiscence. Nothing extra is being released.

Buying presents is about the hardest of the holiday problems, and a bigger strain than ever on the purse. Most of them are in the luxury class, and luxuries are taxed at 66 and 1/3rd per cent.

Lutheran Church to Hold Rededication Services

Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone streets, will formally rededicate its newly decorated church on Sunday morning, December 20, at 10:30 a. m. Last May the church had a financial campaign for $10,000 in order to do the work. The drive was so successful that almost $14,000 was received in cash and pledges. The contract for the work was awarded to the Payne-Spiers Studios, Inc., of Paterson, N. J. The church has not been redecorated since 1905. The total cost of the work will approximate $12,000. The Rev. Frank Lawrence Gollnick is the ninth pastor in Trinity's history of one hundred years of Christian service.

Central Dividend First Since 1931

The board of directors of the New York Central Railroad Company, on November 11, declared a dividend of one dollar per share, payable January 15, 1943, to stockholders of record as of December 10, 1942.

President F. E. Williamson of the New York Central System, declared that this "contributed the first return since 1931 to the 61,500 stockholders whose equity, represented by invested capital and surplus, aggregates $771,800,000."

The net income for the first nine months of 1942 was listed as $32,129,045, after providing for tax accruals in the amount of $61,851,846 and interest on debt.

An 86-year-old farmer, Mathias Held, helped ease a Columbus, Ohio, farm labor shortage recently by husking 400 bushels of corn for a neighbor at the rate of 40 bushels per day, working 11 hours daily. Asked what he'd do with the husking money, Held said, "Well, I thought I might buy some more war bonds."

The Kingston Daily Freeman

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, Dec. 11 — Theodora de Ruyter has returned from a visit in New York, and has resumed her work at Kingston High School.

The Woodstock Press suspended publication with its issue of December 11, for the duration of the war. It is the intention of the publishers to resume the publication of the newspaper within eight months after the war is over. Donald Mc Lennan, the owner and publisher of the paper has accepted a position at Albany with the division of Standards and Purchase of the State of New York. He will continue to reside in Woodstock and the equipment of the press will be kept intact pending the future publication of the paper.

Figures are now available on the salvage drive Christmas fund for the soldiers. The amount of money spent in this way was $249, and the balance on hand for the same purpose next year, should the war continue is $340.74. The articles purchased were: Cigarettes, two cartons to each of 64 men, $141.50; fountain pens, one each to 17 men, $30.09; regulation shirts, one each to two men, $5.92; socks, three pairs each to four men, $11.28; The Readers Digest, a one year subscription to each of 31 men, $46.50; duffle bags, one set of three to each of eight men, $23.44; Time Magazine, one year's subscription to each of eight men, $28; candy to one man, $2. The parcel post charges were $3.69. Questions as to what the men wanted were answered and it was upon these replies that the gifts were selected.

On the sick list at the present time is Ray Allen, who is recovering from an attack of pneumonia. J. Ordway Russ, who was taken to the Benedictine Hospital on Sunday, Miss Alice Henderson, who underwent an operation on Monday, Mrs. David Myer, who underwent an operation in Kingston on Wednesday and Joe Friedberg, who is at the Veterans' Hospital, Kings bridge road, the Bronx.

HOME BUREAU

Lomontville

On Thursday the Lomontville Home Bureau unit met at the home of Mrs. Demetrius J. France in the afternoon.

It was the first meeting since October. Mrs. Ray LeFevre, who had recovered from her recent illness, was welcomed by the members.

Mrs. Ray LeFevre held a business meeting.

Mrs. Macdonald had prepared an extensive recreation program, but was not able to come, so Mrs. LeFevre led the group in singing Christmas songs instead. The ladies had an enjoyable time.

Mrs. France served coffee and cookies.

Those present were: Mrs. Ray LeFevre, Mrs. Demetrius J. France, Mrs. Otto Kern, Mrs. Raymond Terwilliger, Mrs. William Koehler, Mrs. Vernon Goetchius and Enid Goetchius.

K.H.S. Quintet Defeats Saugerties High, 30 to 25

Locals Take Lead In First Half, Remain in Front Throughout; Jaynees Lose

Friday night, the Kingston High School basketball team successfully opened the 1942-43 campaign with a 30-25 triumph over Saugerties High at the municipal auditorium. Since this was the first game of the season, and neither team has had more than a month of practice, some of the play was ragged and several shots were missed, but in spots, both teams showed flashes of good passing and ball handling.

The quintet which took the floor for Kingston at the start of the game was comprised of Capt. George Zelie playing center, Rod Sagendorf, last year's DUSO high scorer, at one of the forward slots and Fred Parslow, another of last year's squad at guard, with two players on last season's Jayvees, Fred Dressell and Les Morton rounding out the positions. Greco, Beatty, Kaufman, Amrod and Ackert started the game for Saugerties.

Kingston had the more powerful offensive last night and was able to build up a commanding lead in the first half. Captain Zelie started the Maroon and White scoring by picking up two points on a pair of charity tosses, and then Sagendorf and Parslow sunk a two-pointer and a free throw, respectively, to give Kingston a 5-2 lead in the first few minutes of play.

At the half, the count was 19-12, in favor of Kingston, and after that, with the exception of the last few minutes, Saugerties never really threatened. In the final quarter, after the local cagers had run the score up to 27-17, in their favor, Saugerties put on their one scoring threat. Zelie started the point collecting by sinking a free shot for Kingston, but immediately Kaufman and Greco rang up a deuce apiece for the visitors. Parslow then tossed in a two-pointer for Kingston, but Amrod of Saugerties instantly matched this with a goal, and a minute later, Hommel pushed another through to make the score 30-25 as the final gun sounded.

Rod Sagendorf seemed to begin his scoring where he left off last season, ringing up four from the field, and three from the free throw mark, for a total of 11 points. Sharing the honors with Rod was another Kingston forward, newcomer Don McGrane, who dropped in five deuces, and one from the foul line. Kaufman was the high scorer for the losers, collecting 7 points on 3 field goals and one foul shot.

Saugerties Juniors Win

In the preliminary the Saugerties Junior Varsity made up, to some extent, for the result of the main event by defeating the Kingston Jayvees, 19-6. Christiana and Lachmann led the winners, with six points each, while Dan Basch rang up a brace of two-pointers to top the Kingston scorers.

This was the first game for Kingston under the revised wartime schedule, which does away with the former two halves of the DUSO League schedule, and also eliminates many games with distant teams. In compliance with this ruling, the Maroon and White are facing several new rivals, listing games with Beacon, Arlington and other nearby opponents. Next Friday, the K.H.S. squad will travel to Newburgh for the first DUSO contest of the campaign.

Mauriello Kayoes Nova in Sixth

By SID FEDER

New York, Dec. 12 (AP) — As a heavyweight contender, Lou Nova was in a hospital with assorted injuries today, his dreams of hitting the jackpot just about dead.

And, the way things began to shape up after the golden boy from California was put to sleep by young Tami Mauriello for the entertainment of a noisy collection of 15,369 in Madison Square Garden last night, the very fancy fuss over the so-called "duration" heavyweight championship was just about the same, thank you.

Nova had quite a collection of injuries from his six-round stay with the Bronx "gang buster." Dr. Vincent Nardiello had X-ray plates showing a broken ninth rib on Lou's left side, a dislocated tenth rib, a torn cartilage and a possible kidney injury. This last will be looked into today with further Xrays, and if one more is required after that, Lou can easily claim the title of "most-photographed-young-man" in town.

But aside from Nova's ailments, most of which he acquired from a right hand shot in the breadbasket in the fourth round, the situation over the much-billed duration heavyweight champ is virtually unchanged.

For, less than 10 minutes after the kid from the Bronx had treated the California "Adonis" to his going over, Tami's manager, Private Lefty Rimini, and Promoter Mike Jacobs had about decided to toss out previous plans to match Mauriello and Jimmy Bivins, the Cleveland clouter, in January. These two have been regarded as the two top tusslers to keep heavyweight interest alive, now that Joe Louis is working for Uncle Sam and is looking ahead to retirement. (At the moment, you can't quite figure out what Joe has to worry about.)

Now, this is no song-and-dance for Bivins, especially since the elegant waltz the mid-west mauler put on with Lee Savold in the Garden his last time out. But anyone who expects to get a reasonable facsimile of a "duration" champ out of the stew that's been cooking since Louis told the Associated press he figures he's through must put Bivins in the picture in some other spot than just for laughs.

Nova, outweighing his rival by 20 pounds, was a particularly tough detour for Mauriello until Tami came off the floor from a first-round knockdown to make the birdies sing for Lou at 2:34 of the sixth round of their ten-rounder. As a matter of fact, Nova, after toppling Tami for an eight-count, was ahead, three rounds to two, on the Associated Press score card for the five completed heats.

And, while Lou wasn't talking today, his Ray-Ray cheering section (Manager Ray Carlen and Trainer Ray Arcel) both insisted the one body punch in the fourth round did all the damage. Even Lou would insist that as body punch it was shelly worse than being tickled by a feather.

MINERS APPEAL FOR AID

Mexican government experts of the Ministries of Finance, National Economy and Labor are investigating mining conditions following the appeal of a delegation asking federal aid for their families. The delegates, headed by Juan Manuel Elizondo, union secretary general, reported a continued low scale of pay and increased living cost level had jeopardized their economic condition.

Ten per cent of her salary looked pretty small to Mrs. Noel Millet of Little Rock, Ark., when it came to signing up for a payroll savings plan, so she decided to put one hundred per cent of it into War Bonds. Her husband, a United States engineer, buys two bonds a month, and her son, Eugene buys another. She has three brothers and a son Noel in the armed forces.

Chicago Bears, Washington in Playoff Sunday

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Football's most devastating outfit, the Chicago Bears, blew into town today for a final workout before laying their world championship on the line in a National League playoff contest with the Washington Redskins at Griffith Stadium tomorrow.

Even in football-rabid Washington, where it's considered treonable to discredit the Redskins, Chicago ruled at least a 3-1 favorite. To the 36,000-odd fans who have tickets, Sammy Baugh and Company are without a peer, but not even the most enthusiastic can discount the Bears' record of three straight western division titles and two consecutive world championships.

The Bears boast a 1942 record of 11 wins and no losses. Most of their victories were by lop-sided, or at least substantial, scores.

In winning the eastern division championship, the Redskins chalked up 10 victories and suffered one defeat, the lone loss coming in a deluge that drowned almost everyone except the New York Giants, who won the game without making a first down.

As usual, the Redskins will rely chiefly on Baugh, one of football's greatest passers, and the league's premier kicker. His pitches to Dick Todd, Bob Masterson and Ed Cifers constitute the biggest part of the Washington attack.

For running plays, Coach Ray Flaherty has rigged up a series of formations featuring Ray Hare, Ed Justice and Andy Farkas.

Nobody, least of all Flaherty, is discounting the advantage the Bears will hold.

For more than a week now the game has been a sellout. George Strickler, the league's publicity director, has been besieged for tickets ever since he established headquarters here two days ago. The scalpers reportedly are asking—and getting—as high as $15 for a regular $4.40 ticket.

Chile has just created the Institution for Education of the Farm Laborer, which will distribute through the state police illustrated publications to teach agricultural workers rules of health, sanitation, agriculture, livestock, civic duties and rights, and also Chilean history.

Northern Pacific Coast Champions Building Around Three Lettermen

(AP Features)

Corvallis, Ore. — Oregon State College, champion of the Northern division of the Pacific Coast conference last season, expects to continue its winning ways this year although only three lettermen are returning. Last year's great team lost to Stanford, eventual national champion, in the last three minutes of the conference playoff game.

The Beavers have consistently had one of the strongest teams in the league for several seasons. Over the past 10 years, Coach A. F. "Slats" Gill has led the Orangemen to four Northern division titles and one Pacific Coast conference crown.

Gill is building his latest team around the three returning lettermen. They are Don Durdan and Lewis Beck, guards, and Glen Warren, 6 feet, 5 inch forward. Backing these men will be several varsity reserves from last year's club and a number of promising sophomores and transfers.

Durdan and Beck played outstanding ball last year and should be the best guard combination in the conference. How well the Beavers go this winter will depend to a large extent how much support these two get from the rest of the squad.

LEWIS BECK

Durdan is one of the few great all-around athletes in the country, already having won three letters each in football and baseball.

Beck was rated the outstanding sophomore in the league last winter. Stanford picked him on its all-opponent team, a high honor for a sophomore. He was one of the leading conference scorers last season with 127 points. Beck has the ability to shoot over the defensive man's head or drive past him for a lay-in shot. He stands 5 feet, 11 inches tall and weighs 156.

The other veteran, Warren, moves around very well for a tall man and is deadly under the basket.

Bolstering the squad strength are three promising transfers, Fred Winter, Don Cecil and Bob Howard. Winter has the makings of a good guard. Cecil is a fair shot and a good ball handler and Howard shoots well and is aggressive.

Most promising of the men up from last year's freshman team are Erland Anderson, 6 feet, 4 inch center, and Mickey Brophy, a forward.

Coach Gill rates the University of Washington as the team to beat in the Northern division race this season. The Huskies lost only two men from last year's club which finished right behind Oregon State. The Orange mentor predicts, however, that Washington State, Oregon and the Beavers will give the Huskies a fight.

Drop Indictment Against Alleged Still Operators

New York, Dec. 11 (Special)—On motion in Federal Court here today of Assistant United States Attorney Richard Burke, the indictment pending since November 28, 1938, against three men charged with liquor law violations at Esopus was dismissed by Judge Alfred C. Coxe.

The defendants, Victor Tony Konopskie, August J. Greco and Michael Greco, were charged with possession on June 28, 1938, on the Kirton Farm, New Salem road, Esopus, of a 1,000-gallon unregistered still and 10,500 gallons of mash.

The fact that they pleaded guilty to another liquor indictment and were sentenced, led to the present motion.

Cowboys' Back Quite a Guy

DOC MOBLEY
Hardin-Simmons Star

(AP Features)

Abilene, Tex.—There is no set formula for Rudolph Mobley's runs that have made him the nation's leading ball-carrier.

Little Doc hits anywhere and it doesn't matter where—he goes through or around.

The Hardin-Simmons back has scored from every angle imaginable and has averaged close to 30 yards on each touchdown run.

Take the Baylor game when the Cowboys shocked the Southwest by beating the burly Bruins. It was Baylor's line that held Texas A. and M. nine times inside the 20, yet Doc scored standing up—12 yards around right end.

Against North Texas State, he went over left guard for 67 yards, right tackle for 40, and left tackle for 24.

The touchdown against Southern Methodist, another shock to the Southwest, came the hard way. Little Doc slanted off left tackle for two yards and the counter. It was over a mass of players.

Against Texas Mines he circled right end for five. His second touchdown was over the middle for 78. He san over left guard for the other one, going 34.

In the Arizona game, when he gained 278 yards he broke over left guard for 72 and went around left end for 15 to score touchdowns.

And so on.

Not that Mobley is fast because both of his understudies — Gayle Campbell and Johnny Allsup—can beat him in a foot race.

He just breaks with the snap and is moving at top speed with a few steps, as the Sun Bowl fans will see.

Quite a guy is the 155-pound wrath of the plains country.

Job Placements Here During Month of October

New York, N. Y. — Non-agricultural placements by the United States Employment Service showed a five per cent increase from September to October. During the same period, however, because of the normal seasonal drop in farm labor demand, total placements fell off six per cent.

Total placements numbered 84,565 as compared with 80,769 for September, according to Richard C. Brockway, director for New York of the United States Employment Service of the War Manpower Commission. In contrast to this over-all trend, non-agricultural placements rose from 74,289 to 77,973.

Improved activity in New York city was responsible for the pick-up in non-agricultural placements, according to Mr. Brockway. Upstate, non-agricultural activity was practically unchanged and would have declined had it not been for the placement of about 4,400 students and business men as "week-end commandos" at the Quartermasters Supply Depot in Schenectady. Placements dropped noticeably at Geneva and Syracuse because large construction projects in these areas are nearing completion.

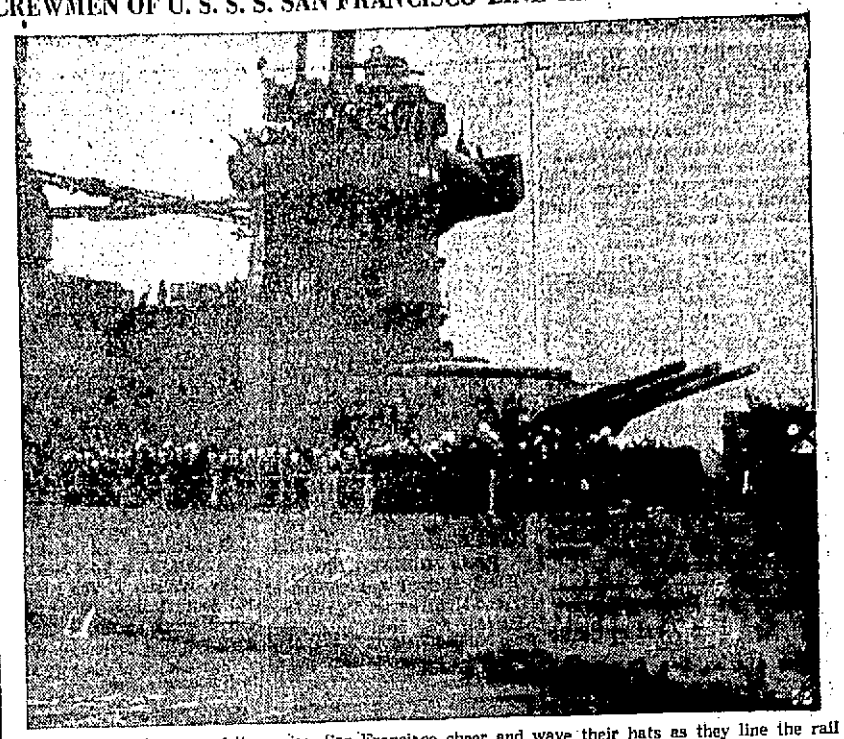

In Kingston, a total of 257 workers were placed in jobs, as compared with 463 in September. Of these 63 were in manufacturing, 51 were in household employment, 189 were in agriculture, and 61 were in miscellaneous employment.

Throughout the state, 40,080 women were placed in non-agricultural jobs in October—an increase of 6 per cent over the September total of 37,819. Of these women, 16,025 went into service occupations such as household employment, work in hotels, restaurants, beauty parlors, etc. The service industry placements were also 5 per cent higher than in September.

Placements of non-white workers in non-agricultural employment totalled 23,840—an increase of 6 per cent over September. Manufacturing firms employed 3,909 of these workers, an increase of 16 per cent over September. This increase occurred almost entirely in New York city.

CREWMEN OF U. S. S. S. SAN FRANCISCO LINE RAIL UPON ARRIVAL

Members of the crew of the cruiser San Francisco cheer and wave their hats as they line the rail when the fighting ship, which defeated a Japanese battleship off the Solomons, sailed into San Francisco harbor for repairs.

SLIPS UNDER GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE

The U. S. cruiser San Francisco, which licked a Japanese battleship in combat off the Solomon Islands early in November, slips under the Golden Gate bridge and into San Francisco harbor. It J. Callaghan of Oakland, Calif., and Captain Cassin Young, the cruiser's skipper, were killed.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

So Near, So Far

Gettysburg, Pa.—Corp. Roy K. Mickley spent 17 months learning invasion tactics. Then, rarin' for action, he headed for North Africa.

Within sight of land his ship was sunk. Another craft rescued him—and steamed off to the United States before he had set foot on African soil.

Rationing Victim

Denver—Sam Paulatos' popcorn wagon disappeared from its customary parking place. He offered police a possible explanation.

A tank on the machine contained three gallons of gasoline.

Total

Fort Morgan, Colo. — There wasn't any question about the success of a test blackout at Holyoke.

Sent by the Army to observe the blackout, Lieut. James R. Norris flew over the little town and never knew it.

Fresh Meat

Pratt, Kas.—To the rescue of meatless meat counters jumps the Kansas rabbit.

Cottontails are being killed and sold in unprecedented numbers, Director Guy Josserand of the State Game Commission acknowledges.

Some hunters are killing as many as 100 a day, selling them at from 10 to 25 cents, dressed, he reported.

Stymied

Ontario, Calif.—As Santa Claus' assistant in charge of his local correspondence, Miss Bertha Schwartzwaelder, head of the city nursing staff, gets some tough assignments. But this one has her stopped completely.

Signed "Helen," the letter read:

"Dear Santa: I am a little girl 18 years old. I want 20 gallons of gasoline, four new tires and a second lieutenant."

Conservation

Lemongrove, Calif.—Speaking of making things go a long way—

A five-pound paper candy box that for 29 years has been used by Mrs. Ivy Stillman Johnson, of Lemongrove, and Mrs. Clella Herbert, of Denver, to exchange Christmas gifts, is en route to the Colorado capital.

Mrs. Johnson expects to receive the well-patched container again next Christmas.

Honor of Representing Far West at Stake

Los Angeles, Dec. 12 (AP)—The honor of representing the Far West in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day was at stake as the U. C. L. A. Bruins came to grips today with their old jinx, Southern California.

The outcome was regarded generally as a tossup, with the breaks likely to determine which shall oppose Georgia and Frankie Sinkwich in Pasadena's stadium.

Southern California hasn't been able this year to beat a team employing the "T" formation and U. C. L. A.'s "QT" adaptation may give the Trojans lots of trouble with Left Halfback Al Solari exploding into the secondary on quick opening plays.

Pacific Coast Conference athletic representatives will select Georgia's opponent in a telephone vote expected to be completed at 9 o'clock (Pacific war time) tonight. If U. C. L. A. wins they undoubtedly will be selected, but they also may be the team if they get no better than a tie. Southern California, likewise, was expected to be the nominee if it wins. It never has lost to the Bruins in nine years.

The consensus seems to be that the game will be a test between the superlative passing of the Bruins' Bob Waterfield, and the versatile (when it works) running attack of the Trojans.

Solari bears the burden of the Bruins' ground offensive. He fits in well with U. C. L. A.'s QT style of attack, and is a threat every time he gets his hands on the ball.

U. S. C.'s Mickey McCardle won his Associated Press All-Conference berth largely on his adeptness as a runner, but he also is a competent passer. And Southpaw Paul Taylor and Bob Musick also are better than average flingers.

William Krum Gets Corporal's Rank in Army

William Krum, a former member of the Kingston police department, now with the U. S. Army Air Force, has been promoted to the rank of corporal.

Corporal Krum is a member of the 1070th Guard Squadron, Army Air Base at Ardmore, Okla. He was the first member of the police department to be drafted, leaving Kingston in August of this year.

His brother, Raymond Krum, who is in the merchant marines, is now stationed at Baltimore, Md. Another brother of Corporal Krum is Thomas A. Krum, who is stationed at Camp Pickett, Va., in the Medical Corps. He also has another brother, George Krum, Jr., who is serving in the State Guard.

All four are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Krum of 611 Abeel street.

Rommel Charged With Vital Role In Coming Fight

must expect hard fighting in the African campaign. Rommel isn't a quitter, and the stubborn resistance of the Axis forces in Tunisia indicates a determination to hang on to the last and at least fulfill the mission of standing off the Allies while Hitler consolidates his defenses at home.

Heavy resistance is fully expected by the British, but so confident are the troops they're anxious to get ahead with the job. As I've already reported to you, General Montgomery, the commander-in-chief of the British Eighth Army, has assured me the Axis will be ousted from Africa, and there's not the slightest doubt that he believes this.

General Montgomery said too in one of his messages to the troops that this will be the decisive battle of the war. However that may be, it certainly is true that the ousting of the Axis from Africa and the consequent breaking of its purchase on the Mediterranean will go far towards preparing Hitler for the coup de grace.

Nellow vs. Robinson

Philadelphia, Dec. 12 (AP)—Manly Servo, rugged little welterweight who has come closer than anyone else to whipping Ray (Sugar) Robinson, will serve as Al Nellow's second when Nellow fights the Harlem negro in Convention Hall Monday night. Servo, on duty with the coast guard, has arranged a 24-hour furlough to be in Nellow's corner. Both Servo and Nellow are managed by Al Weill.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, Dec. 12 — The marriage of Trooper James Benson to Miss Joan Geenen took place at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, December 9, at St. James Church, Milton. The ceremony was performed by Father Joseph Crew and the attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Green.

The Reading Circle met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edgar Boyce. Plans completed for Christmas cheer include a calendar for each boy and nurse from the Presbyterian Church in service. Mrs. Hudson Covert led in appropriate devotions. The reading consisted of a chapter from "Unforgettable Disciples," while members made articles for the church bazaar. Those present were Mrs. M. P. Busch, Mrs. Boyce, Mrs. Covert, Mrs. W. D. Corwin, Mrs. Bertram Dimsey, Mrs. D. S. Haynes, Mrs. A. W. Lent, Mrs. Clarence Rathgeb and Mrs. O. J. Tillson.

Chapter A, P. E. O., will meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. George W. Pratt with Mrs. Clarence Tompkins as assisting hostess. The program on Christmas poetry will be in charge of Mrs. Gordon Wilcox and the annual Christmas party will be held.

The 4-H Club girls have joined the search for salvage, and 2,200 keys have been collected by them and are ready to be turned into the chairman of the War Relief committee of the Highland Council of Church Women, Mrs. James Callahan. Mrs. Callahan has already received 800 from the members of Ida McKinley Council Daughters of America. Another interesting lot of salvage is fur, which is being collected by Mrs. Jesse Alexander. Among the pieces sent to New York in the first two large cartons were three fur coats and a buffalo robe. These skins go to the fur vest project for seamen, where they will be remade by experts. A third carton is ready for shipment. Mrs. G. H. Mackey and Mrs. S. D. Farnham were in charge of salvage sewing this week.

Chapter A, P. E. O. Sisterhood, met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Howard Barton in Milton. Mrs. Irving Rathgeb was the assisting hostess. Mrs. A. W. Lent, a past president of the chapter, presided at the business session, in the absence of the president and vice president. Mrs. Barton concluded her interesting program on Canada, presentation of which had been started at the preceding meeting. Those present were: Mrs. Barton's guests, Mrs. Beardsley and Mrs. Baynard, and members, Mrs. Willard Burke, Mrs. William Lais, Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail, Mrs. Edward Dalby, Miss Lula Clark, Mrs. Robert Cole, Mrs. Wilbur Haviland, Mrs. DeWitt DuBois, Miss Laura Harcourt, Mrs. Clarence Tompkins, Mrs. John F. Wadlin, Mrs. William Maynard, Mrs. William Waterbury, Mrs. Gordon Wilcox, Mrs. J. C. Wygant, Jr., Mrs. Lent. Mrs. Barton's mother presided at the tea table.

Mrs. Franklin Welker and Mrs. Charles Farnham were in New York over Monday night and attended the performance of La Traviata at the Metropolitan.

Miss Margery Mellor returned to Russell Sage in Troy Sunday following two weeks spent with her parents here.

William F. McCarthy is spending this week in Boston on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip T. Schantz were Tuesday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Miller in Newburgh. Mr. Miller, who lived here a few years ago, is connected with Stewart Field as an engineer.

Anthony Aiello left Wednesday for New York where he has a commission as ensign in the Maritime service. Mr. Aiello was at one time with the naval construction battalion but received his honorable discharge owing to physical disabilities.

The Misses Ann Wilcox and Carol Clarke entertained the Junior Music Study Club Saturday afternoon at the home of the former. Present were: The Misses Patricia and Barbara Coy, Frances Swift, Mitzie Coutant, Dorothy Maroldt. Their instructor, Mrs. Faye LeFevre was also present. The meetings are held once a month.

Highland basketball team played Newburgh Tuesday night and was defeated with a score 39 to 26.

Richard McCarthy left Monday for Hartford, Conn., where he will be staff announcer on Station WHTH.

Mrs. Susan K. Ploss entertained the bridge club composed of teachers at the card party Wednesday evening, given by the auxiliary of Holy Trinity Church in Masonic hall.

There were not many people present at the farewell party at the school Tuesday evening. Remarks were made by the Rev. Devello S. Haynes and Webster Langdon. Michael Shopinsky, a soldier home on furlough, also spoke. Those who left Thursday were: Nicholas Marrone, James Bolde, Nicholas Cirtino, Donald Martin, John Marrone, Elmer Palmatier. George P. Muller presented each with the usual gifts.

Will Open Factory

A new factory will open its doors in Kingston, Wednesday December 16, when Jack Paikoff of 121 Downs street will re-open the former Jayson Classics establishment located above the Craft Super Market at 61 O'Neil street. Mr. Paikoff announced this morning that he would open the dress manufacturing factory Wednesday, but he emphasized that it was in no way connected with the former firm which occupied the location. An advertisement appearing in Friday's issue of The Freeman served as a formal announcement of the new factory and offered the opportunity for employment to local citizens.

What It Means

By JOHN GROVER

Winston Churchill's threat and warning to Italy to expect prolonged and destructive bombing wasn't idle talk. And there's plenty left to bomb in Italy, exclusive of Italian morale, which is a prime military objective in itself.

First objective will likely be Italy's network of power plants. Italy is heavily dependent on electric power, and the dams and generating plants are wide open to air attack. Their destruction will in turn increase the need for coal, of which Italy produces only 8/10 per cent of her needs.

The Italian railroad system is of vital importance with Italian merchant ships bottled up in harbor. Italy is already dependent on imports from Germany to eat and to defend herself, as Mussolini admitted when he said Hitler would send anti-aircraft guns and other weapons.

So the rail centers automatically become bomb targets. Freight yards and the rail lines in narrow mountain defiles, where repair is difficult, rank high on the list of air objectives in Italy.

Aqueducts carrying water to Italian industry and Italian homes are endangered. The Apulian aqueduct, from the Appennines above Naples to the almost waterless plains of Apulia, supplies 250 communities. Its destruction would present a major problem.

Italian mines in Tuscany, Istria and Sardinia produce important contributions to the metal-starved Axis war machine. Bauxite, iron, copper, zinc, lead and silver are some of them. Mine structures above ground are duck soup for bombers.

Italian heavy industry all down the Po valley, in Naples and to a degree around Rome, will come in for attention in Churchill's air blitz. The shipyards at Naples and Genoa can't be bomb-proofed. The textile industry's loss would hit at the cold Axis legions in Russia.

These are all legitimate military objectives. Their destruction would subtract from the primary ability of the Axis to wage war. The corollary result, the destruction of Italian morale, is no less important.

The mass evacuation of Genoa and Turin indicates that civilian morale has been badly shaken. The British could "take it" in the 1940-41 blitzes, because the Nazis suffered heavy plane losses. The Italians, never very keen about the war, have seen R. A. F. planes get away almost scot free.

Evacuation to rural regions of comparative safety will not solve the morale problem. Italians are on a minimum subsistence ration of meat, food and other necessities now. Aerial disruption of transport that prevents imports of the rations the Nazis dole out will additionally lower Italian morale. So will further family disruption, increased living costs for split families and the like.

Italy is strictly on a hot spot, squarely in the sights of Allied bombardiers.

Program for Week At the Y. W. C. A.

Members of the T.N.T. Club will have their annual Christmas party at the Y.W.C.A., following their regular club meeting on Tuesday evening. The cast of the play, "The Right Answer," will have an important rehearsal, during which time the party committee will also meet. An attractive program of games and carols has been arranged, and refreshments will be served. Miss Genevieve Monteleone is in charge and will be assisted by members of the social committee.

The Junior Married Women's Club will have a Christmas party at the Y.W.C.A. on this coming Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, at which time the girls of the Wassaic Colony will be their guests. At their last meeting the members had as guest speaker, Miss Louise VanWagenen, who spoke on Hawaii. Having lived there for many years, she had a wealth of intimate stories of the people and their life and customs. She also exhibited many pictures and articles that had been given her by her Hawaiian friends. She still is in close touch with many people there and told of the great hospitality that is being shown to the American service men The meeting closed with a social hour.

In gentle tones, the officials blasted dreams of a supposed supply of clocks on the civilian market.

"There isn't any," they said. "In fact, the situation is so bad in some sections that folks are moving into hotels where they can be called in the morning."

Other areas are experimenting with a South American whistle system which rouses an entire neighborhood at an hour selected by vote. But they admitted this would not help the night and graveyard shift workers.

Restaurants Are Required to Keep December Reports

Albert E. Oliver, District Manager, Albany District Office of Price Administration stated today that institutional establishments registered under the coffee or sugar regulations are now required to keep records for the entire month of December, of persons, served, gross dollar revenue and amounts used of a number of commodities during the month and amounts on hand at the close of the month of these same commodities, in accordance with General Rationing Order No. 2, issued by the Office of Price Administration.

Although no special forms have been issued at the present time, a separate record for each establishment must be kept, containing the following information:

Number of persons served. If a person eats more than once at the establishments, he shall be counted separately each time.
